84th Congress Returns Today

Election-Year Problems Big And Numerous

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — The 84th Congress returns tomorrow for what is shaping up as a seven-month's tug of war for political advantage.

Its election-year problems are big and numerous, including such touchy matters as tax cuts, farm prices, Social Security expansion, aid to schools, assistance to foreign nations, and highway construction.

It will tackle these problems in an atmosphere crackling with politics, for on the floors of the Senate and the House will be fought the preliminary battles in the war between Democrats and Republicans for control of the White House and Congress in November's elections.

No one expects politics to be relegated to the sidelines in a year in which the voters will choose a President, a vice president, 32 senators and all 435 representatives.

Democrats In Control

Democrats go into the session in control of both branches of Congress and with high hopes of winning the White House. They outnumber Republicans 230 to 203 in the House and 49 to 47 in the Senate, with two Democratic House vacancies.

Republicans hope President Eisenhower will run for another term. They are counting on his popularity to carry them back to the congressional dominance they won in 1952 and lost in 1954.

If the President doesn't choose to run, the political overtones of the new session could be heightened by intraparty maneuvering for control of the GOP.

The session is due to end late in July. The opening weeks probably will be dull. But the fireworks should start earlier than usual, for the preliminary organization delays won't be encountered. The coming session is a continuation of the Congress that adjourned last August.

Organization Carries Over

The same organizational structure carries over, as does all legislation not acted on finally in 1955. Committees already are set up. The party leaders will be the same.

Democrat Sam Rayburn of Texas, will preside over the House, with Reps. Joseph W. Martin (R-Mass) the minority leader, and John W. McCormack (D-Mass) the majority boss.

Wielding the gavel in the Senate will be Vice President Richard M. Nixon of California. Bossing the rival political camps will be Sens. Lyndon B. Johnson, Texas Democrat, and William F. Knowland, California Republican.

GETS MILLION — Miss Hazel Boostrom, of suburban Riverside outside Chicago, became a millionaire overnight through the will of her former boss, Alfred E. Forrest, Chicago insurance executive. After taxes and specific bequests, she will receive $1,279,968. Miss Boostrom also was secretary to Forrest's father, who founded the firm.

Israeli Premier Tells Parliament War Threatens

JERUSALEM, Jan. 2 (AP)—Premier David Ben-Gurion told Parliament today the Middle East is a "whirlpool of disturbances" and Israel must be ready for the danger of imminent war. But he added it would be "serious mistake to say war is unavoidable."

The 69 - year - old Premier addressed Parliament after intensive behind-closed-doors political conferences here. As a result of these conferences Ben-Gurion's Socialist Mapai party established a special committee last Thursday to hammer out a comprehensive plan to guide Israel through the crisis facing Israel as a result of a flow of arms to Egypt and possibly other Arab countries, from Communist sources.

Criticized By Press

Previously, Ben-Gurion had been criticized by the independent liberal newspaper Haaretz of Tel Aviv on the ground that an Israeli attack on Syrian army positions east of the Sea of Galilee on Dec. 11 was an act "dangerously close to dictatorship."

U.N. truce observers reported 56 Syrians and six Israelis were killed.

The paper charged Ben-Gurion ordered the attack without consulting other Cabinet ministers, and that it affected adversely Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett's mission to Washington to obtain arms to match Egypt's supply from Czechoslovakia.

Poling Debated

Political sources here have said that debate in the Mapai party has been between an "activist" policy advocated by Ben-Gurion and one of restraint urged by Sharett.

In his speech Ben-Gurion told Parliament "All members of the Cabinet without exception are firmly opposed to a war to be initiated by us. We did not want it in 1948 either. It was forced upon us by the Arab rulers whose armies invaded this country in order to set at naught the decisions of the United Nations Assembly and to destroy the state of Israel on the day it was established.

"Keeping the peace is preferable even to victory in war."

Algerian Rebels Kidnap Garrison

ALGIERS, Algeria, Jan. 2 (AP)—Algerian nationalist rebels carried out one of their most daring attacks early today—the kidnapping of an entire French garrison of 13 men only 20 miles from the busy city of Algiers. Thus far the bodies of six have been found.

The attack came on a day when trouble was expected because of the national election in France.

It was the first time rebels struck in force so near the country's capital and seat of government.

Reports from the scene tonight said the remaining seven men are still missing. Considerable forces of French troops rushed to the area in pursuit.

The attack occurred at 2 a.m. No alarm was received from the post. It was not until a wounded French soldier staggered into the village of Marechal Foch, five miles away, that an alarm was raised.

The post—Hill 616—was held by Algerian riflemen under the command of a young second lieutenant. There were in addition a French noncommissioned officer, five French soldiers and six Algerians.

A second post nearby was attacked at the same time. Its garrison managed to beat off the rebels. One was wounded and taken prisoner.

Highway Toll Over Holiday Sets Record

At Least 319 Killed In Traffic Mishaps; 66 Perish In Fires

[By The Associated Press]

Death on the highways set a record in the closing hours Monday for a three-day New Year's holiday.

A nationwide survey by The Associated Press showed that at least 319 were killed in traffic mishaps between 6 p.m. (local time) Friday and 9:30 p.m. (EST) Monday. The previous record of 317 was set in 1953-54.

In other violent deaths, 66 died in fires and 61 in miscellaneous accidents. The toll from all causes was 446. The counting covers the period from 6 p.m. (local time) Friday to midnight Monday.

Yule Toll Set Record

The record was the second of the year. The traffic toll of 609 during the three-day Christmas holiday set a record for any holiday period.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, said, "it certainly is discouraging that here is another record broken in the wrong direction."

However, Dearborn noted "the toll still apparently is going to fall well below our preholiday estimate of 420.

"Thus, it seems that all this effort by news media and law enforcement people has at least saved a sizeable number of lives," he said.

15 Killed In Maryland

Traffic deaths during the New Year's period invariably fall below those of the Christmas season.

The record traffic toll for any New Year's holiday was set in the four-day period in 1852-53 at 407.

The toll by states, with deaths by traffic, fire and miscellaneous listed in that order, included:

Maryland 15 0 0, West Virginia 4 2 3, Pennsylvania 12 1 5.

Two Baltimore 'Drapes' Seized In Youth's Death

BALTIMORE, Jan. 2 (AP)—Police today arrested two young "drapes" and charged them with the knife slaying of a 19-year-old Western Maryland College freshman, Gaither Lee Fischbach Jr.

Officers called it a case of "drapes getting even with a square."

Young Fischbach graduated from City College here last June and planned to enter the Methodist ministry.

Arrested and charged with killing him were 17-year-old Charles Orem, a store clerk, and 16-year-old Richard P. Westcott.

Fischbach stumbled into his home in southwest Baltimore about 2:10 a.m. Sunday. His mother, Mrs. Rheba Fischbach, heard him calling her, rushed downstairs and found the boy bleeding from a chest wound.

"A boy stabbed me," he told her before he lost consciousness. He died before the ambulance his family called could get him to St. Agnes Hospital.

The youth had been to a family party at the home of Lemuel S. Eichner Saturday night.

67th Tournament Of Roses Draws Million Spectators

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 2 (AP)—More than a million people stood for hours today and thrilled to the 67th Tournament of Roses, which neighboring Burbank won by depicting in flowers the start of the universe.

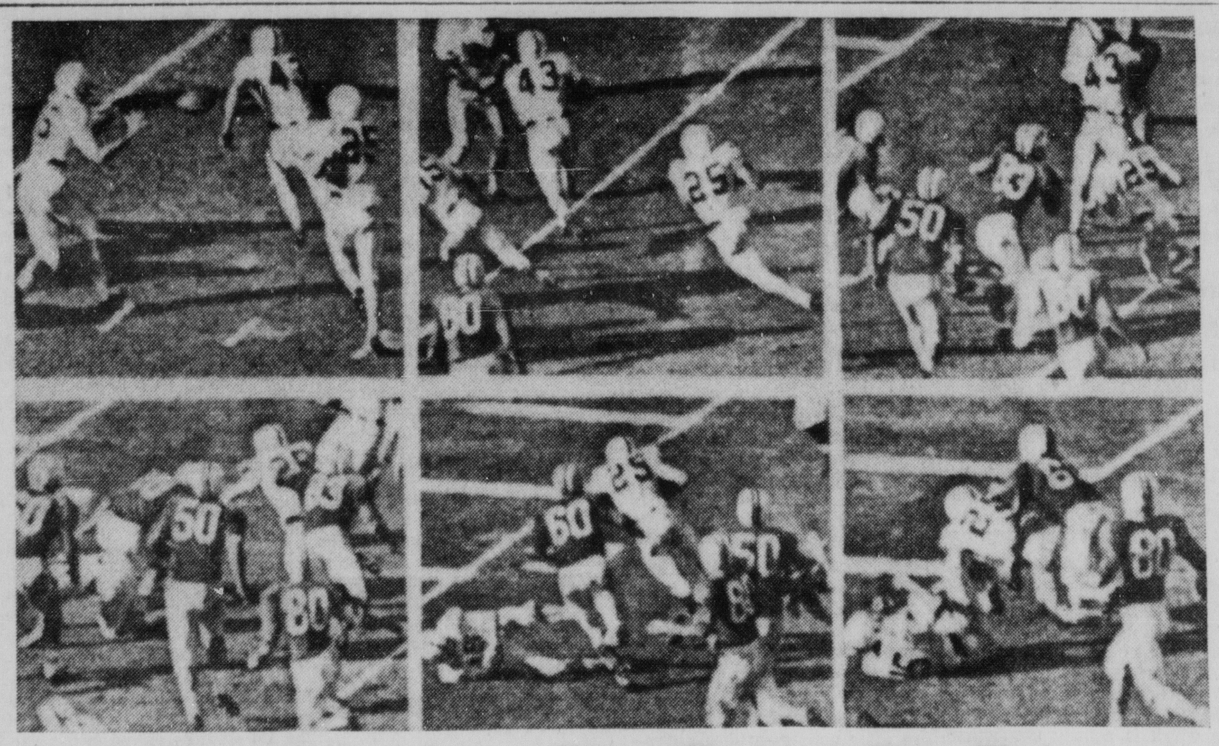

It was Pasadena's annual New Year's treat, a spectacular floral procession which started back in 1890 as a village celebration in which members of a hunt club decorated their buggies with homegrown flowers. Today's event was televised nationally.

There were 61 floats from as far away as Sweden—which won the competition among nations—rolling majestically along a jam-packed six-mile route. Interspersed were 20 smartly stepping bands, including the 100-man unit of the U. S. Air Force from Washington, D.C.; 200 horses valued with their equipment at 3½ million dollars; movie and TV celebrities, drum majorettes and beauty queens.

The weather was sunny and snappy. Spectators who jammed every inch of standing room along curbs by 4 a.m.—five hours before the parade started—wore heavy clothing including in some cases parkas, ski clothing and arctic overshoes. Temperatures were in the upper 30s in the early morning.

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson led the parade as grand marshal. In the reviewing stand with their wives were U. S. Chief Justice Earl Warren, California Gov. Goodwin J. Knight and Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams—here to see also the Michigan State-UCLA football game in the Rose Bowl a few hours later.

Also watching were Gens. Omar Bradley and Mark Clark.

The Touchdown That Turned The Tide

Farm And Retail Price Spread Up 83% Since 1945

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson said today the spread between what the farmer receives for his products and the price paid by the housewife has increased 83 per cent since 1945.

Benson released a report by Agriculture Department experts which attributed the increased gap between farmer-consumer prices to rising costs of handling food all along the line from farm to market.

In announcing last month that he had requested the study, Benson said he had discussed the problem with President Eisenhower and both were agreed it must be determined "whether or not prices paid by consumers contain improper or excessive marketing charges and profits."

Farmer's Share Declines

The experts reported that the spread between farm and retail prices of food has been a primary factor in the decline in the farmer's share of the consumers' retail food dollar from a high of 53 per cent in 1945 to an average of 41 per cent in 1955.

Farmer income has been declining during the past several years. The department recently said farm prices were 7 per cent below those of a year ago. Prices paid by the farmer for things he needs have not come down proportionately.

The spread between farm and retail food prices, today's department report said, has widened primarily because of a substantial increase in all costs of performing marketing services since 1945.

Wage rates were reported up almost 100 per cent over 1945, freight rates and other costs—packaging materials, containers, fuel, equipment, rents and such—up about two-thirds. State and local property taxes have increased substantially.

Marketing Bill Soars

Benson said the nation's food marketing bill increased from 9 billion dollars in 1940 to 32 billion dollars in 1955. Several factors were listed as accounting for the 23-billion-dollar increase:

1. A 40 per cent rise in the volume of food handled. This accounts for four billion dollars of the increase.

2. A general increase in all prices and costs has roughly doubled the charges for marketing operations. This accounts for 13 billion dollars of the increase.

3. Payments for marketing services that did not exist in 1940 account for six billion dollars of the increase.

W. C. Handy, "Blues" Composer, In Hospital

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—W. C. Handy, 82, composer of "The St. Louis Blues," "Memphis Blues" and dozens of others, is in Sydenham Hospital recovering from an intestinal ailment.

"His present condition is complicated by hypertension and a mild stroke which he suffered over a year ago," said his physician, Dr. Jesse J. Greene.

Handy, now blind, was admitted to the hospital Saturday. The doctor said he has improved somewhat since then.

Sooners, Mich. State, Ga. Tech, Rebels Win

By International News Service

Oklahoma, college football's national champion, did what the experts said they would yesterday but what many others hoped they wouldn't.

The Sooners not only beat Maryland in the Orange Bowl but virtually routed the nation's second-ranked team, by a score of 20 to 6.

Bud Wilkinson's split T powerhouse trailed, 6 to 0, at halftime but his jet-propelled backs fairly ripped the country's best defensive team to shreds in the second half, ending the 15-game winning streak of Jim Tatum's team and extending their own to 30.

Oklahoma forged 79 yards in eight plays for the first touchdown and 47 yards in 17 plays to get the next. Tommy McDonald plunged from the three for the first score and Jay O'Neal from about the one for the second.

Another halfback — Tatum said they had just too many backs, who never let up—by the name of Carl Dodd pulled a desperate fourth-period Maryland pass down on Oklahoma's 12 yard line and raced 82 yards down the sidelines to score the third touchdown.

Maryland's only touchdown came in the second period when Ed Vereb took a pitchout, streaked to his right and then retraced his steps and around left end 15 yards.

Dave Kaiser booted a field goal in the waning seconds of play to give the Spartans of Michigan State a 17-14 victory over the University of California at Los Angeles Bruins in the Rose Bowl.

It was a heart-breaker for the Bruins, who had come from behind a few minutes earlier to knot the score behind the passing of Ronnie Knox.

Elsewhere around the country, Mississippi upset Texas Christian and All-American Jim Swink, 14 to 13, in the Cotton Bowl and Georgia Tech scored its fifth straight post-season win—a 7-to-0 shutout of Pittsburgh's eastern champions in the Sugar Bowl.

In the Sun Bowl, underdog Wyoming upset Texas Tech 21-14.

Sailor Is Held In Girl's Slaying

CLEVELAND, Jan. 2 (AP)—Police today learned the name of the girl whose nude body was found on an East Side baseball diamond on New Year's Day. She had been beaton to death.

The victim was identified as Carol Martin, 21. Her body was viewed at county morgue by her sister, Mrs. John Ruggerio, who saw a sketch of the slender brunette's features in a Cleveland newspaper along with a description of the clothes she wore.

Held in the slaying was William Miller, 24, Navy boatswain. Detectives said he admitted beating and stripping her after she refused his advances.

Miller, who said he picked up the girl at a bar, did not know the name of the victim.

The sailor, who was home on Christmas leave prior to shipping out for Formosa, was taken to the prison ward at City Hospital for treatment of his right hand, which was badly swollen and cut.

Detectives said he spent time in a Navy psychiatric ward last year after threatening to kill his estranged wife, Louise, who lives with their year-old daughter in Huntington, W. Va. Mrs. Miller, 22, who expects another child in July, said she still loves her husband because "he fathered my children."

Ex-Mental Patient Admits Killing Student

NEWARK, N.J., Jan. 2 (AP)—A 22-year-old former mental patient picked up for routine questioning while sitting in a car with two young women admitted to police today the killing of a Texas A&M senior Friday night.

"I murdered that guy in Texas," police quoted Ronald Edward Menter Sr., 22, as saying. Menter told officers he shot Jan David Broderick, 20, of the Panama Canal Zone, during a drunken brawl.

Man Killed In Gun Battle With Police

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 2 (AP)—A 52-year-old man armed with two shotguns was killed today in a gun battle with four policemen.

Three of the policemen were struck by shotgun pellets. Two suffered superficial wounds on the hands. The third was not believed injured seriously.

The dead man was identified as Leander Bennett, a Negro. He was struck down by riot guns, police said, as he fired upon the officers from the rear porch of his home.

Prisoners Riot For Over Hour At Moundsville

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Jan. 2 (AP) — An estimated 20 prisoners, some of them armed, rioted and held a guard hostage for an hour today at the State Penitentiary. Five or six guards were beaten, three of them requiring hospital treatment.

Asst. Deputy Warden Roy Adkins said the trouble broke out about 1:30 p.m. (EST) and lasted about an hour and 15 minutes. He reported shortly before 5 p.m. that the men believed to be involved had been returned to their cells and no more trouble was anticipated.

Hostage Not Harmed

Guard Burdell Kirland was held hostage for an hour by the rioting convicts in the prison's south hall, but was not harmed. Adkins said the three guards were "just roughed up."

Tom Poldelco and Noah Gilkerson were in good condition at Reynolds Memorial Hospital, Glen Dale. The third guard, Gay Criner, was treated and released from the hospital.

The south hall, about 300 feet long and 40 feet wide, houses about 600 of the prison's total 1,700 population.

Adkins said about 100 windows were broken along the back side of the hall.

Two Balk At Movie

In Charleston, Treasurer L. Steele Trotter of the State Board of Control—which administers the penitentiary and other institutions—said the men were being lined up to go to a movie this morning. At that time, two of them didn't want to go, and got into a fight with a guard.

The trouble died down soon afterward, Trotter said, and the men went on to the movie. After noon lunch, the rioting broke out.

Warden Orel J. Skeen, who missed most of the action, arrived at the penitentiary shortly before 5 p.m.

Skeen said there would be disciplinary action "as drastic as the law permits."

Quad Boys Born At Lancaster, Pa.

Hohenwarter, who is employed in a post office sub station, had been partially prepared for the day's big event. His wife, Regina, 26, had expected twins.

Doctors placed the four arrivals—born one month prematurely—in incubators and gave all four an excellent chance to survive.

The Hohenwarters have two other children, a boy and a girl.

Ike Works On His Budget Message To Lawmakers

KEY WEST, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP)—President Eisenhower worked more than two hours today on his budget message to Congress and arranged to discuss it further tomorrow with Budget Director Rowland Hughes.

Hughes and two other White House aides—Economic Adviser Gabriel Hauge and Special Counsel Gerald P. Morgan—were arriving by plane from Washington tonight for a morning conference.

The convalescing President's work on the budget message today was a change of plans. He originally had intended to work on a final draft of the State-of-the-Union message which goes to Congress Thursday, 48 hours after the lawmakers reconvene.

But arrival of the State-of-the-Union draft from Washington was delayed until tonight. So Eisenhower shifted to study of the budget message—which may provide some indication of whether administration intends to call for a tax cut this presidential election year.

The budget message will be sent to Congress about the middle of the month.

Both Hughes and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey have expressed hope a tax reduction will be possible in the fiscal year starting July 1. But both also have said it all depends on whether the budget can be balanced.

Hughes reported in November that it looked the budget should be balanced in both the present and the new fiscal years. Without giving any specific figures, he said at that time that the budget for fiscal 1957 "will be in the same general area" as the expected spending figure for the current year—that is, around 63 billion dollars.

Poujade-Led Tax Revolters Also Surprise

Groupings Of Faure And Mendes-France Caught In Squeeze

PARIS, Tuesday, Jan. 3 (AP)—Communists on the extreme left and Pierre Poujade's tax revolters on the right, showed a surprising surge of strength in returns early today from the French general elections. Their gains spread dismay among the larger moderate elements who were locked in bitter and undecided rivalry among themselves.

The center groupings appeared to be caught in a squeeze in yesterday's balloting for a new National Assembly.

Communists and Poujade's small businessmen's movement picked up many more seats than had been accorded them in pre - election prophecies.

The Communists had been expected to make some gains, but in the early returns they were doing far better than predicted.

25 Million Votes Cast

The forces of Poujade, who vaulted to fame with his campaign for a strike against paying taxes, were making their first measurable political effort.

Premier Edgar Faure in the early morning hours called the Poujade showing "a most striking development."

Faure's right center grouping and ex-Premier Pierre Mendes - France's so - called Republican Front were not doing as well as expected on the basis of the early returns from an election in which 25 million votes were cast.

If the election trend continues France may have an Assembly more ungovernable and difficult in handling the nation's urgent business than the outgoing deputies were. The new Assembly is elected to a five-year term.

The latest Associated Press tabulation showed 252 deputies elected thus far, all but five of them from metropolitan France, where 544 Assembly seats were being disputed.

Reds Capture 73 Seats

Of the 252 seats the Communists had 73, among them 24 captured by other parties in 1951.

At the same time the Poujadists had 18 seats and were still moving ahead. Pre-election estimates gave them only four to eight seats.

Mendes - France's Republican Front collected 72 seats. Within this coalition are Socialists who picked up four places to take 46 seats.

Faure's grouping which included parties that backed his government were credited with 89 seats.

The independent peasant element of Faure's coalition picked up seven seats to make its total 50. The Catholic Popular Movement (MRP) elected 36 deputies but lost three places taken in 1951.

Ney Named Saar Prime Minister

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar, Jan. 2 (AP)—Hubert Ney, a 63-year-old Roman Catholic lawyer who never held public office before, was chosen Prime Minister today for a new Saar government pledged to early union with West Germany.

Named as president of the Saar Parliament was 48-year-old ex-Nazi Heinrich Schneider, also a lawyer and a driving force in the campaign to make this long-disputed border territory the 10th state of the Bonn Republic.

They were picked by leaders of the three pro-German parties which united in a coalition to govern the Saar. Until last July, these parties were outlawed from political activity under French occupation. They engineered an overwhelming plebiscite defeat of a plan to Europeanize the Saar last October and went on to capture 33 of the 50 seats in Parliament in an election Dec. 18.

Plane Crash Wipes Out Family Of Four

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Jan. 2 (AP)—A man, his wife and their two daughters were killed today in the crash of their single-engine Cessna 170 near this central Illinois city.

They were Paul E. Ward, 42, a sales representative; his wife, Harriett, 40, and their daughters, Joan, 14, and Sharon, 8. They lived in Hinsdale, a Chicago suburb.

Flying in heavy overcast, the light plane crashed from about 200 feet and burst into flames. All but one wing and a part of the tail section of the plane were destroyed.

The Wards were returning home after spending the weekend with relatives in St. Louis.

At Least 319 Killed In Traffic Mishaps; 66 Perish In Fires

Death on the highways set a record in the closing hours Monday for a three-day New Year's holiday.

The record traffic toll for any New Year's holiday was set in the four-day period in 1852-53 at 407.

The toll by states, with deaths by traffic, fire and miscellaneous listed in that order, included:

Maryland 15 0 0, West Virginia 4 2 3, Pennsylvania 12 1 5.

Two Baltimore 'Drapes' Seized In Youth's Death

BALTIMORE, Jan. 2 (AP)—Police today arrested two young "drapes" and charged them with the knife slaying of a 19-year-old Western Maryland College freshman, Gaither Lee Fischbach Jr.

Officers called it a case of "drapes getting even with a square."

Young Fischbach graduated from City College here last June and planned to enter the Methodist ministry.

Arrested and charged with killing him were 17-year-old Charles Orem, a store clerk, and 16-year-old Richard P. Westcott.

Fischbach stumbled into his home in southwest Baltimore about 2:10 a.m. Sunday. His mother, Mrs. Rheba Fischbach, heard him calling her, rushed downstairs and found the boy bleeding from a chest wound.

"A boy stabbed me," he told her before he lost consciousness. He died before the ambulance his family called could get him to St. Agnes Hospital.

The youth had been to a family party at the home of Lemuel S. Eichner Saturday night.

67th Tournament Of Roses Draws Million Spectators

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 2 (AP)—More than a million people stood for hours today and thrilled to the 67th Tournament of Roses, which neighboring Burbank won by depicting in flowers the start of the universe.

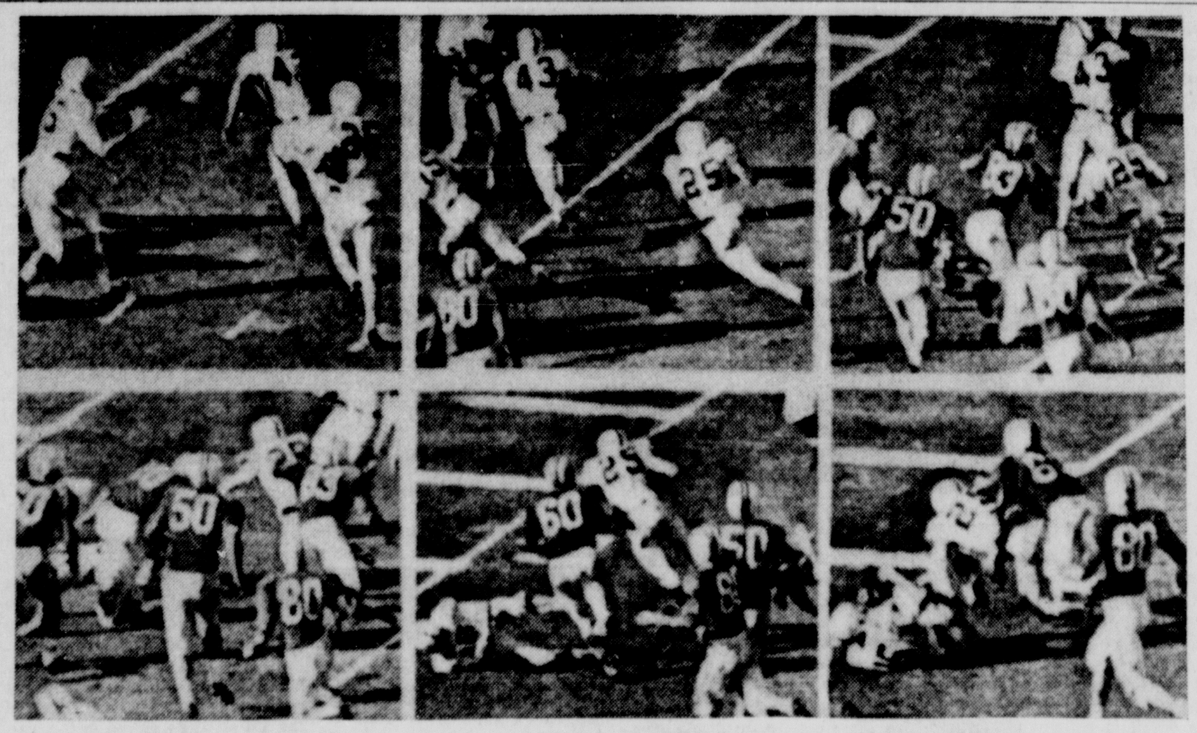

It was Pasadena's annual New Year's treat, a spectacular floral procession which started back in 1890 as a village celebration in which members of a hunt club decorated their buggies with home-grown flowers. Today's event was televised nationally.

There were 61 floats from as far away as Sweden—which won the competition among nations—rolling majestically along a jam-packed six-mile route. Interspersed were 20 smartly stepping bands, including the 100-man unit of the U. S. Air Force from Washington, D.C.; 200 horses valued with their equipment at 3½ million dollars; movie and TV celebrities, drum majorettes and beauty queens.

The weather was sunny and snappy. Spectators who jammed every inch of standing room along curbs by 4 a.m.—five hours before the parade started—wore heavy clothing including in some cases parkas, ski clothing and arctic overshoes. Temperatures were in the upper 30s in the early morning.

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson led the parade as grand marshal. In the reviewing stand with their wives were U. S. Chief Justice Earl Warren, California Gov. Goodwin J. Knight and Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams—here to see also the Michigan State-UCLA football game in the Rose Bowl a few hours later.

Also watching were Gens. Omar Bradley and Mark Clark.

The Touchdown That Turned The Tide

Farm And Retail Price Spread Up 83% Since 1945

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson said today the spread between what the farmer receives for his products and the price paid by the housewife has increased 83 per cent since 1945.

Benson released a report by Agriculture Department experts which attributed the increased gap between farmer-consumer prices to rising costs of handling food all along the line from farm to market.

In announcing last month that he had requested the study, Benson said he had discussed the problem with President Eisenhower and both were agreed it must be determined "whether or not prices paid by consumers contain improper or excessive marketing charges and profits."

Farmer's Share Declines

The experts reported that the spread between farm and retail prices of food has been a primary factor in the decline in the farmer's share of the consumers' retail food dollar from a high of 53 per cent in 1945 to an average of 41 per cent in 1955.

Farmer income has been declining during the past several years. The department recently said farm prices were 7 per cent below those of a year ago. Prices paid by the farmer for things he needs have not come down proportionately.

The spread between farm and retail food prices, today's department report said, has widened primarily because of a substantial increase in all costs of performing marketing services since 1945.

Wage rates were reported up almost 100 per cent over 1945, freight rates and other costs—packaging materials, containers, fuel, equipment, rents and such—up about two-thirds. State and local property taxes have increased substantially.

Marketing Bill Soars

Benson said the nation's food marketing bill increased from 9 billion dollars in 1940 to 32 billion dollars in 1955. Several factors were listed as accounting for the 23-billion-dollar increase:

1. A 40 per cent rise in the volume of food handled. This accounts for four billion dollars of the increase.

2. A general increase in all prices and costs has roughly doubled the charges for marketing operations. This accounts for 13 billion dollars of the increase.

3. Payments for marketing services that did not exist in 1940 account for six billion dollars of the increase.

W. C. Handy, "Blues" Composer, In Hospital

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—W. C. Handy, 82, composer of "The St. Louis Blues," "Memphis Blues" and dozens of others, is in Sydenham Hospital recovering from an intestinal ailment.

"His present condition is complicated by hypertension and a mild stroke which he suffered over a year ago," said his physician, Dr. Jesse J. Greene.

Handy, now blind, was admitted to the hospital Saturday. The doctor said he has improved somewhat since then.

Five Killed In Crash

LIMA, Peru, Jan. 2 (AP)—A bus and a truck collided between Ica and Puerto Pisco last night, killing five persons and injuring 13.

Sooners, Mich. State, Ga. Tech, Rebels Win

[By International News Service]

Oklahoma, college football's national champion, did what the experts said they would yesterday but what many others hoped they wouldn't.

The Sooners not only beat Maryland in the Orange Bowl but virtually routed the nation's second-ranked team, by a score of 20 to 6.

Bud Wilkinson's split T powerhouse trailed, 6 to 0, at halftime but his jet-propelled backs fairly ripped the country's best defensive team to shreds in the second half, ending the 15-game winning streak of Jim Tatum's team and extending their own to 30.

Oklahoma forged 79 yards in eight plays for the first touchdown and 47 yards in 17 plays to get the next. Tommy McDonald plunged from the three for the first score and Jay O'Neal from about the one for the second.

Another halfback — Tatum said they had just too many backs, who never let up—by the name of Carl Dodd pulled a desperate fourth-period Maryland pass down on Oklahoma's 12 yard line and raced 82 yards down the sidelines to score the third touchdown.

Maryland's only touchdown came in the second period when Ed Vereb took a pitchout, streaked to his right and then retraced his steps and around left end 15 yards.

Dave Kaiser booted a field goal in the waning seconds of play to give the Spartans of Michigan State a 17-14 victory over the University of California at Los Angeles Bruins in the Rose Bowl.

It was a heart-breaker for the Bruins, who had come from behind a few minutes earlier to knot the score behind the passing of Ronnie Knox.

Elsewhere around the country, Mississippi upset Texas Christian and All-American Jim Swink, 14 to 13, in the Cotton Bowl and Georgia Tech scored its fifth straight post-season win—a 7-to-0 shutout of Pittsburgh's eastern champions in the Sugar Bowl.

In the Sun Bowl, underdog Wyoming upset Texas Tech 21-14.

Sailor Is Held In Girl's Slaying

CLEVELAND, Jan. 2 (AP)—Police today learned the name of the girl whose nude body was found on an East Side baseball diamond on New Year's Day. She had been beaton to death.

The victim was identified as Carol Martin, 21. Her body was viewed at county morgue by her sister, Mrs. John Ruggerio, who saw a sketch of the slender brunette's features in a Cleveland newspaper along with a description of the clothes she wore.

Held in the slaying was William Miller, 24, Navy boatswain. Detectives said he admitted beating and stripping her after she refused his advances.

Miller, who said he picked up the girl at a bar, did not know the name of the victim.

The sailor, who was home on Christmas leave prior to shipping out for Formosa, was taken to the prison ward at City Hospital for treatment of his right hand, which was badly swollen and cut.

Detectives said he spent time in a Navy psychiatric ward last year after threatening to kill his estranged wife, Louise, who lives with their year-old daughter in Huntington, W. Va. Mrs. Miller, 22, who expects another child in July, said she still loves her husband because "he fathered my children."

Ex-Mental Patient Admits Killing Student

NEWARK, N.J., Jan. 2 (AP)—A 22-year-old former mental patient picked up for routine questioning while sitting in a car with two young women admitted to police today the killing of a Texas A&M senior Friday night.

"I murdered that guy in Texas," police quoted Ronald Edward Menter Sr., 22, as saying. Menter told officers he shot Jan David Broderick, 20, of the Panama Canal Zone, during a drunken brawl.

Man Killed In Gun Battle With Police

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 2 (AP)—A 52-year-old man armed with two shotguns was killed today in a gun battle with four policemen.

Three of the policemen were struck by shotgun pellets. Two suffered superficial wounds on the hands. The third was not believed injured seriously.

The dead man was identified as Leander Bennett, a Negro. He was struck down by riot guns, police said, as he fired upon the officers from the rear porch of his home.

Quad Boys Born At Lancaster, Pa.

LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 2 (AP)—The new year got away to an impressive start today for Norman C. Hohenwarter, 27, post office worker. Mrs. Hohenwarter gave birth to quadruplet boys at Lancaster General Hospital.

Hohenwarter, who is employed in a post office sub station, had been partially prepared for the day's big event. His wife, Regina, 26, had expected twins.

Doctors placed the four arrivals—born one month prematurely—in incubators and gave all four an excellent chance to survive.

Prisoners Riot For Over Hour At Moundsville

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Jan. 2 (AP) — An estimated 20 prisoners, some of them armed, rioted and held a guard hostage for an hour today at the State Penitentiary. Five or six guards were beaten, three of them requiring hospital treatment.

Asst. Deputy Warden Roy Adkins said the trouble broke out about 1:30 p.m. (EST) and lasted about an hour and 15 minutes. He reported shortly before 5 p.m. that the men believed to be involved had been returned to their cells and no more trouble was anticipated.

Hostage Not Harmed

Guard Burdell Kirland was held hostage for an hour by the rioting convicts in the prison's south hall, but was not harmed. Adkins said the three guards were "just roughed up."

Tom Poldelco and Noah Gilkerson were in good condition at Reynolds Memorial Hospital, Glen Dale. The third guard, Gay Criner, was treated and released from the hospital.

The south hall, about 300 feet long and 40 feet wide, houses about 600 of the prison's total 1,700 population.

Adkins said about 100 windows were broken along the back side of the hall.

Two Balk At Movie

In Charleston, Treasurer L. Steele Trotter of the State Board of Control—which administers the penitentiary and other institutions—said the men were being lined up to go to a movie this morning. At that time, two of them didn't want to go, and got into a fight with a guard.

The trouble died down soon afterward, Trotter said, and the men went on to the movie. After noon lunch, the rioting broke out.

Warden Orel J. Skeen, who missed most of the action, arrived at the penitentiary shortly before 5 p.m.

Skeen said there would be disciplinary action "as drastic as the law permits."

Ike Works On His Budget Message To Lawmakers

KEY WEST, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP)—President Eisenhower worked more than two hours today on his budget message to Congress and arranged to discuss it further tomorrow with Budget Director Rowland Hughes.

Hughes and two other White House aides—Economic Adviser Gabriel Hauge and Special Counsel Gerald P. Morgan—were arriving by plane from Washington tonight for a morning conference.

The convalescing President's work on the budget message today was a change of plans. He originally had intended to work on a final draft of the State-of-the-Union message which goes to Congress Thursday, 48 hours after the lawmakers reconvene.

But arrival of the State-of-the-Union draft from Washington was delayed until tonight. So Eisenhower shifted to study of the budget message—which may provide some indication of whether administration intends to call for a tax cut this presidential election year.

The budget message will be sent to Congress about the middle of the month.

Both Hughes and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey have expressed hope a tax reduction will be possible in the fiscal year starting July 1. But both also have said it all depends on whether the budget can be balanced.

Hughes reported in November that it looked the budget should be balanced in both the present and the new fiscal years. Without giving any specific figures, he said at that time that the budget for fiscal 1957 "will be in the same general area" as the expected spending figure for the current year—that is, around 63 billion dollars.

Poujade-Led Tax Revolters Also Surprise

Groupings Of Faure And Mendes-France Caught In Squeeze

PARIS, Tuesday, Jan. 3 (AP)—Communists on the extreme left and Pierre Poujade's tax revolters on the right, showed a surprising surge of strength in returns early today from the French general elections. Their gains spread dismay among the larger moderate elements who were locked in bitter and undecided rivalry among themselves.

The center groupings appeared to be caught in a squeeze in yesterday's balloting for a new National Assembly.

Communists and Poujade's small businessmen's movement picked up many more seats than had been accorded them in pre - election prophecies.

The Communists had been expected to make some gains, but in the early returns they were doing far better than predicted.

25 Million Votes Cast

The forces of Poujade, who vaulted to fame with his campaign for a strike against paying taxes, were making their first measurable political effort.

Premier Edgar Faure in the early morning hours called the Poujade showing "a most striking development."

Faure's right center grouping and ex-Premier Pierre Mendes - France's so - called Republican Front were not doing as well as expected on the basis of the early returns from an election in which 25 million votes were cast.

If the election trend continues France may have an Assembly more ungovernable and difficult in handling the nation's urgent business than the outgoing deputies were. The new Assembly is elected to a five-year term.

The latest Associated Press tabulation showed 252 deputies elected thus far, all but five of them from metropolitan France, where 544 Assembly seats were being disputed.

Reds Capture 73 Seats

Of the 252 seats the Communists had 73, among them 24 captured by other parties in 1951.

At the same time the Poujadists had 18 seats and were still moving ahead. Pre-election estimates gave them only four to eight seats.

Mendes - France's Republican Front collected 72 seats. Within this coalition are Socialists who picked up four places to take 46 seats.

Faure's grouping which included parties that backed his government were credited with 89 seats.

The independent peasant element of Faure's coalition picked up seven seats to make its total 50. The Catholic Popular Movement (MRP) elected 36 deputies but lost three places taken in 1951.

Ney Named Saar Prime Minister

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar, Jan. 2 (AP)—Hubert Ney, a 63-year-old Roman Catholic lawyer who never held public office before, was chosen Prime Minister today for a new Saar government pledged to early union with West Germany.

Named as president of the Saar Parliament was 48-year-old ex-Nazi Heinrich Schneider, also a lawyer and a driving force in the campaign to make this long-disputed border territory the 10th state of the Bonn Republic.

They were picked by leaders of the three pro-German parties which united in a coalition to govern the Saar. Until last July, these parties were outlawed from political activity under French occupation. They engineered an overwhelming plebiscite defeat of a plan to Europeanize the Saar last October and went on to capture 33 of the 50 seats in Parliament in an election Dec. 18.

Plane Crash Wipes Out Family Of Four

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Jan. 2 (AP)—A man, his wife and their two daughters were killed today in the crash of their single-engine Cessna 170 near this central Illinois city.

They were Paul E. Ward, 42, a sales representative; his wife, Harriett, 40, and their daughters, Joan, 14, and Sharon, 8. They lived in Hinsdale, a Chicago suburb.

Flying in heavy overcast, the light plane crashed from about 200 feet and burst into flames. All but one wing and a part of the tail section of the plane were destroyed.

The Wards were returning home after spending the weekend with relatives in St. Louis.

Leaders Claim 7th Army Best Equipped In World

STUTTGART, Germany, Jan. 2 (AP)—The U.S. 7th Army, a bulwark of European defense, reported today it is America's "largest and most modern combat - ready army."

A headquarters review of the past year's accomplishments said: "The U.S. 7th Army in Europe—chief U.S. cog in the NATO 'power for peace' program—has quietly emerged during the past year as the largest and most modern combat-ready army command in the world.

"Today it is the only American field army equipped with the full range of nuclear weapons possessed by the United States for ground force use.

"All year these new weapons and equally important new combat techniques have been integrated into the 7th Army, making it one of the world's key deterrent forces against war."

Atomic power notwithstanding, Lt. Gen. Henry I. Hodes, 7th Army commander, said in the review: "The fighting quality of the individual soldier remains the most important factor in determining the combat effectiveness of any unit."

The review added:

"Thousands of combat - ready and highly skilled troops are the key to 7th Army's strength. They range from hardened patrols working along the eastern border of West Germany to computer specialists who direct the mechanical brains of "Skysweeper" AAA (antiaircraft) guns, that train in the Baltic Sea area.

"These men are the 7th Army's prime interest."

Pushbutton warfare is not yet here, the review said, adding:

"The best possible weapons backed up by highly competent specialists must in turn back up well - trained infantrymen. Only then can there be a feeling of security."

McKeldins Preside At Annual Open House

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 2 (AP)—State and city officeholders and private citizens alike visited Government House today as Gov. and Mrs. McKeldin presided at their traditional New Year's open house.

About 1,000 were on hand to make the tour of the principal rooms on the ground floor and to shake hands with Gov. McKeldin.

British Figures On Red Strength Called False

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Moscow radio tonight accused Britain of falsifying figures about the Red army's strength but failed to come up with any figures of its own.

The broadcast cited a statement by Britain's Central Information Office that Russia has 7½ million men under arms, then added:

"The figure an information office spokesman named is a figment of his own imagination.

Eden Rules Out Mideast Peace Bid To Moscow

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP) — Prime Minister Eden tonight rejected a British Laborite proposal to invite Russia to help keep peace in the Middle East. The proposal was made by Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell at a dramatic meeting with Eden at 10 Downing St. the Prime Minister's residence.

Eden promised to consider a request by the newly appointed leader of the Laborite opposition to have Parliament—now in recess—debate the Conservative government's policy of selling new and old arms to the Israeli's and their Arab neighbors.

Gaitskell proposed a "new approach" to the Soviet Union on the Middle East question. The Russians are making overtures of their own to the Arab world, and Red Czechoslovakia is shipping arms to Egypt through Soviet Black Sea ports.

Eden told Gaitskell he had already explained to Parliament that approaches had been made to the Russians but their "answer was not in the Geneva spirit" and he did not think anything could be gained by a new approach "unless there was a change in the Russian attitude."

The chiefs of Britain's two main political parties met in a crisis atmosphere in the company of their top foreign affairs and defense advisers.

The Eden government is under fire after newspaper disclosures—later officially confirmed—that hundreds of old British tanks and other surplus World War II goods have leaked through to the Middle East.

Egypt has been described as the major buyer in this undercover traffic in second-hand armaments.

Plot Thwarted

GUATEMALA, Jan. 2 (AP)—A plot against the government was thwarted on New Year's Eve, Presidential Press Secretary Carlos Cifuentes Diaz said tonight.

He said that among those arrested was Dr. Luis Galich, former health director in the pro-Communist regime of ousted President Jacobo Arbenz and brother of former Foreign Minister Manuel Galich.

Unmarked Police Cars Cut N. Y. Toll

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—Unmarked police cars, credited with helping hold down automobile accidents in the city over the New Year's weekend, are to become a permanent part of the traffic force.

Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy said today the success of the experiment warrants continued use of the squad.

Through 8 o'clock this morning 759 accidents had been logged in the city, mostly the scraped-fender variety. A total of 354 persons were injured and two killed in 251 of the mishaps.

Westinghouse Talks To Resume

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 2 (AP)—Negotiators plan a new round of peace talks tomorrow in the 12-week-old Westinghouse Electric Corp. strike which 10 Democratic senators said "requires an early Senate inquiry."

Federal Mediator John R. Murray scheduled the meeting between the company and the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers. The last meeting was held Dec. 31.

The big union, one of two striking against the company, represents 44,000 Westinghouse employes. The other striking union is the United Electrical Workers (independent). It represents about 10,500 workers.

Both the IUE and company said there was no progress to report when the negotiations were recessed last Saturday. The UE is scheduled to resume negotiations later this week.

The 10 Democratic senators said: "The stalemate seriously harms not only the best interests of the company, its stockholders and employes, but also the welfare of the country as a whole."

The senators issued a joint statement and spoke of "the deeply disturbing circumstances" of the strike and what they called "the apparent failure of collective bargaining despite many weeks of discussion."

German Armed Forces Nucleus Begins Training

ANDERNACH, Germany Jan. 2 (AP)—The first 1,800 men of the new West German army, navy and air force started training today.

At Andernach, 800 officers and men started a three-month basic training course. At three U.S. Air Force bases 650 future pilots entered courses with Americans as instructors. At Wilhelmshaven, the first 165 volunteers for the navy were organized under command of Lt. Cmdr. U. Reschke, a former U-boat captain. And at Noervenich in the Rhineland, 180 technicians and maintenance men began air force training.

The army trainees at Andernach will become instructors for future training battalions that will serve as a nucleus for the 12-division army. Within a week, the first American weapons to be supplied to the Wehrmacht under the military assistance program will be delivered to Andernach, the Defense Ministry said. These will include rifles, machineguns, pistols and bazookas.

The first group here was organized into four regular army companies, one company of military police, a band and a procurement unit.

Maj. Hans Busch, 40, decorated World War II veteran, welcomed the 800 men. Officers and men alike wear olive-colored fatigue and American-type combat boots with rubber soles.

All the 250 officers and noncommissioned officers are combat veterans of World War II. None of the 550 privates served in the war. Half of them will be commissioned later as officers and half as noncommissioned officers. The big shortage is of lieutenants. The youngest World War II lieutenant is by now 30 years old and considered no longer fit to serve in this rank in the new army.

Women's Clubs' Campaign Curbs Comic Book Sales

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — The General Federation of Women's Clubs today cited what it called definite results in its 15-month-old campaign to drive objectionable comic books off the newsstands.

A report on the campaign based on a questionnaire sent to state federation presidents and to state youth conservation chairmen appears in the January issue of the organization's magazine, the "Clubwoman."

In response to the questionnaire, 12 state federations reported legislation enacted to curb or prohibit the sale of crime, sex or horror books.

The states are Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Louisiana, Maryland, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Washington, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

The magazine reported the Vermont Legislature passed a joint resolution for all agencies of law enforcement "to stem the tide of objectionable publications."

Four states—Maine, South Carolina, Tennessee and Pennsylvania—reported legislation already on the books had been revived or revised.

Other states have set up commissions to study the comic book situation. Minnesota has appropriated $25,000 for a commission to study juvenile delinquency, crime and comics.

The federation takes credit for curbing the total sale of comic books and quotes the Wall Street Journal as saying in October that the books' monthly sales had dropped from a peak of 80 millions to 40 millions.

This "Chicken" Was Worth $1,724

BALTIMORE, Jan. 2 (AP) — Mrs. Mary Burns opened the door of her refrigerator today and reached for a package of chicken backs.

What she got instead was $1,724 in cash.

Mrs. Burns turned the money over to police who checked the poultry store she had visited.

Proprietor Morris Caplan recalled how he had put the day's receipts into a canvas bag, then encased the canvas bag in a paper sack.

Mrs. Burns, it was learned, took the wrong package from the counter in an accidental switch.

Almost Shot By Pants

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP)—A policeman almost shot himself last night with a pair of loaded pants.

Patrolman Fred Golden said he was holding his trousers in one hand and brushing them off with the other when a loose pistol bullet went off in one of the pockets. It missed him.

Louis Owes Over Million In Taxes

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2 (AP)—Joe Louis owes the government "well over $1,000,000 in back taxes" according to an article in Jan. 7 issue of the Saturday Evening Post under the byline "By Joe Louis—as told to Edward Linn." He said his gross purses during his ring career totalled $4,606,721.69.

The article said Louis doesn't actually know how much the tax total is and figures he never can get even because "it's like doing roadwork on a treadmill."

Louis wrote he owed something like $700,000 a year ago on which $544,945 was the original assessment and the remainder interest at 6 per cent. He said a new claim was filed against him Nov. 29, 1955 for $507,610 in taxes and interest.

Leaders Claim 7th Army Best Equipped In World

STUTTGART, Germany, Jan. 2 (AP)—The U.S. 7th Army, a bulwark of European defense, reported today it is America's "largest and most modern combat - ready army."

A headquarters review of the past year's accomplishments said: "The U.S. 7th Army in Europe—chief U.S. cog in the NATO 'power for peace' program—has quietly emerged during the past year as the largest and most modern combat-ready army command in the world.

"Today it is the only American field army equipped with the full range of nuclear weapons possessed by the United States for ground force use.

"All year these new weapons and equally important new combat techniques have been integrated into the 7th Army, making it one of the world's key deterrent forces against war."

Atomic power notwithstanding, Lt. Gen. Henry I. Hodes, 7th Army commander, said in the review: "The fighting quality of the individual soldier remains the most important factor in determining the combat effectiveness of any unit."

The review added:

"Thousands of combat - ready and highly skilled troops are the key to 7th Army's strength. They range from hardened patrols working along the eastern border of West Germany to computer specialists who direct the mechanical brains of "Skysweeper" AAA (antiaircraft) guns, that train in the Baltic Sea area.

"These men are the 7th Army's prime interest."

Pushbutton warfare is not yet here, the review said, adding:

"The best possible weapons backed up by highly competent specialists must in turn back up well - trained infantrymen. Only then can there be a feeling of security."

McKeldins Preside At Annual Open House

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 2 (AP)—State and city officeholders and private citizens alike visited Government House today as Gov. and Mrs. McKeldin presided at their traditional New Year's open house.

About 1,000 were on hand to make the tour of the principal rooms on the ground floor and to shake hands with Gov. McKeldin.

British Figures On Red Strength Called False

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Moscow radio tonight accused Britain of falsifying figures about the Red army's strength but failed to come up with any figures of its own.

The broadcast cited a statement by Britain's Central Information Office that Russia has 7½ million men under arms, then added:

"The figure an information office spokesman named is a figment of his own imagination.

Eden Rules Out Mideast Peace Bid To Moscow

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP) — Prime Minister Eden tonight rejected a British Laborite proposal to invite Russia to help keep peace in the Middle East. The proposal was made by Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell at a dramatic meeting with Eden at 10 Downing St. the Prime Minister's residence.

Eden promised to consider a request by the newly appointed leader of the Laborite opposition to have Parliament—now in recess—debate the Conservative government's policy of selling new and old arms to the Israeli's and their Arab neighbors.

Gaitskell proposed a "new approach" to the Soviet Union on the Middle East question. The Russians are making overtures of their own to the Arab world, and Red Czechoslovakia is shipping arms to Egypt through Soviet Black Sea ports.

Eden told Gaitskell he had already explained to Parliament that approaches had been made to the Russians but their "answer was not in the Geneva spirit" and he did not think anything could be gained by a new approach "unless there was a change in the Russian attitude."

The chiefs of Britain's two main political parties met in a crisis atmosphere in the company of their top foreign affairs and defense advisers.

The Eden government is under fire after newspaper disclosures—later officially confirmed—that hundreds of old British tanks and other surplus World War II goods have leaked through to the Middle East.

Egypt has been described as the major buyer in this undercover traffic in second-hand armaments.

Plot Thwarted

GUATEMALA, Jan. 2 (AP)—A plot against the government was thwarted on New Year's Eve, Presidential Press Secretary Carlos Cifuentes Diaz said tonight.

He said that among those arrested was Dr. Luis Galich, former health director in the pro-Communist regime of ousted President Jacobo Arbenz and brother of former Foreign Minister Manuel Galich.

Unmarked Police Cars Cut N. Y. Toll

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—Unmarked police cars, credited with helping hold down automobile accidents in the city over the New Year's weekend, are to become a permanent part of the traffic force.

Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy said today the success of the experiment warrants continued use of the squad.

Through 8 o'clock this morning 759 accidents had been logged in the city, mostly the scraped-fender variety. A total of 354 persons were injured and two killed in 251 of the mishaps.

Westinghouse Talks To Resume

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 2 (AP)—Negotiators plan a new round of peace talks tomorrow in the 12-week-old Westinghouse Electric Corp. strike which 10 Democratic senators said "requires an early Senate inquiry."

Federal Mediator John R. Murray scheduled the meeting between the company and the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers. The last meeting was held Dec. 31.

The big union, one of two striking against the company, represents 44,000 Westinghouse employes. The other striking union is the United Electrical Workers (independent). It represents about 10,500 workers.

Both the IUE and company said there was no progress to report when the negotiations were recessed last Saturday. The UE is scheduled to resume negotiations later this week.

The 10 Democratic senators said: "The stalemate seriously harms not only the best interests of the company, its stockholders and employes, but also the welfare of the country as a whole."

The senators issued a joint statement and spoke of "the deeply disturbing circumstances" of the strike and what they called "the apparent failure of collective bargaining despite many weeks of discussion."

Landslide Kills Six

MANIZALES, Colombia, Jan. 2 (AP)—Six persons were killed today by a landslide caused by the flooded Patato River. The slide at Mistrato, near here, destroyed several small dwellings. A church was damaged.

German Armed Forces Nucleus Begins Training

ANDERNACH, Germany Jan. 2 (AP)—The first 1,800 men of the new West German army, navy and air force started training today.

At Andernach, 800 officers and men started a three-month basic training course. At three U.S. Air Force bases 650 future pilots entered courses with Americans as instructors. At Wilhelmshaven, the first 165 volunteers for the navy were organized under command of Lt. Cmdr. U. Reschke, a former U-boat captain. And at Noervenich in the Rhineland, 180 technicians and maintenance men began air force training.

The army trainees at Andernach will become instructors for future training battalions that will serve as a nucleus for the 12-division army. Within a week, the first American weapons to be supplied to the Wehrmacht under the military assistance program will be delivered to Andernach, the Defense Ministry said. These will include rifles, machineguns, pistols and bazookas.

The first group here was organized into four regular army companies, one company of military police, a band and a procurement unit.

Maj. Hans Busch, 40, decorated World War II veteran, welcomed the 800 men. Officers and men alike wear olive-colored fatigue and American-type combat boots with rubber soles.

All the 250 officers and noncommissioned officers are combat veterans of World War II. None of the 550 privates served in the war. Half of them will be commissioned later as officers and half as noncommissioned officers. The big shortage is of lieutenants. The youngest World War II lieutenant is by now 30 years old and considered no longer fit to serve in this rank in the new army.

5 Die In Rangoon Fire

RANGOON, Burma, Jan. 2 (AP)—Fire swept through 2,500 huts in Rangoon's squatter area today. Five persons perished.

Women's Clubs' Campaign Curbs Comic Book Sales

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — The General Federation of Women's Clubs today cited what it called definite results in its 15-month-old campaign to drive objectionable comic books off the newsstands.

A report on the campaign based on a questionnaire sent to state federation presidents and to state youth conservation chairmen appears in the January issue of the organization's magazine, the "Clubwoman."

In response to the questionnaire, 12 state federations reported legislation enacted to curb or prohibit the sale of crime, sex or horror books.

The states are Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Louisiana, Maryland, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Washington, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

The magazine reported the Vermont Legislature passed a joint resolution for all agencies of law enforcement "to stem the tide of objectionable publications."

Four states—Maine, South Carolina, Tennessee and Pennsylvania—reported legislation already on the books had been revived or revised.

Other states have set up commissions to study the comic book situation. Minnesota has appropriated $25,000 for a commission to study juvenile delinquency, crime and comics.

The federation takes credit for curbing the total sale of comic books and quotes the Wall Street Journal as saying in October that the books' monthly sales had dropped from a peak of 80 millions to 40 millions.

This "Chicken" Was Worth $1,724

BALTIMORE, Jan. 2 (AP) — Mrs. Mary Burns opened the door of her refrigerator today and reached for a package of chicken backs.

What she got instead was $1,724 in cash.

Mrs. Burns turned the money over to police who checked the poultry store she had visited.

Proprietor Morris Caplan recalled how he had put the day's receipts into a canvas bag, then encased the canvas bag in a paper sack.

Mrs. Burns, it was learned, took the wrong package from the counter in an accidental switch.

Almost Shot By Pants

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP)—A policeman almost shot himself last night with a pair of loaded pants.

Patrolman Fred Golden said he was holding his trousers in one hand and brushing them off with the other when a loose pistol bullet went off in one of the pockets. It missed him.

Louis Owes Over Million In Taxes

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2 (AP)—Joe Louis owes the government "well over $1,000,000 in back taxes" according to an article in Jan. 7 issue of the Saturday Evening Post under the byline "By Joe Louis—as told to Edward Linn." He said his gross purses during his ring career totalled $4,606,721.69.

The article said Louis doesn't actually know how much the tax total is and figures he never can get even because "it's like doing roadwork on a treadmill."

Louis wrote he owed something like $700,000 a year ago on which $544,945 was the original assessment and the remainder interest at 6 per cent. He said a new claim was filed against him Nov. 29, 1955 for $507,610 in taxes and interest.

New Products Cause Celanese Officials To Look Toward 1956 With Optimism

Celanese Corporation of America officials are looking forward to 1956 with considerable optimism, according to a comprehensive cross-section story of the company written by Thomas E. McCarthy, staff reporter of The Wall Street Journal.

The article, one of the most revealing high officials of the company have permitted a newsman to write, is of particular interest to the Cumberland tri-state area in that it provides the answers to a number of questions employes and businessmen have been asking.

Kenneth C. Loughlin, vice president in charge of the textile division, is quoted as saying "I fully expect expansion of our Arnel facilities in the not too distant future. I'm terrifically bullish on Arnel."

Celanese introduced Arnel a year ago, with the claim it provides cloth makers with many of the characteristics of the "highly publicized 'miracle' fibres" at less cost. It's now being marketed by Koret of California in women's dresses, by Handmacher in women's suits and by Munsingwear in tricot lingerie. Current Arnel productive capacity at the company's Rock Hill, N. C., and Cumberland plants is 65 million pounds a year.

The story, written under a Rome, Ga., dateline, follows in part:

Celanese is the third largest U. S. fibre producer—behind the DuPont Co. and American Viscose Corp.—and the top producer of acetate fibre and yarn; it accounts for about half the total acetate output. Fashion moves away from clothing made of acetate fabrics, reflecting competition from cotton and the newer synthetic fibres—nylon, Orlon, Acrilan and Dacron — are largely responsible for the Celanese sales drop to $147 million last year from 1950's high of $232 million. Net income plummeted from $40,300,000 to $6,600,000 over that span, and the Celanese stock on the New York Stock Exchange went from a 1951 high of 58¼ to a low of 16¼ last year. (Book value at 1954's close was figured at $17.16 a share).

Here are a few of the weapons Celanese has been using since the sales reduction began: It's boosting fabrics made of acetate blended with other fibres like cotton, rayon, or the new synthetics. It's bombarding the cloth mills with new acetate products bearing such hopped-up names as Celaperm, Quinticel and Arnel—and channeling acetate fibres into cigaret filters, air filters, wire covering, upholstery battings and other industrial products. From the chemicals and plastics divisions, which account for roughly 30% of the company's business, against 70% for textiles, have come materials for such diverse end products as paints and fishing rods, telephones and boats.

Development of a new process for a heavy, rugged yarn to meet industrial needs was begun by Celanese in 1948. The result, Fortisan-36, for use in such industrial products as conveyor belts, tarpaulins and high-pressure hoses, poses a present or future competitive threat to such fibres as cotton, rayon, nylon, dacron and other materials like glass fibre and steel. Current capacity at Rome is only three million or four million pounds a year (cost to customers: $1.45 or $1.50 a pound), but Celanese says this can be expanded easily to 15 million. Already using Fortisan-36 for V-belts or other mechanical rubber products are Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio; Thermoid Co., Trenton, N. J.; Gates Rubber Co., Denver, Col., and Quaker Rubber Corp., Philadelphia, Pa.

For this year's first nine months, Celanese reported a net profit of $8,695,015 on sales of $132,358,391. This represents a sizable gain from the net of $3,940,456 on sales of $105,361,648 for the like 1954 period. Although this year's January-September earnings top the $6,590,268 posted for all 1954, they remain well below the 1950 net of $40,361,166. And sales figures continue to compare unfavorably with 1950's $232 million.

Celanese and Tennessee Eastman are the only U. S. acetate staple fibre producers, while these two companies plus DuPont and American Viscose make filament yarn. The yarn is manufactured by forcing a honey-like solution called "dope" through tiny holes similar to those in your home shower nozzle. This hardens into filaments upon emerging. The dope is made by dissolving cellulose acetate flake—wood pulp, acetic acid and acetic anhydride — with acetone. The plastics division of Celanese was created to provide an outlet for the flake outside textiles, and the chemical division was formed to provide the company with production of acid aldehyde (used to make acetic acid) and acetone.

Preston Man Held For Theft

A 22-year-old Preston County man, who has been making his home with relatives here in recent weeks, is being held in Preston County Jail, Kingwood, for Hampshire County authorities on a charge of larceny of a motor vehicle.

The man, Robert Lee, was arrested Saturday at the home of his father, Harry Lee, in Rowlesburg after he had returned there to attend the funeral of a sister.

West Virginia State Troper John Coleman, who made the arrest, said Lee will be charged with the theft of a truck from Earl W. Haines, Okonoko, on December 19.

Authorities said Lee was identified as the person who stole the vehicle from Haines through a piece of personal property left in the truck after he abandoned it.

Haines was able to identify the article as he had seen Lee use it when he was at one time employed by the Okonoko man, police said.

Medical Board Rules Miner Has Silicosis

The Medical Board of the State Industrial Accident Commission has ruled that an Allegany County miner is entitled to an award for permanent disability because he contracted silicosis in a mine in which he worked.

The Medical Board made the ruling last week in the case of Thomas Howatt, who was represented by Milton Gerson, attorney.

The accident commission said it will grand Howatt compensation for permanent, total disability within 30 days, in the event the defendant parties in the case do not request a review.

The defendants are the employer, Consolidated Fuel Company, and its insurer, the State Accident Fund.

The board in its decision pointed out that a hearing was held at the Allegany County Court House on September 29. The 66-year-old man last worked March 31, 1949, for the coal company when it shut the mine down.

Testimony revealed he had inhaled dust and sand in his job of cutting coal. In 1951 he saw a doctor when he began to feel weak. No X-rays were taken at that time.

On May 18, 1955, he saw another physician when his weight dropped to 111 pounds, and had a continuation of symptoms of lung trouble. May 20, X-rays taken showed silicosis. However, on May 25 his physician informed him he had silicosis and Howatt's attorney, Gerson, informed the employer of his claim on May 31.

One of the issues was whether the claimant's disability began within three years after the last injurious exposure to silicon dioxide dust while working for Consolidated Fuel Company. The board noted that the definite date of disability cannot be determined. Howatt, the medical group said, consulted a doctor in May 1951, but was not told what was wrong with him. Once he was told he had silicosis, he filed his claim in proper time, the board added.

Garden Club Organized For Area 'Green Thumbs'

INSIDE—Garden Club . . . . . .

Amateur gardeners of the Cumberland area are organizing a group to be known as "The Garden Club of Cumberland" which will apply for membership in the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland. The application will be sponsored by the Garden Club of Hancock and seconded by one of the Frederick clubs.

The club's objective is to provide a way for gardeners to exchange ideas and information and to increase their gardening skill and knowledge of horticulture.

The club will aid conservation programs whenever possible and will plan city beautification programs.

The new club will be co-sponsor with the Woman's Civic Club of the third community flower show in May.

Men and women will be eligible for membership and to qualify, members must be genuine "dirt gardeners" or be willing to help with the projects sponsored by the club.

The first meeting will be held January 9, and business will include adopting a constitution and by-laws and election of club officers. The meeting will be held in the council chamber at City Hall, at 7:30 p. m.

The membership must be necessarily limited and those interested in joining may contact Mrs. Charles Helmrich, at PA 2-2085, or any member of the organization committee.

Charles A. Piper, Arnett Widener, Mrs. George Henderson, Mrs. Rudolph Steinberger, Mrs. Gilbert Miller, Mrs. Porter Collins, Miles G. Thompson and Mrs. William A. Gunter are on the organization committee.

Quality Control Unit To Meet

The Western Maryland Sub-section of the Pittsburgh Section, American Society for Quality Control, will hold its January meeting today at 8 p. m. at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. The program will be preceded by a dinner at 6:30 p. m.

The speaker will be W. E. Andrus Jr. of the International Business Machines Corporation, Endicott, N. Y., who will discuss "Application of Computing Machines to the Solution of Statistical Problems."

In his talk, Andrus will describe the application of the IBM type 650 magnetic drum data processing machine, and will illustrate the machine by examples of statistical problems taken from engineering and quality control activities. Use of other computers will also be discussed.

Andrus joined IBM after graduating from Syracuse University in 1948 with a degree in mathematics. He was transferred to the firm's testing laboratory in 1950 as a test engineer and statistician. Two years later he was transferred to IBM's scientific computation laboratory at Endicott, where he is an associate staff mathematician in charge of a group which handles problems of a statistical nature for IBM's research and development laboratories.

His publications include papers on the use of computing machines for statistical computations and computing techniques in production scheduling problems.

Local Office To Give Assistance To Taxpayers

Mondays and Fridays have been set aside by the Internal Revenue Service for giving assistance to taxpayers filing income tax returns, according to Charles B. Chandler Jr., designated representative for the local office.

Chandler suggests that taxpayers avoid the inconvenience of coming to the tax office by using the telephone as much as possible, if questions arise while they are making out their tax forms at home.

In the event that taxpayers should need more extensive help than can be rendered by telephone, they may visit the tax office in person. It is suggested, however, that they use the designated days mentioned above. On these days, Chandler said, a full staff of assistors will be available to render prompt assistance to all comers. On other days, the taxpayers may have to wait longer because the staff of assistors will be limited.

To clarify the program a little more, Chandler continued, this year offices in the Baltimore District will assign an employe to ask each person as he arrives what kind of assistance he wants. Those who simply want tax forms, or who have just one or two questions to ask, will be separated from those who desire full assistance and given prompt attention. All offices also will adopt "self-help" methods in order to speed up service. Under these methods, each office will provide chairs, tables, pencils and tax forms, so that taxpayers may begin to fill out their own returns. Whenever a taxpayer reaches an item on the form that causes him difficulty, he may ask one of the assistors, who will be stationed in the area to answer questions as they arise. By this means, the Service expects to expedite its assistance program, with substantial savings in the time of both the taxpayers and its own employes.

S. fibre producer—behind the DuPont Co. and American Viscose Corp.—and the top producer of acetate fibre and yarn; it accounts for about half the total acetate output. Fashion moves away from clothing made of acetate fabrics, reflecting competition from cotton and the newer synthetic fibres—nylon, Orlon, Acrilan and Dacron — are largely responsible for the Celanese sales drop to $147 million last year from 1950's high of $232 million. Net income plummeted from $40,300,000 to $6,600,000 over that span, and the Celanese stock on the New York Stock Exchange went from a 1951 high of 58¼ to a low of 16¼ last year. (Book value at 1954's close was figured at $17.16 a share).

Here are a few of the weapons Celanese has been using since the sales reduction began: It's boosting fabrics made of acetate blended with other fibres like cotton, rayon, or the new synthetics. It's bombarding the cloth mills with new acetate products bearing such hopped-up names as Celaperm, Quinticel and Arnel—and channeling acetate fibres into cigaret filters, air filters, wire covering, upholstery battings and other industrial products. From the chemicals and plastics divisions, which account for roughly 30% of the company's business, against 70% for textiles, have come materials for such diverse end products as paints and fishing rods, telephones and boats.

Development of a new process for a heavy, rugged yarn to meet industrial needs was begun by Celanese in 1948. The result, Fortisan-36, for use in such industrial products as conveyor belts, tarpaulins and high-pressure hoses, poses a present or future competitive threat to such fibres as cotton, rayon, nylon, dacron and other materials like glass fibre and steel. Current capacity at Rome is only three million or four million pounds a year (cost to customers: $1.45 or $1.50 a pound), but Celanese says this can be expanded easily to 15 million. Already using Fortisan-36 for V-belts or other mechanical rubber products are Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio; Thermoid Co., Trenton, N. J.; Gates Rubber Co., Denver, Col., and Quaker Rubber Corp., Philadelphia, Pa.

For this year's first nine months, Celanese reported a net profit of $8,695,015 on sales of $132,358,391. This represents a sizable gain from the net of $3,940,456 on sales of $105,361,648 for the like 1954 period. Although this year's January-September earnings top the $6,590,268 posted for all 1954, they remain well below the 1950 net of $40,361,166. And sales figures continue to compare unfavorably with 1950's $232 million.

Celanese and Tennessee Eastman are the only U. S. acetate staple fibre producers, while these two companies plus DuPont and American Viscose make filament yarn. The yarn is manufactured by forcing a honey-like solution called "dope" through tiny holes similar to those in your home shower nozzle. This hardens into filaments upon emerging. The dope is made by dissolving cellulose acetate flake—wood pulp, acetic acid and acetic anhydride — with acetone. The plastics division of Celanese was created to provide an outlet for the flake outside textiles, and the chemical division was formed to provide the company with production of acid aldehyde (used to make acetic acid) and acetone.

Preston Man Held For Theft

A 22-year-old Preston County man, who has been making his home with relatives here in recent weeks, is being held in Preston County Jail, Kingwood, for Hampshire County authorities on a charge of larceny of a motor vehicle.

The man, Robert Lee, was arrested Saturday at the home of his father, Harry Lee, in Rowlesburg after he had returned there to attend the funeral of a sister.

West Virginia State Troper John Coleman, who made the arrest, said Lee will be charged with the theft of a truck from Earl W. Haines, Okonoko, on December 19.

Authorities said Lee was identified as the person who stole the vehicle from Haines through a piece of personal property left in the truck after he abandoned it.

Haines was able to identify the article as he had seen Lee use it when he was at one time employed by the Okonoko man, police said.

Medical Board Rules Miner Has Silicosis

The Medical Board of the State Industrial Accident Commission has ruled that an Allegany County miner is entitled to an award for permanent disability because he contracted silicosis in a mine in which he worked.

The Medical Board made the ruling last week in the case of Thomas Howatt, who was represented by Milton Gerson, attorney.

The accident commission said it will grand Howatt compensation for permanent, total disability within 30 days, in the event the defendant parties in the case do not request a review.

The defendants are the employer, Consolidated Fuel Company, and its insurer, the State Accident Fund.

The board in its decision pointed out that a hearing was held at the Allegany County Court House on September 29. The 66-year-old man last worked March 31, 1949, for the coal company when it shut the mine down.

Testimony revealed he had inhaled dust and sand in his job of cutting coal. In 1951 he saw a doctor when he began to feel weak. No X-rays were taken at that time.

On May 18, 1955, he saw another physician when his weight dropped to 111 pounds, and had a continuation of symptoms of lung trouble. May 20, X-rays taken showed silicosis. However, on May 25 his physician informed him he had silicosis and Howatt's attorney, Gerson, informed the employer of his claim on May 31.

One of the issues was whether the claimant's disability began within three years after the last injurious exposure to silicon dioxide dust while working for Consolidated Fuel Company. The board noted that the definite date of disability cannot be determined. Howatt, the medical group said, consulted a doctor in May 1951, but was not told what was wrong with him. Once he was told he had silicosis, he filed his claim in proper time, the board added.

Garden Club Organized For Area 'Green Thumbs'

INSIDE—Garden Club . . . . . .

Amateur gardeners of the Cumberland area are organizing a group to be known as "The Garden Club of Cumberland" which will apply for membership in the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland. The application will be sponsored by the Garden Club of Hancock and seconded by one of the Frederick ciubs.

The club's objective is to provide a way for gardeners to exchange ideas and information and to increase their gardening skill and knowledge of horticulture.

The club will aid conservation programs whenever possible and will plan city beautification programs.

The new club will be co-sponsor with the Woman's Civic Club of the third community flower show in May.

Men and women will be eligible for membership and to qualify, members must be genuine "dirt gardeners" or be willing to help with the projects sponsored by the club.

The first meeting will be held January 9, and business will include adopting a constitution and by-laws and election of club officers. The meeting will be held in the council chamber at City Hall, at 7:30 p. m.

The membership must be necessarily limited and those interested in joining may contact Mrs. Charles Helmrich, at PA 2-2085, or any member of the organization committee.

Charles A. Piper, Arnett Widener, Mrs. George Henderson, Mrs. Rudolph Steinberger, Mrs. Gilbert Miller, Mrs. Porter Collins, Miles G. Thompson and Mrs. William A. Gunter are on the organization committee.

Quality Control Unit To Meet

The Western Maryland Sub-section of the Pittsburgh Section, American Society for Quality Control, will hold its January meeting today at 8 p. m. at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. The program will be preceded by a dinner at 6:30 p. m.

The speaker will be W. E. Andrus Jr. of the International Business Machines Corporation, Endicott, N. Y., who will discuss "Application of Computing Machines to the Solution of Statistical Problems."

In his talk, Andrus will describe the application of the IBM type 650 magnetic drum data processing machine, and will illustrate the machine by examples of statistical problems taken from engineering and quality control activities. Use of other computers will also be discussed.

Andrus joined IBM after graduating from Syracuse University in 1948 with a degree in mathematics. He was transferred to the firm's testing laboratory in 1950 as a test engineer and statistician. Two years later he was transferred to IBM's scientific computation laboratory at Endicott, where he is an associate staff mathematician in charge of a group which handles problems of a statistical nature for IBM's research and development laboratories.

His publications include papers on the use of computing machines for statistical computations and computing techniques in production scheduling problems.

Local Office To Give Assistance To Taxpayers

Mondays and Fridays have been set aside by the Internal Revenue Service for giving assistance to taxpayers filing income tax returns, according to Charles B. Chandler Jr., designated representative for the local office.

Chandler suggests that taxpayers avoid the inconvenience of coming to the tax office by using the telephone as much as possible, if questions arise while they are making out their tax forms at home.

In the event that taxpayers should need more extensive help than can be rendered by telephone, they may visit the tax office in person. It is suggested, however, that they use the designated days mentioned above. On these days, Chandler said, a full staff of assistors will be available to render prompt assistance to all comers. On other days, the taxpayers may have to wait longer because the staff of assistors will be limited.

To clarify the program a little more, Chandler continued, this year offices in the Baltimore District will assign an employe to ask each person as he arrives what kind of assistance he wants. Those who simply want tax forms, or who have just one or two questions to ask, will be separated from those who desire full assistance and given prompt attention. All offices also will adopt "self-help" methods in order to speed up service. Under these methods, each office will provide chairs, tables, pencils and tax forms, so that taxpayers may begin to fill out their own returns. Whenever a taxpayer reaches an item on the form that causes him difficulty, he may ask one of the assistors, who will be stationed in the area to answer questions as they arise. By this means, the Service expects to expedite its assistance program, with substantial savings in the time of both the taxpayers and its own employes.

Keyser Parking Meter Receipts Total $14,688

Traffic Fines Bring In $3,602

KEYSER — Parking meters in Keyser paid the sum of $14,688.00 in 1955, according to Carl F. Theis, Jr., city clerk.

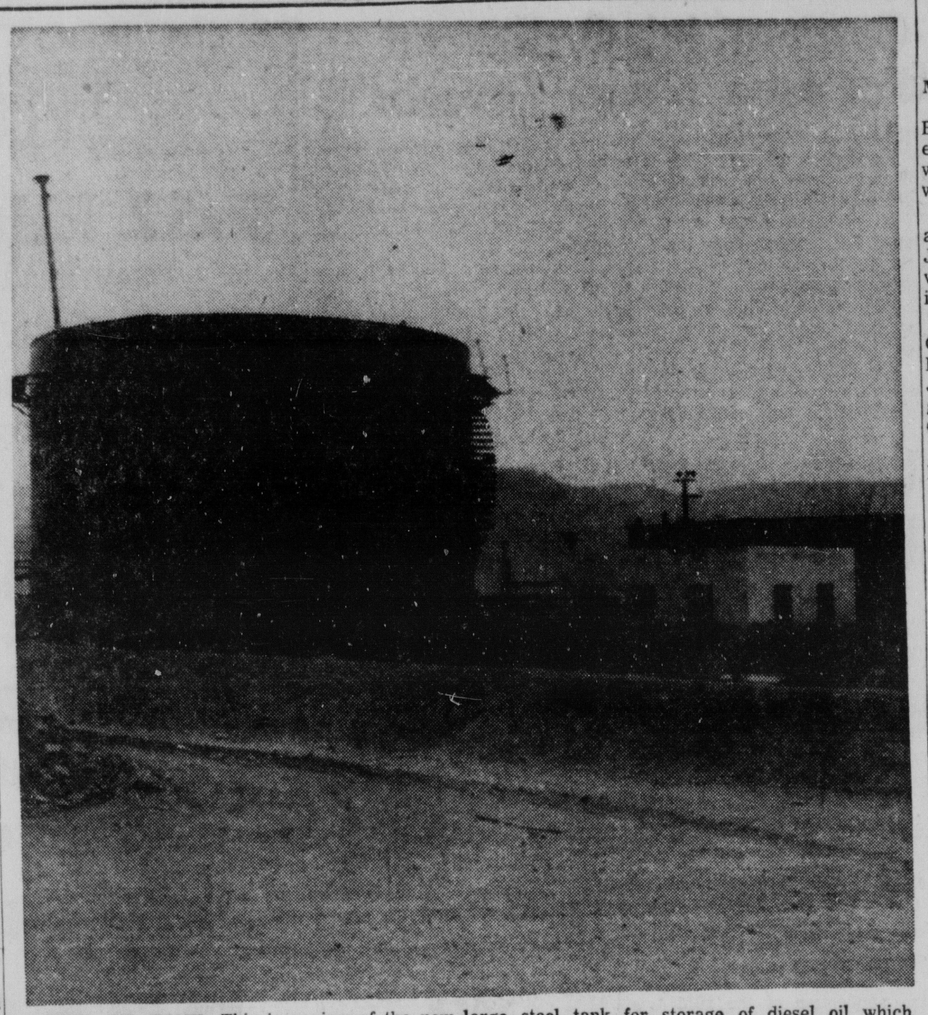

The smallest monthly sum was received last February, $864.16, but the highest month's receipts were in October, when the city coffers were enriched $1,505.46. The second highest take from the meters came in August amounting to $1,437.91, with December following with $1,436.02.

Receipts by months during the year, were as follows:

January, $1,209.45; February, $864.16; March, $1,084.78; April, $1,168.99; May, $1,419.90; June, $1,096.80; July $1,144.74; August, $1,437.91; September, $1,206.55; October, $1,505.46; November, $1,113.24, and December, $1,436.02.

During the past 12 months, traffic fines imposed by Theis, city clerk and police judge, and paid to the city amounted to $3,602.25. The largest sum in fines was paid in June when $470 were collected. The smallest amount, $181 was paid in February.

Payments by months in fines were as follows: January, $268; February $181; March, $352.25; April, $245.75; May, $378; June, $470; July, $255; August, $242; September, $265; October, $412; November, $304, and December $229.25.

DIESEL OIL TANK—This is a view of the new large steel tank for storage of diesel oil which is being built near the Baltimore and Ohio round house in the Keyser West End yards. Its capacity will be between 300,000 and 350,000 gallons.

Baltimore And Ohio Railroad Constructs Diesel Oil Storage Tank In Keyser Yards

KEYSER — Workmen of the George F. Hazelwood Company, Cumberland, are nearing completion of a large steel tank being constructed near the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad round house in the Keyser West End yards for storage of diesel oil for the increased passenger and freight diesel train operation through Keyser.

The tank will hold between 300,000 and 350,000 gallons of diesel oil.

Paul A. Butts, general foreman at the B&O roundhouse, who is in charge of the improvements, which will include numerous underground pipe lines, arranged along the tracks in that area, said diesel engines can be taken care of in large numbers now, including the local area and from distant divisons and shops. The area in the West End yards is a busy place at present, with ditches being cut through the concrete bases in the ground in that area. Further, the improvements are of a permanent nature, so arranged that a number of diesel units may be serviced at one time.

Under the old system several tank cars of fuel were constantly on side tracks for any special call for service to diesels. In the new plan, underground four inch pipe lines are being placed in a network of pipe reaching underground in many directions, and the refueling operation will be directly from the huge tank to the diesels to be serviced, cutting time of operation greatly.

In addition to the huge diesel fuel oil tank, there is a new 9,000 gallon tank installed for containing lubricating oil for the motorized equipment, containing only "lub" oil and placed strategically so that service can be given quickly.

In the old round house, built originally for care of steam locomotives, there is a new look as only the large diesels are handled there. It is understood that many additional changes are to be made in the West End section of the division.

Keyser Parking Meter Receipts Total $14,688

The smallest monthly sum was received last February, $864.16, but the highest month's receipts were in October, when the city coffers were enriched $1,505.46. The second highest take from the meters came in August amounting to $1,437.91, with December following with $1,436.02.

Receipts by months during the year, were as follows:

January, $1,209.45; February, $864.16; March, $1,084.78; April, $1,168.99; May, $1,419.90; June, $1,096.80; July $1,144.74; August, $1,437.91; September, $1,206.55; October, $1,505.46; November, $1,113.24, and December, $1,436.02.

During the past 12 months, traffic fines imposed by Theis, city clerk and police judge, and paid to the city amounted to $3,602.25. The largest sum in fines was paid in June when $470 were collected. The smallest amount, $181 was paid in February.

Payments by months in fines were as follows: January, $268; February $181; March, $352.25; April, $245.75; May, $378; June, $470; July, $255; August, $242; September, $265; October, $412; November, $304, and December $229.25.

DIESEL OIL TANK—This is a view of the new large steel tank for storage of diesel oil which is being built near the Baltimore and Ohio round house in the Keyser West End yards. Its capacity will be between 300,000 and 350,000 gallons.

Baltimore And Ohio Railroad Constructs Diesel Oil Storage Tank In Keyser Yards

KEYSER — Workmen of the George F. Hazelwood Company, Cumberland, are nearing completion of a large steel tank being constructed near the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad round house in the Keyser West End yards for storage of diesel oil for the increased passenger and freight diesel train operation through Keyser.

The tank will hold between 300,000 and 350,000 gallons of diesel oil.

Paul A. Butts, general foreman at the B&O roundhouse, who is in charge of the improvements, which will include numerous underground pipe lines, arranged along the tracks in that area, said diesel engines can be taken care of in large numbers now, including the local area and from distant divisons and shops. The area in the West End yards is a busy place at present, with ditches being cut through the concrete bases in the ground in that area. Further, the improvements are of a permanent nature, so arranged that a number of diesel units may be serviced at one time.

Under the old system several tank cars of fuel were constantly on side tracks for any special call for service to diesels. In the new plan, underground four inch pipe lines are being placed in a network of pipe reaching underground in many directions, and the refueling operation will be directly from the huge tank to the diesels to be serviced, cutting time of operation greatly.

In addition to the huge diesel fuel oil tank, there is a new 9,000 gallon tank installed for containing lubricating oil for the motorized equipment, containing only "lub" oil and placed strategically so that service can be given quickly.

In the old round house, built originally for care of steam locomotives, there is a new look as only the large diesels are handled there. It is understood that many additional changes are to be made in the West End section of the division.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 2 (INS) — The New Year starts off with Alan Ladd writing a check for $100,000 for Frank Guber's as yet unpublished novel, "Buffalo Grass." I asked Alan if this was for himself and he told me that it certainly was meant for him.

The funny thing, Alan confided to me that Sue bought the novel and he didn't know anything about it until after the deal was made. Shows what confidence he has in his wife's ability to pick and choose stories.

He told me that "Buffalo Grass" has a semi-religious background against a western setting. Sue bought the story from the galley proofs and the book is published by the Rinehart publishing company, making its bow to the public in April.

Those two sweethearts of the stage play "Picnic," Janice Rule and Ralph Meeker, will be re-united in their first picture titled "Acapulco," which they'll make for John Bash at Republic.

Janice has just been here to make the deal and to discuss her role with director Paul Henreid. Yes, he's the actor. They'll all go go to Mexico for locations.

Janice said nothing about why she broke her engagement to Farley Granger or why it lasted such a short time. It was a subject she preferred not to mention.

Ursula Thiess, who finished her work in "Bandido" in Mexico and Hollywood, says her next job will be to bone up on her American history. She takes her citizenship test right after the first of the year.

With Ursula a few days ago on the RKO-Pathe lot was her 12-year-old daughter Manuela, who saw her mother work before a camera in America for the first time.

Marge and Gower Champion, who opened Wednesday night at the Cocoanut Grove, stopped by to see me on their way home from rehearsals. Marge was wearing an antique pin with a watch attached that Al Melnick gave her, and she was carrying a handkerchief and cigaret case that Janet Leigh had brought her from Paris.

"When Janet asked me what I wanted her to bring me, I said 'handkerchiefs,' said Marge, "so she brought me a hankie from each country she visited.

Marge told me that Janet and Tony cabled for reservations for their opening at the Grove.

"What they didn't know," laughed Marge, "is that we already had planned a welcome home party for them that night."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

One of the gayest of the holiday parties was the soiree Dorothy and John Haskell gave at the Jimmy Van Heusen home. There was on orchestra and much additional music from the talented guests.

Bing Crosby with Katy Grant was one of the first to arrive. Debbie and Eddie, with Evelyn Keyes and Mike Todd, left early to attend the Marge and Gower Champion opening at the Cocoanut Grove.

Nat "King" Cole did a benefit at the Palladium but hurried back to the party. When he played the piano they kept him right there. He and Patti Page, who was with Charles O'Curran, sang a duet. Barbara Stanwyck danced and danced, and don't think for a minute she wasn't great.

Babson Predicts:

Ike To Be Re-Elected;

17. Commercial farms need not suffer during 1956. Increased efficiency and new machinery should offset price declines.

18. Owners of small scattered farms will suffer during 1956. They have not the volume or capital to cut their costs to offset the reduced prices for their crops.

19. Farmers within 10 or 15 miles of a city can "beat the game" by selling out at the increased prices which their land will bring for subdivisions. Many more well-located close-in farms will become subdivisions during 1956.

20. Taken all in all, the real estate situation should average only moderately below the good level of 1955. However, activity promises to be less and those who have been holding real estate for speculative profits might do well to consider selling.

International Outlook And Politics

21. Russia will keep out of war with us during 1956.

22. There will be one or more small wars during 1956. Both sides of the conflicts will try to secure help in the form of munitions from both Russia and the United States, but none of these will develop into serious conflicts.

23. The "cold war," now existing between Russia and the United States, will continue through 1956.

24. The hydrogen bomb and the guided missile will be the greatest international factors for diplomatic trading during 1956. This trading will hold down the price of big-city property.

25. The Republicans will turn slightly "New Dealish" during 1956 and this will bring on a lively and heated presidential campaign.

26. Democrats are uncertain as to what their policy will be in 1956. Stevenson is a liberal; but more conservative than many Democrats. Kefauver appeals to the masses, while Harriman leans to the left. However, some "dark horse" may run off with the Democratic nomination.

27. Some taxes will be reduced during 1956. These cuts will try to favor all voters slightly; but the largest benefits will go to low-income groups.

28. The farm problem—concerning higher price parities—will be the center of most political fights.

29. The cost of living will increase only slightly during 1956. We, however, must not forget what weather can do to production, prices and even to the stock market.

30. All the above means that there is now in sight no reason for further inflation during 1956. Certainly, I look for no runaway price climb.

Outlook For Commodities

31. I am not a crop expert, but my associates' forecast for 1956 is as follows: (1) Further acreage reductions that will be largely offset by soaring yields resulting from intensified cultivation; (2) expanded farm subsidies that will mildly bolster crop prices and farm income compared with the 1955 averages.

32. Although wheat and corn prices depend upon both shifting weather and foreign conditions, for 1956 I forecast moderately higher prices for the major grains, based on increased subsidies to be voted by Congress.

33. Industrial prices enter the new year on a high plateau and should be well maintained to possibly firmer during the forepart of 1956. Later, as business falters, look for selective easing in this group.

34. Steel in 1956 will average higher in price than for all of last year. Do not look for any price cut in this key metal, even if business slackens.

35. Nonferrous metals in 1956 should move with the Babsonchart Index. High prices in early weeks may be followed by selective weakness. Zinc and lead may be the first to give a tip-off on the coming downtrend, but copper eventually is riding for the greatest fall.

36. Processed and frozen foods should advance only slightly in price as increased labor costs are obsset by new machinery and competition intensifies. Early firmness in textiles should be followed by some late-year weakness.

37. There will probably be more leisure time during 1956. This should help the entertainment group, including sports, travel—and possibly the petroleum industry.

38. During 1956 I hope that school teachers will be paid more money. But, in order not to have increased municipal taxes, school committees must develop some method of either improving the efficiency of the schools, or reducing the time necessary for completing studies.

39. More people will continue during 1956 to return to the help of religion. However, statistics on church membership unfortunately cannot be entirely depended upon.

Stocks And Bonds

40. Interest rates will start the year at high levels, but later I look for some easing to help the building industry. The present administration will not allow high money costs to bring about unemployment.

41. Seasoned dividend-paying stocks will do better in 1956 than the more speculative issues. Stocks will follow individual prospects more closely, rather than the curve of business entirely.

42. There will be one or two bad breaks during 1956. Railroad stocks will move lower. Biggest declines are likely in auto and residential-building-materials stocks. Utilities will hold up best.

43. I am not making any extensive recommendations, but prefer to select smaller, well-seasoned, undervalued situations for security and good long-range prospects. Those in which I have great confidence are the top-ten group of variety chain-store stocks.

44. If the rallies continue to be less impressive than the declines in the stock market, I feel that the money managers will reduce stock margins before long.

45. Bank, insurance company, and certain investment trust stocks should continue to be a refuge for the uncertain investor and for those who seek security and income without reference to prices or marketability.

46. Aircraft stocks in 1956 may suffer from increased government renegotiation. This will be a serious threat if the Democrats win next autumn.

47. Soundly financed natural gas stocks should continue to enjoy good growth during the year ahead.

48. We will hear much more about new industry and new inventions during 1956. Many very important developments are on drawing boards and in test tubes.

49. Canadian stocks have reached their peaks for this cycle. This includes the uranium craze. On the other hand, the time is coming when the greatest stock market profits will be in connection with Canadian stocks.

50. Economic education will continue more and more a factor throughout 1956. The advertising which the New York Stock Exchange is now subsidizing will contine. This will be followed by labor-union and educational programs. The growth of colleges and institutes of business administration will continue. I now see no depression ahead for 1956, but, of course, stock prices will not "grow to the skies" and there must be a sad readjustment some day. Investors are already beginning to switch from common to preferred stocks, and especially to non-taxable bonds.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (INS) — When I was a kid (which accounts for the faraway look on my typing finger) I was wont to try to imagine how things would be in, say 1955. In the early 1920's, 1955 sounded like a year when everybody was a robot, squirted sparks from his ears, and spoke Esperanto.

Well, maybe things like that did come about in the world, but I missed it. But not much else, thanks to good old International News Service. So here go some personal emotions and things seen and/or written about during the past year, as we plunge more or less merrily into 1956 — a year I once envisioned as being populated by people with large heads and almost no bodies at all engaged in a war of attrition against aunts the size of a house:

Thrill of 1955—Eisenhower's performance at Geneva. The deep-domes say it came to naught. The hell it did! The world, even Russia won't forget that for a short, wondrous time this man made peace as exciting as victory in a war.

Chill of 1955—The Geneva desert, pre-dawn, the last week in April, waiting for an A-bomb to go off and wishing—for the first time—that it would. It is a terrible thing to say, but the bomb can defrost you from ten miles away.

GREATEST OBSCENITY OF 1955—The song, "A Teen-Ager's Prayer."

BEST SPORTS MOMENTS — The incredible Amoros-to-Reese-to-Hodges double play off Yogi Berra with two possible Yankee runs on base in the final game of the World Series and Broklyn leading 2-0... Archie Moore, back to the ropes and all but dead, blocking a dozen knockout punches thrown by Rocky Marciano...Ray Robinson, nailing Olson...Nashua beating Swaps at Washington Park...Army proving that the infantry is here to stay by beating an air-minded Navy.

WORST WRITTEN NEWS STORY OF 1955 — The Princess Margaret vs. Peter Townsend romance.

BIGGEST SHOCK — Ike's heart attack. It was less expected than the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

BEST TRIPS—The first flight of TWA's Super-G, to Dublin, Cairo, Luxor, Madrid...The junket to the opening of the Istanbul Hilton...A zip in the Vickers Viscount which Trans Canada turned over to the press for a bit...And riding the coat tails of Hurricane Connie, just above the Dominican Republic, its whip rushing Varig's Rio-to-New York flight along 100 knots faster.

SUPERLATIVE SIGHTS — The bay at Rio from Sugar Loaf...The 4,500 year old Solar boat...Ben Hogan hitting a golf ball...GreerGarson, in color, on "Dateline II"...Robert Frost and Carl Sandburg doing their wonderful stuff...The President sitting easily in the corner of a divan at the White House and enthusing over what his grandson David would see in the twenty-first century.

FUNNIEST SIGHT — Columnists George Dixon and Leonard Lyons riding camels across the Sahara Desert, wearing native headgear.

WORST MOMENT—When a small girl-type doll who, on the day she was to be crowned queen of the Allenhurst (N.J.) Beach Club's junior antics, saw her father hurrying off to an assignment in Chicago, blinked her deep blue eyes and inquired, "Why do you have children, if you always go away and leave them?"

18. Owners of small scattered farms will suffer during 1956. They have not the volume or capital to cut their costs to offset the reduced prices for their crops.

19. Farmers within 10 or 15 miles of a city can "beat the game" by selling out at the increased prices which their land will bring for subdivisions. Many more well-located close-in farms will become subdivisions during 1956.

20. Taken all in all, the real estate situation should average only moderately below the good level of 1955. However, activity promises to be less and those who have been holding real estate for speculative profits might do well to consider selling.

International Outlook And Politics

21. Russia will keep out of war with us during 1956.

22. There will be one or more small wars during 1956. Both sides of the conflicts will try to secure help in the form of munitions from both Russia and the United States, but none of these will develop into serious conflicts.

23. The "cold war," now existing between Russia and the United States, will continue through 1956.

24. The hydrogen bomb and the guided missile will be the greatest international factors for diplomatic trading during 1956. This trading will hold down the price of big-city property.

25. The Republicans will turn slightly "New Dealish" during 1956 and this will bring on a lively and heated presidential campaign.

26. Democrats are uncertain as to what their policy will be in 1956. Stevenson is a liberal; but more conservative than many Democrats. Kefauver appeals to the masses, while Harriman leans to the left. However, some "dark horse" may run off with the Democratic nomination.

27. Some taxes will be reduced during 1956. These cuts will try to favor all voters slightly; but the largest benefits will go to low-income groups.

28. The farm problem—concerning higher price parities—will be the center of most political fights.

29. The cost of living will increase only slightly during 1956. We, however, must not forget what weather can do to production, prices and even to the stock market.

30. All the above means that there is now in sight no reason for further inflation during 1956. Certainly, I look for no runaway price climb.

Outlook For Commodities

31. I am not a crop expert, but my associates' forecast for 1956 is as follows: (1) Further acreage reductions that will be largely offset by soaring yields resulting from intensified cultivation; (2) expanded farm subsidies that will mildly bolster crop prices and farm income compared with the 1955 averages.

32. Although wheat and corn prices depend upon both shifting weather and foreign conditions, for 1956 I forecast moderately higher prices for the major grains, based on increased subsidies to be voted by Congress.

33. Industrial prices enter the new year on a high plateau and should be well maintained to possibly firmer during the forepart of 1956. Later, as business falters, look for selective easing in this group.

34. Steel in 1956 will average higher in price than for all of last year. Do not look for any price cut in this key metal, even if business slackens.

35. Nonferrous metals in 1956 should move with the Babsonchart Index. High prices in early weeks may be followed by selective weakness. Zinc and lead may be the first to give a tip-off on the coming downtrend, but copper eventually is riding for the greatest fall.

36. Processed and frozen foods should advance only slightly in price as increased labor costs are obbset by new machinery and competition intensifies. Early firmness in textiles should be followed by some late-year weakness.

37. There will probably be more leisure time during 1956. This should help the entertainment group, including sports, travel—and possibly the petroleum industry.

38. During 1956 I hope that school teachers will be paid more money. But, in order not to have increased municipal taxes, school committees must develop some method of either improving the efficiency of the schools, or reducing the time necessary for completing studies.

39. More people will continue during 1956 to return to the help of religion. However, statistics on church membership unfortunately cannot be entirely depended upon.

Stocks And Bonds

40. Interest rates will start the year at high levels, but later I look for some easing to help the building industry. The present administration will not allow high money costs to bring about unemployment.

41. Seasoned dividend-paying stocks will do better in 1956 than the more speculative issues. Stocks will follow individual prospects more closely, rather than the curve of business entirely.

42. There will be one or two bad breaks during 1956. Railroad stocks will move lower. Biggest declines are likely in auto and residential-building-materials stocks. Utilities will hold up best.

43. I am not making any extensive recommendations, but prefer to select smaller, well-seasoned, undervalued situations for security and good long-range prospects. Those in which I have great confidence are the top-ten group of variety chain-store stocks.

44. If the rallies continue to be less impressive than the declines in the stock market, I feel that the money managers will reduce stock margins before long.

45. Bank, insurance company, and certain investment trust stocks should continue to be a refuge for the uncertain investor and for those who seek security and income without reference to prices or marketability.

46. Aircraft stocks in 1956 may suffer from increased government renegotiation. This will be a serious threat if the Democrats win next autumn.

47. Soundly financed natural gas stocks should continue to enjoy good growth during the year ahead.

48. We will hear much more about new industry and new inventions during 1956. Many very important developments are on drawing boards and in test tubes.

49. Canadian stocks have reached their peaks for this cycle. This includes the uranium craze. On the other hand, the time is coming when the greatest stock market profits will be in connection with Canadian stocks.

50. Economic education will continue more and more a factor throughout 1956. The advertising which the New York Stock Exchange is now subsidizing will contine. This will be followed by labor-union and educational programs. The growth of colleges and institutes of business administration will continue. I now see no depression ahead for 1956, but, of course, stock prices will not "grow to the skies" and there must be a sad readjustment some day. Investors are already beginning to switch from common to preferred stocks, and especially to non-taxable bonds.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (INS) — When I was a kid (which accounts for the faraway look on my typing finger) I was wont to try to imagine how things would be in, say 1955. In the early 1920's, 1955 sounded like a year when everybody was a robot, squirted sparks from his ears, and spoke Esperanto.

Well, maybe things like that did come about in the world, but I missed it. But not much else, thanks to good old International News Service. So here go some personal emotions and things seen and/or written about during the past year, as we plunge more or less merrily into 1956 — a year I once envisioned as being populated by people with large heads and almost no bodies at all engaged in a war of attrition against aunts the size of a house:

Thrill of 1955—Eisenhower's performance at Geneva. The deep-domes say it came to naught. The hell it did! The world, even Russia won't forget that for a short, wondrous time this man made peace as exciting as victory in a war.

Chill of 1955—The Geneva desert, pre-dawn, the last week in April, waiting for an A-bomb to go off and wishing—for the first time—that it would. It is a terrible thing to say, but the bomb can defrost you from ten miles away.

GREATEST OBSCENITY OF 1955—The song, "A Teen-Ager's Prayer."

BEST SPORTS MOMENTS — The incredible Amoros-to-Reese-to-Hodges double play off Yogi Berra with two possible Yankee runs on base in the final game of the World Series and Broklyn leading 2-0 . . Archie Moore, back to the ropes and all but dead, blocking a dozen knockout punches thrown by Rocky Marciano . . Ray Robinson, nailing Olson . . Nashua beating Swaps at Washington Park . . Army proving that the infantry is here to stay by beating an air-minded Navy.

WORST WRITTEN NEWS STORY OF 1955 — The Princess Margaret vs. Peter Townsend romance.

BIGGEST SHOCK — Ike's heart attack. It was less expected than the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

BEST TRIPS—The first flight of TWA's Super-G, to Dublin, Cairo, Luxor, Madrid . . The junket to the opening of the Istanbul Hilton . . A zip in the Vickers Viscount which Trans Canada turned over to the press for a bit . . And riding the coat tails of Hurricane Connie, just above the Dominican Republic, its whip rushing Varig's Rio-to-New York flight along 100 knots faster.

SUPERLATIVE SIGHTS — The bay at Rio from Sugar Loaf . . The 4,500 year old Solar boat . . Ben Hogan hitting a golf ball . . GreerGarson, in color, on "Dateline II" . . Robert Frost and Carl Sandburg doing their wonderful stuff . . The President sitting easily in the corner of a divan at the White House and enthusing over what his grandson David would see in the twenty-first century . .

FUNNIEST SIGHT — Columnists George Dixon and Leonard Lyons riding camels across the Sahara Desert, wearing native headgear.

WORST MOMENT—When a small girl-type doll who, on the day she was to be crowned queen of the Allenhurst (N.J.) Beach Club's junior antics, saw her father hurrying off to an assignment in Chicago, blinked her deep blue eyes and inquired, "Why do you have children, if you always go away and leave them?"

Mahoney Claims Support Of Harford County Demos

BALTIMORE, Jan. 2 (AP)—George P. Mahoney today claimed the support of leading Democrats in Harford County for his candidacy for the party's nomination for U. S. Senate.

A statement signed by 27 party leaders, released by Mahoney campaign headquarters, said the signers believe that Mahoney's nomination without a primary fight "would be the most certain way to insure a Democratic victory in the coming senatorial election."

It was the second such expression of county support for Mahoney to be made public over the New Year week end. On Saturday, Mahoney headquarters announced it had received the "solid support" of leading party members in Carroll County, including some who had opposed Mahoney in past campaigns.

Among the signers of the Harford County declaration were W. Lester Davis, chairman of the county State Central Committee, and Burdell Preston, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners.

In the Belair area, signers included Mayor John N. Wilkinson Jr., who managed Mahoney's campaign for governor in the county in 1954, and former state Senator and Judge D. Paul McNabb.

Also signing were Mayor Walter McLhinney of Havre de Grace. Delegates Thomas J. Hatem and Charles M. Moore, County Commissioner Abe Davis, and State's Attorney Harry E. Dyer Jr.

Ancient Tomb Will Be Opened In Literary Row

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP)—An ancient tomb in a County Kent church is to be opened in a dramatic search for evidence as to whether Christopher Marlowe wrote all those plays attributed to William Shakespeare.

In an effort to find an answer to a question perplexing scholars the chancellor of the Diocese of Rochester, Percy Lamb, granted permission today for the opening of a tomb believed to contain the bodies of at least four men named Walsingham.

The fourth Walsingham, Thomas, was a patron of Marlowe, the brilliant Elizabethan dramatist, and some scholars have expressed belief he took to his tomb evidence that he and Marlowe had made one William Shakespeare, the young country bumpkin who came down from Avon to pick up a living, the front man in history's greatest literary conspiracy.

Proposals to open the tomb have been made energetically for many months by Calvin Hoffman, New York writer and investigator, but he was not mentioned in proceedings at Chiselhurst today.

Permission to open the tomb was granted to Maj. John Marsham-Townshend, lord of the manor of Scadbury.

O'Connor Urges Salk Vaccine Be Used

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said tonight there may be enough Salk vaccine this year to inoculate all children up to 14 years of age.

However, he added, "this will only be possible if parents and community leaders see to it that the vaccine is used as soon as it is released....

"The vaccine is worthless until it enters the arms of our children. Parents must realize that the time to prevent polio next summer is now."

Former Philadelphia Newspaperman Dies

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2 (AP) — William Simpson, 92, retired business manager of the Philadelphia Bulletin, died in his sleep today at his suburban Bala-Cynwyd home.

Simpson, who had been ill for the last four years, retired in 1938 after being associated with the Bulletin 42 years.

Quarry Production Is Halted By Fire

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 2 (AP)—Production at the Blair Limestone Division plant of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. here is at a standstill following a $100,000 fire that occurred at the stone-crushing tower Friday.

Manager George E. Alter Jr., said, however, that it was unlikely that any layoffs would result since most of the employes have been put to work salvaging material and cleaning up debris preparatory to resumption of production.

The origin of the fire has not been determined. Firemen, after consulting with company officials, estimated the damage at between $100,000 and $150,000.

Ancient Tomb Will Be Opened In Literary Row

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP)—An ancient tomb in a County Kent church is to be opened in a dramatic search for evidence as to whether Christopher Marlowe wrote all those plays attributed to William Shakespeare.

In an effort to find an answer to a question perplexing scholars the chancellor of the Diocese of Rochester, Percy Lamb, granted permission today for the opening of a tomb believed to contain the bodies of at least four men named Walsingham.

The fourth Walsingham, Thomas, was a patron of Marlowe, the brilliant Elizabethan dramatist, and some scholars have expressed belief he took to his tomb evidence that he and Marlowe had made one William Shakespeare, the young country bumpkin who came down from Avon to pick up a living, the front man in history's greatest literary conspiracy.

Proposals to open the tomb have been made energetically for many months by Calvin Hoffman, New York writer and investigator, but he was not mentioned in proceedings at Chiselhurst today.

Permission to open the tomb was granted to Maj. John Marsham-Townshend, lord of the manor of Scadbury.

O'Connor Urges Salk Vaccine Be Used

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said tonight there may be enough Salk vaccine this year to inoculate all children up to 14 years of age.

However, he added, "this will only be possible if parents and community leaders see to it that the vaccine is used as soon as it is released....

"The vaccine is worthless until it enters the arms of our children. Parents must realize that the time to prevent polio next summer is now."

Quarry Production Is Halted By Fire

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 2 (AP)—Production at the Blair Limestone Division plant of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. here is at a standstill following a $100,000 fire that occurred at the stone-crushing tower Friday.

Manager George E. Alter Jr., said, however, that it was unlikely that any layoffs would result since most of the employes have been put to work salvaging material and cleaning up debris preparatory to resumption of production.

The origin of the fire has not been determined. Firemen, after consulting with company officials, estimated the damage at between $100,000 and $150,000.

Red Bomb Picture Is Not Reassuring

When the Russians explode a thermonuclear device, there are no American observers present. But the results cannot be hidden. The big bombs leave traces of their explosion behind in the air. After the data are collected and the experts go over it, they get a pretty good picture of what happened.

So here is the picture of the hydrogen bomb exploded in the Soviet Union in November, based on the conclusions of experts.

It was Russia's most powerful bomb by far, probably with a power between two and four megatons. (A megaton is the equivalent in explosive power of a million tons of TNT.) Some experts think it may have been stronger—eight to 15 megatons. The biggest American bomb yet tested was even more powerful—20 or 21 megatons.

The Soviet bomb was of the "3-F" type—a three-stage operation in which atomic fission as in an atomic bomb produces fusion as in a hydrogen bomb which in turn causes fission in an outer casing made out of the simple, relatively inexpensive uranium 238. This is the most advanced type of thermonuclear bomb.

It was exploded at a great height, estimated at about 85,000 feet, or more than 16 miles. But the question of how it got to that height is unanswered.

Did a plane drop it? The probable ceiling of existing American planes is perhaps 55,000 feet. If Russian planes are that much better, this nation is in very grave danger.

Was it the warhead of a missile. This country has missiles that will go higher, but none with an H-bomb warhead. If Russia has one, she is even further ahead of the U. S. than was thought. (It was already known that Russia probably had a ballistic missile of 800-mile range, which is three or four times the range of the best U. S. model.)

There are, however, two other possibilities. One is that the height of the explosion has been greatly overestimated. The other, which more experts subscribe to, is that the Russian bomb was taken up by a balloon.

The picture is anything but reassuring.

Education Not Propaganda

When the Treasury Department rejected the conservative organization, "For America," as an educational organization, entitled to income tax deductions for its contributors, it was within its rights because the Treasury alone is designated to make such decisions. The gist of the Treasury's ruling is based on the following paragraph:

". . . the Internal Revenue Service takes the position that an organization which advances only a program of previously determined opinions about current problems with a view to creating favorable public sentiment is not educational within the meaning of the law. In furthering its objectives there must be a fair and full presentation of all pertinent facts and information upon which it bases its opinions, whereby the public may reach independent conclusions. To qualify for exemption as "exclusively' educational, both the purposes and activities of an organization must be designed to disseminate knowledge and basic factual material rather than matter supporting only a previously determined opinion."

When one goes through the list of organizations which have been granted the privilege, it is shocking to find that apparently the right hand of the Treasury does not know what the left hand is doing.

For instance, "The Atlantic Union Committee, Inc." is engaged in political activities precisely of the same kind as "For America," but from an internationalist point of view. "For America" is nationalistic. Similarly the "Institute of Pacific Relations," which was so thoroughly investigated by Congress with unfavorable results, enjoyed a tax deduction for contributors. "The Fund for the Republic" engages in the same kind of activities.

The theory behind income tax deductions is that Americans should be encouraged to give to private charities, to hospitals, educational institutions, churches and for other good purposes. The donors may list such contributions and when contributions have been made to those organizations which have received authority from the Treasury, the donors may deduct the contributed amounts on their income tax returns. This is a procedure that is beneficial to the country, for otherwise, privately-financed institutions for the public welfare would have to close their doors.

After more than 20 years of attempted government operations in this field, the foremost American universities are still the privately-endowed and supported ones and the same is true of hospitals and medical schools. As for churches, it is to be hoped that the day never comes in this country when they are financed out of taxes. They should always be financed out of funds provided by their members, but the income tax is making everything of this kind so hard.

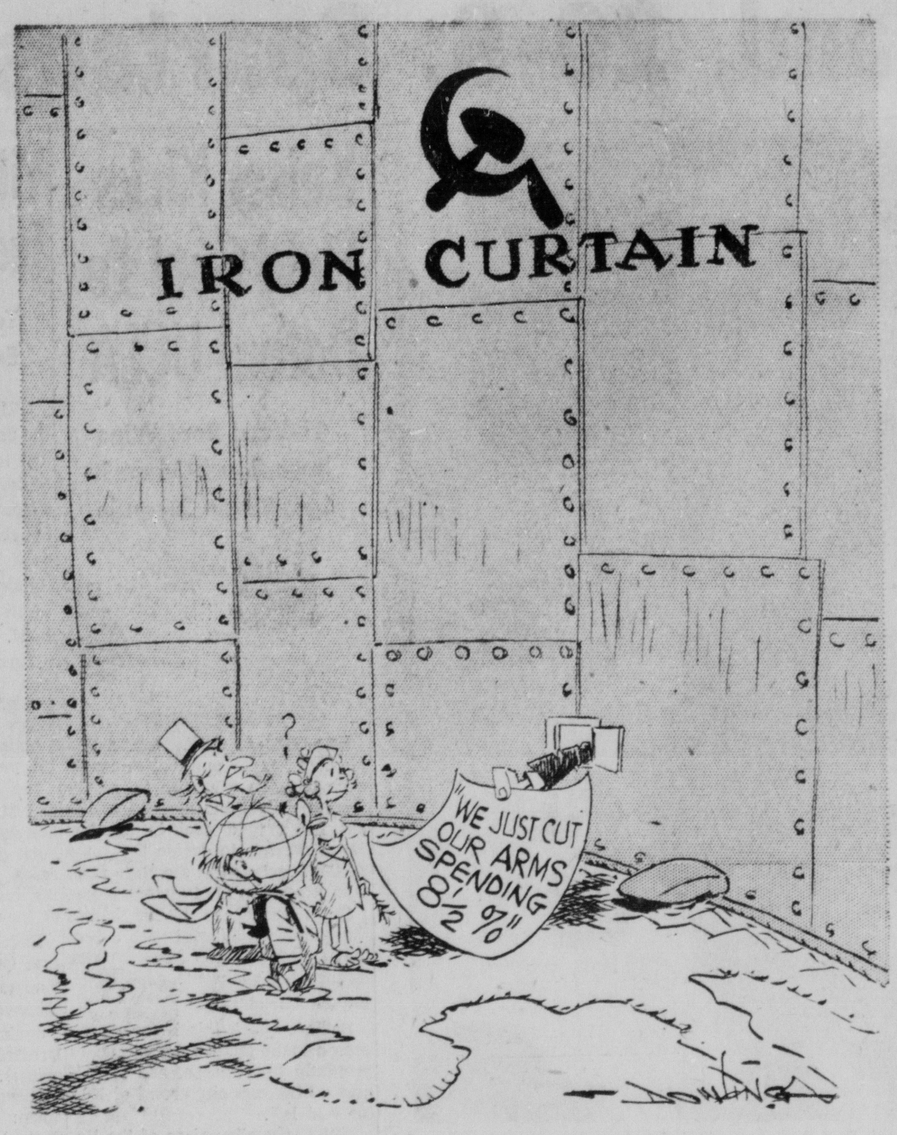

Like everything else, abuses come into the best ideas and income tax deductions for political actions groups are a violation of the objectives of the permitted deduction. Such an organization as "The Fund for the Republic" is a political actions group and contributions to it should not have been tax-free. On the other hand, if contributions to "The Fund for the Republic" are tax-free, then the same rule should be applied to "For America."

It is not difficult to recognize that "For America" would be distasteful to the Eisenhower administration. It is managed by such Republicans as General Robert E. Wood, formerly head of Sears Roebuck, and a consistent conservative Republican; Clarence Manion, former dean of the college of law at Notre Dame University, who had been appointed to high office by President Eisenhower and then dismissed because of his rejection of the Eisenhower team theory that membership on the team involved subordination of conscience; and General Bonner Fellers, an heroic figure in war but a conservative in politics. All these men were Taft Republicans and therefore are personally disliked by the present administration.

Apparently there is no similar dislike for left wing of middle-of-the-road foundations or committees which also "educate" the American people politically. What is required is a rule and not a whim.

Informative Report On The New Soviet Budget

Pearson Predicts: Ike Will Not Run, No War In 1956, Eden Will Resign

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Here are my predictions for the year 1956:

In Europe — Konrad Adenauer the grand old man of West Germany, will step down during the year and be replaced by Fritz Schaeffer, who will not be the strong man Adenauer is. Schaeffer will begin talks with the East German Communists and Russia to unite Germany, whether we like it or not.

Sir Anthony Eden, whose health is worse than the public realizes, will take a much less active part in the British government. The chief duties of prime minister will be performed by R. A. Butler, and by late 1956 or early 1957 Eden will resign.

In The Far East — Red China will not be admitted to the United Nations this year. U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge has secured the backing of enough friendly U.N. members to guarantee this—until after the November elections. Lodge has reported that he can hold the fort until after elections so as not to embarrass Dulles and the President by attacks from Senator Knowland and right-wing Republicans. After November, however, I predict Red China will be admitted to the UN probably in early 1957.

Next spring or summer, Red China will begin its long awaited attack on Quemoy and Matsu — unless John Foster Dulles agrees to meet with Premier Chou En-lai, which is unlikely. When the attack comes, the U.S. 7th Fleet will not intervene, and the Matsus will be captured by the Chinese. This will bring demands for war. I predict Eisenhower will not be drawn into war.

Business For '56 — Business during the first part of 1956 will boom. But toward the middle of the year, auto sales will fall off and home-building will slump. Fewer babies were born in the depression years and these babies, now 23 and 24, now getting married, buy fewer homes. So a slump is due for the midyear.

However, I predict the Eisenhower administration will dust off various public-works plans reminiscent of Harold Ickes PWA days. In addition Congress will pass a highway bill and a school-construction bill, so business throughout the election year will continue good.

Farming — Congress will pass a 90 per cent parity price support program for the six basic farm crops—wheat, corn, cotton, peanuts, rice, tobacco. This will be done despite Eisenhower's threat of a veto. But I predict the President in the end will not veto. His GOP advisers will warn that a veto would mean the entire Midwest would vote Democrat whether he runs or not.

Flood Control—In Congress, there will be a teriffic battle between the utility lobby and flood-control proponents over dams to prevent floods in New England, eastern Pennsylvania and the Far West. In the Far West, the backers of flood control will win. Multi-purpose dams will be voted for flood control irrigation and cheap electric power — despite the public-utility lobbies.

But in the East, I predict the utility lobby will be too strong. It will have the support of such GOP senators as Bridges of New Hampshire, Payne of Maine, Martin of Pennsylvania, so no real flood control will be voted for the East. Instead, Senator Lehman of New York will put across a weak palliative in the form of flood insurance.

Taxes, etc. — Congress I predict will vote a very modest tax relief for low-income groups only, a modest amendment to the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act, some federal relief for coal-mine and textile areas, a civil-rights compromise abolishing the poll tax but with no FEPC; big increases for health, particularly heart and cancer research; more public housing and slum clearance.

New Highways—The highway bill will be voted without a bond issue to finance them, which won't please budget-balancer George Humphrey or the banks, which planned to make about a billion in interest on long-term highway bonds. Democratic leaders will insist that the highways be financed out of the current budget.

New Schools — The school-construction bill will face heavy going partly as a result of segregation. Northern Congressmen will tack an amendment on the school bill banning funds to any state that doesn't carry out the Supreme Court's mandate for desegregation. This will defeat the school bill the first time around. However, Speaker Rayburn will bring the bill up again and it will pass in modified form.

Scandals — The year 1956 will see scandals headlined in both political parties. Attorney General Brownell will indict three more members of the Truman administration and try to prosecute two Pennsylvania politicans in connection with a military contract. The Democrats will expose glaring favoritism in the Federal Communications Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission. They will also show wanton negligence in the Interior Department and will demand the resignation or impeachment of Secretary of the Interior McKay. Senator Kefauver will also go over Brownell's head and demand the appointment of Senate attorneys to prosecute those guilty of the Dixon-Yates, Harold Talbott, and Peter Strobel conflicts of interest.

Presidential Race—In midwinter President Eisenhower will announce that he will not run again. This will touch off a mad scramble inside the Republican party, and a vigorous attempt to draft Chief Justice Warren, who, however, will not be drafted. In the end, a dark horse will get the nomination.

On the Democratic side, Adlai Stevenson will get the nomination; but Harry Truman, once bitter against Senator Kefauver, this time will throw his weight to Kefauver for vice president. A Stevenson-Kefauver ticket will go to the polls in November.

Peace Or War — Krushchev and Bulganin will continue their travels, and visit England, France and Italy in '56, winning a certain number of new friends. U. S. relations with the USSR will settle down to a long-drawn-out competition of trade, technical aid, political ideas, propaganda. Some progress will be made toward banning atomic-hydrogen weapons along the lines suggested by the Pope. There will be no war.

"False Optimism" Cited In Middle East Situation

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

There has been a remarkable amount of false optimism about the foreign situation generally, but no where has the optimism been more false than about the situation in the Middle East.

There have been strong hints, for example, that an agreed settlement between Israel and the Arab states is now in sight. Miracles do happen, of course. But the real story of the negotiations between Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett suggests just how miraculous an agreed settlement would be.

The talks began at the second Geneva conference and continued in Washington. From the very beginning, there was hardly a happy meeting of minds. In the climactic conversation at Washington, Dulles told Sharrett that the United States was prepared to consider supplying Israel with at least part of the $50,000,000 worth of arms Israel has requested, but on certain conditions.

Sharett Furious

For example, Dulles said, Israel would have to make certain concessions including minor territorial concessions, in return for Arab recognition and agreed peace in the area. Sharett furiously replied that apparently Dulles wanted to destroy Israel. Israel would fight to the last man, he said rather than cede an inch of land won from the Arabs, except on an even exchange basis.

Dulles assured Sharett that he had no desire whatsoever to destroy Israel. But, he said in effect, peace in the area was in the interests of both Israel and the United States, and concessions on both sides would be needed to obtain a settlement. Thereafter a somewhat calmer tone prevailed.

It was finally agreed that Israel would submit its own version of a peace plan, while the administration would give "sympathetic consideration" to Israel's arms request. Meanwhile, it was mutually and specifically agreed, Israel would do everything possible to avoid further incidents.

Arab World Enraged

This conversation was almost immediately followed by Israel's retaliatory raid on Syria, in which more than forty Syrians were killed. The raid, which was hailed in Israel as a signal victory, enraged the entire Arab world. It also, apparently, enraged Foreign Minister Sharett since it had been ordered without his knowledge by Israeli Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion, the leader of the bitterly nationalist "Activist" group in Israel.

Sharett angrily cabled Ben-Gurion that the raid had ruined his chances of getting arms from the United States, to balance the arms the Soviet Union is sending Egypt. At least temporarily, Sharett's forecast has proved to be accurate.

The Syrian raid has had another effect. It has greatly strengthened the hand of those administration policy advisers who have maintained from the start that no arms should be sent to Israel except on stringent conditions. Egyptian Prime Minister Gamal Abdel Nasser, they argue, is the first Arab leader politically strong enough to make an agreed settlement with Israel. But Nasser cannot possibly make a settlement unless the Israeli are willing to make serious concessions as regards the territorial and refugee problems—concessions which the Israeli have heretofore furiously and flatly refused to make.

According to this view, arms should be sent to Israel only if the basis of an agreed settlement is first achieved. Otherwise, the Arabs, who control the economically vital oil in the strategically vital area of the Middle East, will be convinced once and for all that they have no where to turn but to the Communist bloc. This, it is argued, would predictably lead to the loss of the whole Middle East.

Counter-Argument

The counter argument is, of course, that this country has no alternative but to try to re-establish the balance of power in the Middle East, which was upset by the Egyptian-Soviet arms deal. The issue, which has explosive domestic political implications, is being angrily debated in the highest administration circles.

Meanwhile, all is in abeyance, and this country has no real Middle Eastern policy at all. Add the heavy Communist infiltration in Syria and other Arab countries and the bold bid by Egypt and Saudi-Arabia to take over Jordan's powerful Arab Legion, heretofore controlled by Britain. It is then hard to see much reason for optimism about what has been happening in the Middle East. In point of fact, the highest State Department authorities are now privately admitting that the betting is even on a Middle East war breaking out within four months.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

This is a land of contrasts. If you're not in the Rose Bowl you're under the kitchen sink.

What we would like to know is how many times America must save the world before it retains posession of the cup?

The Good Samaritan has knocked off a long walk. About time he was singing, "Back in the Saddle Again."

Our optimists claim we have just scratched the international surface. Somebody tell those mugs that's how you spread ivy poisoning.

But we know 1956 will be a good year soon as we get used to Brooklyn playing in Jersey City, Boston in Milwaukee and St. Looey in Baltimore.

We all had a terrific time Saturday night. Fortunately for progress accuracy and reliability, yesterday was an open date.

(International News Service)

Inside Washington

By Central Press

WASHINGTON — British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden may get a hint as to President Eisenhower's second-term intentions, if any, before American political leaders hear the answer to the big question.

The chief executive and Eden are to confer in Washington soon on long-range strategy for countering Russia's diplomatic, economic and propaganda cold-war offensive. Much of that strategy, diplomats say, must of necessity be geared to the presidency.

If Ike feels disinclined to seek re-election, it is regarded as probable that he would give Eden a discreet indication as to his attitude, knowing, of course, that he could rely on the Briton to keep mum.

On the other hand, if his feeling is that he will make the race, he could, with equal assurance that Sir Anthony would make no premature disclosure, pass the word that he expects to be the GOP standard-bearer once more.

Eden, incidentally, became prime minister after recovering from a serious illness. He is in a position to tell the President how it feels to shoulder the burdens of high office after a long period of hospitalization.

Day Of Decision

The question of whether the President will run again will increase interest in a coast-to-coast series of dinners to be held on January 20.

The "Salute to Eisenhower" dinners will be featured in 21 cities by speeches from top administration officials and any message sent by the President will be carefully scanned for a possible clue to his political intentions.

The January date is, of course, in advance of the mid-February dateline set by Ike's doctors as to the earliest he could make any outright decision on running again. However, Mr. Eisenhower, out of fairness to other GOF hopefuls, could provide a clear indication of his future plans in January.

There is also growing speculation that a firm announcement from the President may come when the Republicans hold their annual Lincoln Day dinners during February.

It is recalled that former President Harry S. Truman used a Democratic party Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner to announce his decision against seeking re-election in 1952.

Frank-ly Speaking

During the week before Christmas, Washington newsmen were provided a perfect example of the hair-splitting decisions which often confront top bureaucrats.

The case in point involved the issue of whether high officials should pay postage on Christmas greeting cards they sent to their day-to-day associates.

In one cabinet-level department, the secretary and his top assistant, the undersecretary, wrestled with the weighty problem and arrived at opposite conclusions.

The secretary dispatched his Christmas message to reporters who cover his department in envelopes bearing the usual three-cents postage. The undersecretary fell back on the "franking privilege"—postage free for official business.

Golden Staters Abound

Never in American history has there been a president who was born in California. However, now there are a whole raft of possibilities.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Republican Senator William E. Knowland are both in the running for the presidency, if not in 1956 then in 1960 or later. Chief Justice Earl Warren is another possibility, although he has disclaimed any desire to return to politics.

Adlai E. Stevenson, though he calls Illinois his home state, was actually born in Los Angeles.

Until now, the closest California ever came to having a native son in the White House was the election of Herbert Hoover in 1928. Hoover, who called California his home, was actually born in Iowa, however.

Doctor's Age Is Not Always Good Measuring Rod

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

Many patients prefer the older physician because of his judgement and wealth of experience. But age is not always a good measuring rod and in almost every field of endeavor there are bright young men who are head and shoulders above their colleagues. Some of our most famous discoveries were made by medical students and young physicians, according to the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Humphrey Davy discovered the anesthetic properties of nitrous oxide when he was a 21-year-old medical student. He was mature enough to visualize its potential value in surgery and as a pain killer. Another student, Valerius Cardus, synthesized ether in 1540. William Harvey was a young man when he conceived the idea that blood held the secret of circulation.

"Phenomenal" Young whose real name was Thomas Young, was only 20 years old when he was elected a fellow of the Royal Society of London for his investigations on the lens of the eye. Young worked on ox eyes and found that the ciliary muscles change the shape of the lens. This work refuted the old idea that the eyeball changed its size to accommodate near and far vision.

The thesis of a young Czech medical student grew into an international situation. Johannes Purkinje's experiments on color vision attracted so much attention he was appointed professor at Breslau, Germany. The local medical faculty resented the intrusion of a foreigner but the Prussian government was sold on him and built the first physiological research laboratory in Europe for his use.

Californians regard James Blake as their first distinguished scientist. At age 23, before he became "Gold Rush Doc," he advanced the theory, based on experiments, that the effect of drugs on the body is determined by their chemical structure. In presenting this revolutionary idea, he arranged the electronegative elements in almost the same order as they now appear in our periodic table.

Edward Jenner was beginning his apprenticeship training when he found that persons afflicted with cowpox were protected from smallpox. The life cycle of malaria in birds was outlined by William G. MacCullum while a student at Johns Hopkins.

While traveling to school on a street car, Walter B. Cannon got an idea that led ultimately to the technic now utilized to X-ray the stomach and intestines. He overheard a conversation about the new machine that could see through fully clothed persons. His initial work was done on laboratory animals, using buttons at first, followed by bismuth and later baruim.

TOMORROW: Heredity in eye defects.

RURAL EMERGENCY

J. S. writes: What is the best thing for a farmer's family to do if a member of the household develops a heart attack such as President Eisenhower had? We are not near a physician or a hospital.

REPLY

Phone the nearest physician, give the victim a shot of whisky, and put him to bed. Almost all communities have a physician within 50 miles who should be able to drive the distance in less than two hours.

INFLAMED EYELIDS

Mrs. E. writes: Is inflammation of the lids caused by a germ?

REPLY

It could be, but there are other causes. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on blepharitis, which discusses redness, swelling, and soreness of the eyelids.

RED AND WHITE CELLS

R. T. writes: A recent blood test showed that I have more red blood corpuscles than white. How can this be corrected?

REPLY

This is a normal situation and does not need correction. The number of white cells in a unit of blood varies from 5,000 to 10,000 and the red cells from 4 to 5 million.

DISLIKES HOUSEWORK

Mrs. M. Y. writes: I don't have any ambition. I like to sleep late in the morning and lie down on the couch every chance I get during the day. I don't have any aches or pains but just don't feel like working. Can you advise?

REPLY

You are fortunate to live in an era of automatic washing, drying, and dishwashing machines, vacuum cleaners, frozen foods, and synthetic fabrics that need no ironing. In addition, you must have a patient husband, a rich father, or a good social security check. I assume your physician has found no glandular disorder, anemia, or hidden infection that is sapping your strength and making you lazy.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

One happy New Year, Joe E. Lewis met a big spender from Havana who took him on a round of the drinking spas in the Cuban capital. At each stop, he'd order four martinis for himself, but only drink two of them. "What's the idea of always leaving two martinis untouched behind you?" asked Joe. "Those things cost money."

A Los Angeles resident swears to "Try and stop me" that when he was visiting the owner of one of Guatemala's richest coffee plantations, he was served a cup of java so rich-tasting and satisfying he exclaimed, "I wish I could get this Guatemalan coffee back in L. A."

The plantation owner scoffed, "Guatemalan, my eye!"" and produced a one-pound vacuum tin of one of those "instant brews" advertised on TV about 18 times a day. "I import it," explained the Guatemalan happily.

Red Bomb Picture Is Not Reassuring

When the Russians explode a thermonuclear device, there are no American observers present. But the results cannot be hidden. The big bombs leave traces of their explosion behind in the air. After the data are collected and the experts go over it, they get a pretty good picture of what happened.

So here is the picture of the hydrogen bomb exploded in the Soviet Union in November, based on the conclusions of experts.

It was Russia's most powerful bomb by far, probably with a power between two and four megatons. (A megaton is the equivalent in explosive power of a million tons of TNT.) Some experts think it may have been stronger—eight to 15 megatons. The biggest American bomb yet tested was even more powerful—20 or 21 megatons.

The Soviet bomb was of the "3-F" type—a three-stage operation in which atomic fission as in an atomic bomb produces fusion as in a hydrogen bomb which in turn causes fission in an outer casing made out of the simple, relatively inexpensive uranium 238. This is the most advanced type of thermonuclear bomb.

It was exploded at a great height, estimated at about 85,000 feet, or more than 16 miles. But the question of how it got to that height is unanswered.

Did a plane drop it? The probable ceiling of existing American planes is perhaps 55,000 feet. If Russian planes are that much better, this nation is in very grave danger.

Was it the warhead of a missile. This country has missiles that will go higher, but none with an H-bomb warhead. If Russia has one, she is even further ahead of the U. S. than was thought. (It was already known that Russia probably had a ballistic missile of 800-mile range, which is three or four times the range of the best U. S. model.)

There are, however, two other possibilities. One is that the height of the explosion has been greatly overestimated. The other, which more experts subscribe to, is that the Russian bomb was taken up by a balloon.

The picture is anything but reassuring.

Education Not Propaganda

When the Treasury Department rejected the conservative organization, "For America," as an educational organization, entitled to income tax deductions for its contributors, it was within its rights because the Treasury alone is designated to make such decisions. The gist of the Treasury's ruling is based on the following paragraph:

". . . the Internal Revenue Service takes the position that an organization which advances only a program of previously determined opinions about current problems with a view to creating favorable public sentiment is not educational within the meaning of the law. In furthering its objectives there must be a fair and full presentation of all pertinent facts and information upon which it bases its opinions, whereby the public may reach independent conclusions. To qualify for exemption as "exclusively' educational, both the purposes and activities of an organization must be designed to disseminate knowledge and basic factual material rather than matter supporting only a previously determined opinion."

When one goes through the list of organizations which have been granted the privilege, it is shocking to find that apparently the right hand of the Treasury does not know what the left hand is doing.

For instance, "The Atlantic Union Committee, Inc." is engaged in political activities precisely of the same kind as "For America," but from an internationalist point of view. "For America" is nationalistic. Similarly the "Institute of Pacific Relations," which was so thoroughly investigated by Congress with unfavorable results, enjoyed a tax deduction for contributors. "The Fund for the Republic" engages in the same kind of activities.

The theory behind income tax deductions is that Americans should be encouraged to give to private charities, to hospitals, educational institutions, churches and for other good purposes. The donors may list such contributions and when contributions have been made to those organizations which have received authority from the Treasury, the donors may deduct the contributed amounts on their income tax returns. This is a procedure that is beneficial to the country, for otherwise, privately-financed institutions for the public welfare would have to close their doors.

After more than 20 years of attempted government operations in this field, the foremost American universities are still the privately-endowed and supported ones and the same is true of hospitals and medical schools. As for churches, it is to be hoped that the day never comes in this country when they are financed out of taxes. They should always be financed out of funds provided by their members, but the income tax is making everything of this kind so hard.

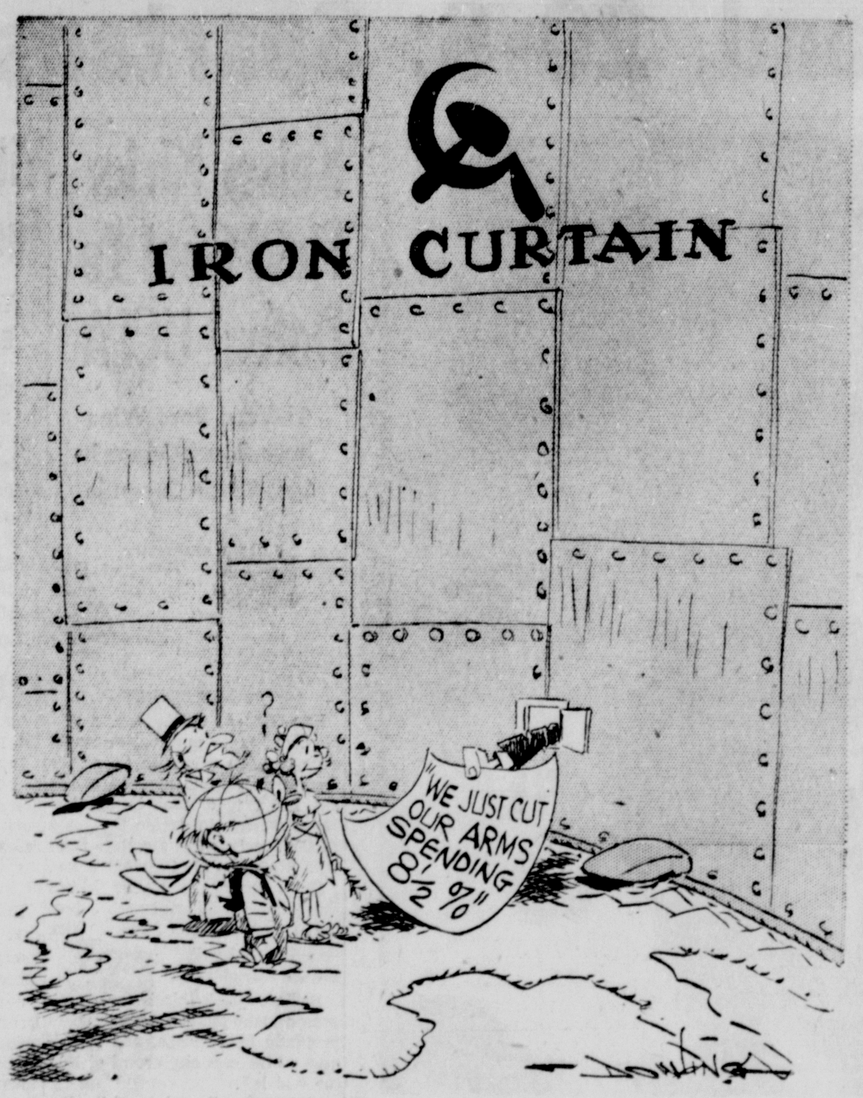

Like everything else, abuses come into the best ideas and income tax deductions for political actions groups are a violation of the objectives of the permitted deduction. Such an organization as "The Fund for the Republic" is a political actions group and contributions to it should not have been tax-free. On the other hand, if contributions to "The Fund for the Republic" are tax-free, then the same rule should be applied to "For America."

It is not difficult to recognize that "For America" would be distasteful to the Eisenhower administration. It is managed by such Republicans as General Robert E. Wood, formerly head of Sears Roebuck, and a consistent conservative Republican; Clarence Manion, former dean of the college of law at Notre Dame University, who had been appointed to high office by President Eisenhower and then dismissed because of his rejection of the Eisenhower team theory that membership on the team involved subordination of conscience; and General Bonner Fellers, an heroic figure in war but a conservative in politics. All these men were Taft Republicans and therefore are personally disliked by the present administration.

Apparently there is no similar dislike for left wing of middle-of-the-road foundations or committees which also "educate" the American people politically. What is required is a rule and not a whim.

Informative Report On The New Soviet Budget

"False Optimism" Cited In Middle East Situation

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

There has been a remarkable amount of false optimism about the foreign situation generally, but no where has the optimism been more false than about the situation in the Middle East.

There have been strong hints, for example, that an agreed settlement between Israel and the Arab states is now in sight. Miracles do happen, of course. But the real story of the negotiations between Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett suggests just how miraculous an agreed settlement would be.

The talks began at the second Geneva conference and continued in Washington. From the very beginning, there was hardly a happy meeting of minds. In the climactic conversation at Washington, Dulles told Sharrett that the United States was prepared to consider supplying Israel with at least part of the $50,000,000 worth of arms Israel has requested, but on certain conditions.

Sharett Furious

For example, Dulles said, Israel would have to make certain concessions including minor territorial concessions, in return for Arab recognition and agreed peace in the area. Sharett furiously replied that apparently Dulles wanted to destroy Israel. Israel would fight to the last man, he said rather than cede an inch of land won from the Arabs, except on an even exchange basis.

Dulles assured Sharett that he had no desire whatsoever to destroy Israel. But, he said in effect, peace in the area was in the interests of both Israel and the United States, and concessions on both sides would be needed to obtain a settlement. Thereafter a somewhat calmer tone prevailed.

It was finally agreed that Israel would submit its own version of a peace plan, while the administration would give "sympathetic consideration" to Israel's arms request. Meanwhile, it was mutually and specifically agreed, Israel would do everything possible to avoid further incidents.

Arab World Enraged

This conversation was almost immediately followed by Israel's retaliatory raid on Syria, in which more than forty Syrians were killed. The raid, which was hailed in Israel as a signal victory, enraged the entire Arab world. It also, apparently, enraged Foreign Minister Sharett since it had been ordered without his knowledge by Israeli Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion, the leader of the bitterly nationalist "Activist" group in Israel.

Sharett angrily cabled Ben-Gurion that the raid had ruined his chances of getting arms from the United States, to balance the arms the Soviet Union is sending Egypt. At least temporarily, Sharett's forecast has proved to be accurate.

The Syrian raid has had another effect. It has greatly strengthened the hand of those administration policy advisers who have maintained from the start that no arms should be sent to Israel except on stringent conditions. Egyptian Prime Minister Gamal Abdel Nasser, they argue, is the first Arab leader politically strong enough to make an agreed settlement with Israel. But Nasser cannot possibly make a settlement unless the Israeli are willing to make serious concessions as regards the territorial and refugee problems—concessions which the Israeli have heretofore furiously and flatly refused to make.

According to this view, arms should be sent to Israel only if the basis of an agreed settlement is first achieved. Otherwise, the Arabs, who control the economically vital oil in the strategically vital area of the Middle East, will be convinced once and for all that they have no where to turn but to the Communist bloc. This, it is argued, would predictably lead to the loss of the whole Middle East.

Counter-Argument

The counter argument is, of course, that this country has no alternative but to try to re-establish the balance of power in the Middle East, which was upset by the Egyptian-Soviet arms deal. The issue, which has explosive domestic political implications, is being angrily debated in the highest administration circles.

Meanwhile, all is in abeyance, and this country has no real Middle Eastern policy at all. Add the heavy Communist infiltration in Syria and other Arab countries and the bold bid by Egypt and Saudi-Arabia to take over Jordan's powerful Arab Legion, heretofore controlled by Britain. It is then hard to see much reason for optimism about what has been happening in the Middle East. In point of fact, the highest State Department authorities are now privately admitting that the betting is even on a Middle East war breaking out within four months.

Pearson Predicts: Ike Will Not Run, No War In 1956, Eden Will Resign

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Here are my predictions for the year 1956:

In Europe — Konrad Adenauer the grand old man of West Germany, will step down during the year and be replaced by Fritz Schaeffer, who will not be the strong man Adenauer is. Schaeffer will begin talks with the East German Communists and Russia to unite Germany, whether we like it or not.

Sir Anthony Eden, whose health is worse than the public realizes, will take a much less active part in the British government. The chief duties of prime minister will be performed by R. A. Butler, and by late 1956 or early 1957 Eden will resign.

In The Far East — Red China will not be admitted to the United Nations this year. U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge has secured the backing of enough friendly U.N. members to guarantee this—until after the November elections. Lodge has reported that he can hold the fort until after elections so as not to embarrass Dulles and the President by attacks from Senator Knowland and right-wing Republicans. After November, however, I predict Red China will be admitted to the UN probably in early 1957.

Next spring or summer, Red China will begin its long awaited attack on Quemoy and Matsu — unless John Foster Dulles agrees to meet with Premier Chou En-lai, which is unlikely. When the attack comes, the U.S. 7th Fleet will not intervene, and the Matsus will be captured by the Chinese. This will bring demands for war. I predict Eisenhower will not be drawn into war.

Business For '56 — Business during the first part of 1956 will boom. But toward the middle of the year, auto sales will fall off and home-building will slump. Fewer babies were born in the depression years and these babies, now 23 and 24, now getting married, buy fewer homes. So a slump is due for the midyear.

However, I predict the Eisenhower administration will dust off various public-works plans reminiscent of Harold Ickes PWA days. In addition Congress will pass a highway bill and a school-construction bill, so business throughout the election year will continue good.

Farming — Congress will pass a 90 per cent parity price support program for the six basic farm crops—wheat, corn, cotton, peanuts, rice, tobacco. This will be done despite Eisenhower's threat of a veto. But I predict the President in the end will not veto. His GOP advisers will warn that a veto would mean the entire Midwest would vote Democrat whether he runs or not.

Flood Control—In Congress, there will be a teriffic battle between the utility lobby and flood-control proponents over dams to prevent floods in New England, eastern Pennsylvania and the Far West. In the Far West, the backers of flood control will win. Multi-purpose dams will be voted for flood control irrigation and cheap electric power — despite the public-utility lobbies.

But in the East, I predict the utility lobby will be too strong. It will have the support of such GOP senators as Bridges of New Hampshire, Payne of Maine, Martin of Pennsylvania, so no real flood control will be voted for the East. Instead, Senator Lehman of New York will put across a weak palliative in the form of flood insurance.

Taxes, etc. — Congress I predict will vote a very modest tax relief for low-income groups only, a modest amendment to the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act, some federal relief for coal-mine and textile areas, a civil-rights compromise abolishing the poll tax but with no FEPC; big increases for health, particularly heart and cancer research; more public housing and slum clearance.

New Highways—The highway bill will be voted without a bond issue to finance them, which won't please budget-balancer George Humphrey or the banks, which planned to make about a billion in interest on long-term highway bonds. Democratic leaders will insist that the highways be financed out of the current budget.

New Schools — The school-construction bill will face heavy going partly as a result of segregation. Northern Congressmen will tack an amendment on the school bill banning funds to any state that doesn't carry out the Supreme Court's mandate for desegregation. This will defeat the school bill the first time around. However, Speaker Rayburn will bring the bill up again and it will pass in modified form.

Scandals — The year 1956 will see scandals headlined in both political parties. Attorney General Brownell will indict three more members of the Truman administration and try to prosecute two Pennsylvania politicans in connection with a military contract. The Democrats will expose glaring favoritism in the Federal Communications Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission. They will also show wanton negligence in the Interior Department and will demand the resignation or impeachment of Secretary of the Interior McKay. Senator Kefauver will also go over Brownell's head and demand the appointment of Senate attorneys to prosecute those guilty of the Dixon-Yates, Harold Talbott, and Peter Strobel conflicts of interest.

Presidential Race—In midwinter President Eisenhower will announce that he will not run again. This will touch off a mad scramble inside the Republican party, and a vigorous attempt to draft Chief Justice Warren, who, however, will not be drafted. In the end, a dark horse will get the nomination.

On the Democratic side, Adlaf Stevenson will get the nomination; but Harry Truman, once bitter against Senator Kefauver, this time will throw his weight to Kefauver for vice president. A Stevenson-Kefauver ticket will go to the polls in November.

Peace Or War — Krushchev and Bulganin will continue their travels, and visit England, France and Italy in '56, winning a certain number of new friends. U. S. relations with the USSR will settle down to a long-drawn-out competition of trade, technical aid, political ideas, propaganda. Some progress will be made toward banning atomic-hydrogen weapons along the lines suggested by the Pope. There will be no war.

Inside Washington

By Central Press

WASHINGTON — British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden may get a hint as to President Eisenhower's second-term intentions, if any, before American political leaders hear the answer to the big question.

The chief executive and Eden are to confer in Washington soon on long-range strategy for countering Russia's diplomatic, economic and propaganda cold-war offensive. Much of that strategy, diplomats say, must of necessity be geared to the presidency.

If Ike feels disinclined to seek re-election, it is regarded as probable that he would give Eden a discreet indication as to his attitude, knowing, of course, that he could rely on the Briton to keep mum.

On the other hand, if his feeling is that he will make the race, he could, with equal assurance that Sir Anthony would make no premature disclosure, pass the word that he expects to be the GOP standard-bearer once more.

Eden, incidentally, became prime minister after recovering from a serious illness. He is in a position to tell the President how it feels to shoulder the burdens of high office after a long period of hospitalization.

Day Of Decision

The question of whether the President will run again will increase interest in a coast-to-coast series of dinners to be held on January 20.

The "Salute to Eisenhower" dinners will be featured in 21 cities by speeches from top administration officials and any message sent by the President will be carefully scanned for a possible clue to his political intentions.

The January date is, of course, in advance of the mid-February dateline set by Ike's doctors as to the earliest he could make any outright decision on running again. However, Mr. Eisenhower, out of fairness to other GOP hopefuls, could provide a clear indication of his future plans in January.

There is also growing speculation that a firm announcement from the President may come when the Republicans hold their annual Lincoln Day dinners during February.

It is recalled that former President Harry S. Truman used a Democratic party Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner to announce his decision against seeking re-election in 1952.

Frank-ly Speaking

During the week before Christmas, Washington newsmen were provided a perfect example of the hair-splitting decisions which often confront top bureaucrats.

The case in point involved the issue of whether high officials should pay postage on Christmas greeting cards they sent to their day-to-day associates.

In one cabinet-level department, the secretary and his top assistant, the undersecretary, wrestled with the weighty problem and arrived at opposite conclusions.

The secretary dispatched his Christmas message to reporters who cover his department in envelopes bearing the usual three-cents postage. The undersecretary fell back on the "franking privilege" —postage free for official business.

Golden Staters Abound

Never in American history has there been a president who was born in California. However, now there are a whole raft of possibilities.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Republican Senator William E. Knowland are both in the running for the presidency, if not in 1956 then in 1960 or later. Chief Justice Earl Warren is another possibility, although he has disclaimed any desire to return to politics.

Adlai E. Stevenson, though he calls Illinois his home state, was actually born in Los Angeles.

Until now, the closest California ever came to having a native son in the White House was the election of Herbert Hoover in 1928. Hoover, who called California his home, was actually born in Iowa, however.

Doctor's Age Is Not Always Good Measuring Rod

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

Many patients prefer the older physician because of his judgement and wealth of experience. But age is not always a good measuring rod and in almost every field of endeavor there are bright young men who are head and shoulders above their colleagues. Some of our most famous discoveries were made by medical students and young physicians, according to the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Humphrey Davy discovered the anesthetic properties of nitrous oxide when he was a 21-year-old medical student. He was mature enough to visualize its potential value in surgery and as a pain killer. Another student, Valerius Cardus, synthesized ether in 1540. William Harvey was a young man when he conceived the idea that blood held the secret of circulation.

"Phenomenal" Young whose real name was Thomas Young, was only 20 years old when he was elected a fellow of the Royal Society of London for his investigations on the lens of the eye. Young worked on ox eyes and found that the ciliary muscles change the shape of the lens. This work refuted the old idea that the eyeball changed its size to accommodate near and far vision.

The thesis of a young Czech medical student grew into an international situation. Johannes Purkinje's experiments on color vision attracted so much attention he was appointed professor at Breslau, Germany. The local medical faculty resented the intrusion of a foreigner but the Prussian government was sold on him and built the first physiological research laboratory in Europe for his use.

Californians regard James Blake as their first distinguished scientist. At age 23, before he became "Gold Rush Doc," he advanced the theory, based on experiments, that the effect of drugs on the body is determined by their chemical structure. In presenting this revolutionary idea, he arranged the electronegative elements in almost the same order as they now appear in our periodic table.

Edward Jenner was beginning his apprenticeship training when he found that persons afflicted with cowpox were protected from smallpox. The life cycle of malaria in birds was outlined by William G. MacCullum while a student at Johns Hopkins.

While traveling to school on a street car, Walter B. Cannon got an idea that led ultimately to the technic now utilized to X-ray the stomach and intestines. He overheard a conversation about the new machine that could see through fully clothed persons. His initial work was done on laboratory animals, using buttons at first, followed by bismuth and later baruim.

TOMORROW: Heredity in eye defects.

RURAL EMERGENCY

J. S. writes: What is the best thing for a farmer's family to do if a member of the household develops a heart attack such as President Eisenhower had? We are not near a physician or a hospital.

REPLY

Phone the nearest physician, give the victim a shot of whisky, and put him to bed. Almost all communities have a physician within 50 miles who should be able to drive the distance in less than two hours.

INFLAMED EYELIDS

Mrs. E. writes: Is inflammation of the lids caused by a germ?

REPLY

It could be, but there are other causes. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on blepharitis, which discusses redness, swelling, and soreness of the eyelids.

RED AND WHITE CELLS

R. T. writes: A recent blood test showed that I have more red blood corpuscles than white. How can this be corrected?

REPLY

This is a normal situation and does not need correction. The number of white cells in a unit of blood varies from 5,000 to 10,000 and the red cells from 4 to 5 million.

DISLIKES HOUSEWORK

Mrs. M. Y. writes: I don't have any ambition. I like to sleep late in the morning and lie down on the couch every chance I get during the day. I don't have any aches or pains but just don't feel like working. Can you advise?

REPLY

You are fortunate to live in an era of automatic washing, drying, and dishwashing machines, vacuum cleaners, frozen foods, and synthetic fabrics that need no ironing. In addition, you must have a patient husband, a rich father, or a good social security check. I assume your physician has found no glandular disorder, anemia, or hidden infection that is sapping your strength and making you lazy.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Deilen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP)—Tommy McDonald, Oklahoma's skinny All-America halfback, broke Maryland's rocky defense apart in the third period today and the swift Sooners chewed their way to a 20-6 victory in the Orange Bowl's battle of unbeaten football giants.

Oklahoma was trailing 6-0 and floundering against Maryland's mighty line when McDonald suddenly brought the Sooners to life with a 33-yard punt runback six minutes into the second half. Seven plays later, McDonald raced four yards for the score and Billy Pricer's conversion put Oklahoma in front to stay.

That thrust took the heart out of brawny Maryland and fired the Oklahomans to such a high pitch that the Sooner second string immediately raced 51 yards to a second touchdown by Jay O'Neal that ended all suspense as to the final outcome.

Carl Dodd Runs 82 Yards

Oklahoma's third touchdown was something out of Merriwell. Carl Dodd pulled a fourth-quarter Terp pass out of the air on Oklahoma's 12-yard line and ran 82 yards to score. Not a hand touched the big sophomore as he sped down the sideline behind a wall of blockers.

Maryland was hungry for revenge because Oklahoma had ruined the Terps' year of glory by beating them in the Orange Bowl two years ago, after Maryland had won its only national championship. But Oklahoma's blazing team speed overcame this psychological edge.

Oklahoma's victory in this stirring battle between the nation's only two major all-victorious teams was its 30th in a row for the national champions, the longest current winning streak. It was the 106th consecutive game in which Oklahoma has scored, a feat unparalleled in college football history.

First Loss 16 Games

Third - ranked Maryland went down to its first defeat in 16 games. The last loss the Terps suffered was inflicted by Miami, (Fla.) in this same stadium two seasons ago.

Until Oklahoma broke the game open in the second half, it had been a contest highlighted by magnificent defense feats and the running of halfback Ed Vereb, who had carried Maryland's to its only touchdown in the second period.

Vereb Scores For Terps

Although that was the only only touchdown of the first half, slashing defensive play by men of both teams kept the crowd of 76,561 in a constant state of excitement.

Oklahoma's fullback Billy Pricer provided the first thrill when he knifed through the Maryland line to dump Frank Tamburello and Fred Hamilton for losses the first time the Terps got the ball.

Guard Bill Krisher broke off another Maryland drive by knocking Lynn Beightol for a loss.

A defensive hero of the Maryland side was Mike Sandusky, who stifled an Oklahoma march by getting a stranglehold on Bob Burris to throw him for a 4-yard loss. Others were Russ Dennis and Jack Davis, who broke up two other Oklahoma attacks by nailing McDonald far back of his line.

During this bruising first half, Maryland got and wasted one grand opportunity. Vereb, the nation's No. 2 scorer with 16 touchdowns during the regular season, broke loose over his right tackle, cut back and appeared on his way to a touchdown.

Jay O'Neal, second string quarterback who had just come into the game for Oklahoma, finally caught Vereb at the 10 after a 66-yard gallop, and a great goal line stand by the Sooners denied the Terps the touchdown.

Tamburello got six yards at center on a keep play but Bob Timberlake flattened Don Healy at the five and on third down Tamburello, under heavy pressure by the charging Oklahoma linemen, fumbled and Don Stiller recovered.

Oklahoma was beginning to look like a beaten outfit when McDonald came through with the performance that turned the tide.

The fleet Sooner scooted 33 yards down the sideline to the Maryland 46 after taking a Maryland punt. A 19-yard pass from McDonald to Burris was the key play in the ensuing attack as the Sooners punched to the four, from where McDonald scored on a pitchout.

81st For Wilkinson

It was the 81st win for Wilkinson, the nation's winningest coach. In nine years at Oklahoma, he has lost only seven and been tied three times. Tatum, who was once Wilkinson's boss at Oklahoma, now has an 86-18-6 mark.

Oklahoma	0	0	14	6—20
Maryland	0	6	0	0— 6

Oklahoma scoring—Touchdowns: McDonald (4, run); O'Neal (1, sneak); Dodd (82, returned intercepted pass). Conversions: Pricer 2.

Maryland scoring—Touchdowns: Vereb (15, run).

Wyoming Cops Sun Bowl Game

Cowboys Turn Back Texas Tech, 21-14

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 2 (AP)—Jim Crawford, a tireless halfback, sparked underdog Wyoming to a surprising 21-14 upset of Texas Tech today in the 21st annual Sun Bowl game.

Crawford, voted the game's most valuable player, failed to score as Wyoming came from behind in a thrilling fourth quarter rally, but he provided the spirit and much of the yardage on a 90-yard drive that tied it up.

Tech, rated a two-touchdown favorite in its fifth Sun Bowl appearance, had gone ahead 14-7 early in the final quarter. But Wyoming took the following kickoff, drove 90 yards for a tying marker and converted a Tech fumble into the winning margin moments later.

Larry Zowada, subbing for the injured Joe Mastrogiovanni at quarterback, tossed passes to John Watts and John Marshall for two of the Wyoming touchdowns, the plays covering 53 and 15 yards. Ova Stapleton got the other touchdown on a two-yard drive through the middle. Tech's scoring came on two-yard and one-yard drives by Ronnie Herr and Hugh Fewin.

Tech was badly outplayed in the first half, but fell behind only 7-0. The shirt-sleeved crowd saw Tech, Border Conference champions, come out for the second half and start things off with an 80-yard march for a touchdown.

DALLAS, Jan. 2 (AP) — Versatile Eagle Day and hammering Paige Cothren pulled Mississippi to a 14-13 upset victory over Texas Christian in the Cotton Bowl today in spite of one of All-America Jim Swink's finest games.

Mississippi, laying back like a boxer for a Sunday punch when all seemed lost, scored with only 4 minutes, 22 seconds to go and gave Coach Johnny Vaught his first triumph in a major bowl.

Curtis Is Injured

Texas Christian played the entire game without its talented quarterback, Chuck Curtis. He was injured on the first play and was taken to a hospital with broken ribs and an injured shoulder.

Dick Finney, who had spent 200 minutes playing on the second team, tried to carry on for Curtis. He did well under the circumstances but was not a Curtis.

Swink almost carried TCU to victory, scoring both touchdowns and getting off some glittering runs that kept the Horned Frogs in front until the last minutes.

Mississippi swept 66 yards twice for touchdowns, one made from the passing of Day and the running of Cothren, and the other being set up by a 25-yard dash by Day.

Cothren bounced over from 3 yards out for the first Rebel score, then kicked the extra point—something he also did after the second touchdown—the actual margin of victory. Second-stringer Billy Lott ran around right end for 5 yards and the second Mississippi score.

Day passed for 137 yards while Cothren carved 79 yards out of the TCU line with his plunging.

Swink Gains 107 Yards

Swink was the leading ground gainer, as he had been in every game played the past season. The great Frog runner rolled up 107 yards through the hard knocking Mississippi line.

The Frogs stormed to 233 yards on the ground and 20 in the air while Mississippi had 92 rushing and 137 passing.

Mississippi	0	7	0	7—14
Texas Christian	7	6	0	0—13

Mississippi scoring—Touchdowns: Cothren (3, plunge); Lott (5, end run). Conversions: Cothren 2.

Texas Christian scoring—Touchdowns: Swink 2 (1, plunge; 39, run). Conversion: Pollard.

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 2 (AP)—Michigan State and UCLA fought each other to a savage tie on the ground and in the air and it was left for a field goal in the last seven seconds to decide the game as the Spartans left the Rose Bowl with a rousing 17-14 victory today.

Right end Dave Kaiser kicked the winning field goal with a boot that sailed 41 yards from the kick through the goalposts.

100,809 Attend Game

Bedlam which this historic postseason game has not seen in years promptly broke loose, and few—if any—of the capacity crowd of 100,809 had left.

UCLA, the champions of the Pacific Coast Conference, had tied the score, 14-14, just a few short minutes before and tension mounted with every play that ensued, climaxed by the field goal.

The goal posts were demolished by uproarious Michigan State fans and the outcome spelled nine triumphs for the Big Ten. The Coast is still searcing for its second victory in its series with the Midwesterners.

Score On 67 Yard Pass

Michigan State broke a 7-7 deadlock early in the final quarter on an electrifying 67 yard pass play from left halfback Clarence Peaks to his 6-3 left end, John (Big Thunder) Lewis who outran Sam Brown for the touchdown.

Far outgained on the ground by the Spartans' devastating trio of sophomore Walt Kowalczyk, Peaks and Gerry Planutis—the Bruins went to the air on the arm of their erstwhile invalid, Ronnie Knox.

Knox connected with halfback Jim Decker for 47 yards and the Bruins were back in the game on the MSU seven yard line. Knox made five, then one, and reserve fullback Doug Peters executed a high dive over the pile-up in the center of the line for the tying touchdown.

Decker's conversion made it 14-14.

UCLA, which like Michigan State lost only one game in the regular season, got the first break and cashed in quickly in startling fashion.

UCLA Intercepts Pass

Decker intercepted a pass by All-America Earl Morrall on the first play from scrimmage and returned it four yards to the MSU 16 and the Bruins were off for six points.

Tailback Sam Brown, the leading threat for UCLA, ripped off six yards, fullback Bob Davenport, four, Brown added four more and first down and big Bob crashed through for the touchdown.

Decker converted and the game was less than four minutes old.

Morrall, midway in the second quarter, led the Spartans 80 yards in 11 plays, keynoted by a 30 yard burst by Kowalczyk to the Bruins' 17. The Spartans picked up four more and Morrall threw the final 13 yards on a beautifully executed pass play into the end zone to Peaks. Planutis matched the Bruin conversion and the half ended 7-7.

Spartains Gain 251 Yards

Michigan State ground out tremendous yardage—251 yards—for the game—but twice the Bruins threw back scoring marches.

Early in the fourth period, MSU started back from its own 20. Kowalczyk collected two, Planutis plunged for 11 and then Peaks on a direct pass from center played the role usually taken by Morrall and passed to Lewis for the tie-breaking touchdown.

The tide of the game changed back and forth until Knox, who completed the first pass for UCLA in the fourth quarter, mustered his players for another scoring try. His 47 yard throw to Decker was the key gain of the march.

Michigan State, staying on the ground, promptly drove from its 17 to the Bruins' 22 but on fourth down, Planutis' field goal try fell short of the goal.

Penalties Stop Bruins

Seconds ticked away. There were less than two minutes to go. UCLA had the ball on its 20. Unsportsmanlike conduct put it back to the five and then to the one for having an ineligible receiver down field.

Knox punted out of the end zone and UCLA was penalized for interfering with a fair catch.

This gave Michigan State the ball on the UCLA 19. MSU was caught holding and the ball went back to the 30. Two plays later, Michigan State had the ball on the 19 and then was penalized five for delaying the game. There was less than 20 seconds when they lined up for what proved to be the winning play. The clock showed seven seconds when the ball traveled through the uprights.

Michigan State	0	7	0	10	—17
UCLA	7	0	0	7	—14

Michigan State scoring — Touchdowns: Peaks (13, pass from Morrall); Lewis (67, pass, run from Peaks). Field goal: Kaiser (34). Conversion: Planutis, 2.

UCLA scoring — Touchdowns: Davenport (2, plunge); Peters (1, plunge). Conversions: Decker, 2.

Giant Expectations

NEW YORK (AP) — The Giants have great expectations for their pitching of the future.

Five of their minor league hurlers led their leagues in strikeouts during the 1955 season.

Pete Burnside at Dallas led the Texas League. John Fitzgerald at Danville, Va., topped the Carolina League. Dick Maibauer for El Dorado, Ark., was best in the Cotton States League. Vic Davis with Sandersville was the champ of the Georgia State League. Joe Shipley at Mayfield, Ky., took the honors in the Kitty League.

Vikings Hold Juniata Even

Tangerine Bowl Tilt Ends In 6-6 Deadlock

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP)—All the pass throwing of Pat Tarquinio and catching of Barry Drexler couldn't save the second longest winning streak in college football tonight when a big, rugged Missouri Valley line forced Juniata of Huntingdon, Pa., to settle for a 6-6 tie in the 10th annual Tangerine Bowl.

Tarquinio, Juniata's star tailback who had led the Indians to 23 straight victories, covered 216 yards with 15 passes tonight. Drexler caught eight of them for 164 yards.

But the bigger and better manned Missouri Valley Vikings from Marshall, Mo., battered Juniata back just short of the goal line twice in the final minutes when the Indians seemed on the verge of their 24th straight.

Both touchdowns came in the first quarter and both on passes.

Juniata	6	0	0	0—6
Missouri Valley	6	0	0	0—6

Juniata scoring — Touchdown: Drexler (30, pass-run from Tarquinio).

Missouri Valley scoring—Touchdown: Gibler (11, pass-run from Scates).

Sooners Best College Team, Tatum Admits

Jim Says Oklahoma Had Too Much Speed

By GEORGE BOWEN

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP)—"Oklahoma is the best college football team in the country—there's no doubt of that," Coach Jim Tatum of Maryland said today after the Sooners whipped his third ranked team 20-6 in the Orange Bowl.

Tatum was unstinting in conceding Maryland had been licked by a better team.

"They were a better team all around," he said at an impromptu press conference under the stands outside his team's dressing room.

Asked if he thought the Oklahoma line had outplayed his vaunted forward wall, he repeated:

"They did a better job in every department. They were in better physical shape. They handled themselves better. They outhustled us. They had too much speed."

In reply to a question to compare Oklahoma with other great college football teams within his experience, the big man with 11 years of head coaching experience said, "I have never seen any team with better equipment."

He thought the backbreaking play was the 33-yard punt return by halfback Tommy McDonald in the third quarter. Oklahoma was trailing 6-0 at the time and went to score and go ahead 7-6.

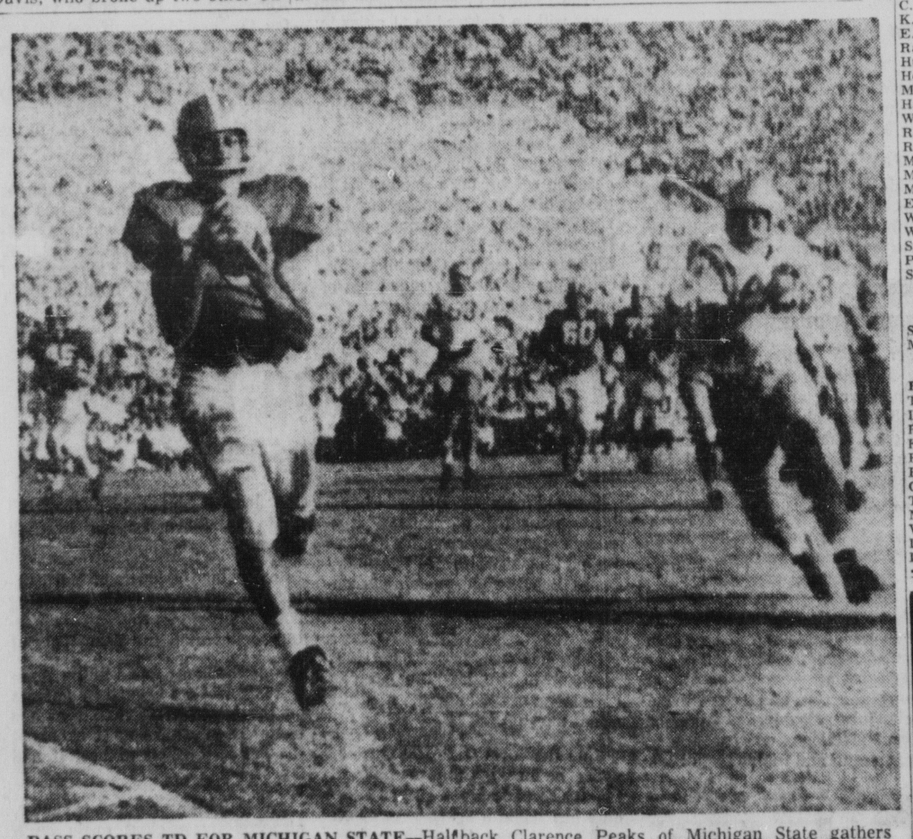

"But every Oklahoma back is so much of a threat that they kept the pressure on us and we couldn't last for 60 minutes," he added.

To emphasize his high esteem of the 1955 national champions, Coach Tatum said it was "3 to 1 better" than the 1953 team which beat his national champs of that year 7-0 in the same Orange Bowl.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP)—Tommy McDonald, Oklahoma's skinny All-America halfback, broke Maryland's rocky defense apart in the third period today and the swift Sooners chewed their way to a 20-6 victory in the Orange Bowl's battle of unbeaten football giants.

Oklahoma was trailing 6-0 and floundering against Maryland's mighty line when McDonald suddenly brought the Sooners to life with a 33-yard punt runback six minutes into the second half. Seven plays later, McDonald raced four yards for the score and Billy Pricer's conversion put Oklahoma in front to stay.

That thrust took the heart out of brawny Maryland and fired the Oklahomans to such a high pitch that the Sooner second string immediately raced 51 yards to a second touchdown by Jay O'Neal that ended all suspense as to the final outcome.

Carl Dodd Runs 82 Yards

Oklahoma's third touchdown was something out of Merriwell. Carl Dodd pulled a fourth-quarter Terp pass out of the air on Oklahoma's 12-yard line and ran 82 yards to score. Not a hand touched the big sophomore as he sped down the sideline behind a wall of blockers.

Maryland was hungry for revenge because Oklahoma had ruined the Terps' year of glory by beating them in the Orange Bowl two years ago, after Maryland had won its only national championship. But Oklahoma's blazing team speed overcame this psychological edge.

Oklahoma's victory in this stirring battle between the nation's only two major all-victorious teams was its 30th in a row for the national champions, the longest current winning streak. It was the 106th consecutive game in which Oklahoma has scored, a feat unparalleled in college football history.

First Loss 16 Games

Third - ranked Maryland went down to its first defeat in 16 games. The last loss the Terps suffered was inflicted by Miami, (Fla.) in this same stadium two seasons ago.

Until Oklahoma broke the game open in the second half, it had been a contest highlighted by magnificent defense feats and the running of halfback Ed Vereb, who had carried Maryland's to its only touchdown in the second period.

Vereb Scores For Terps

Although that was the only only touchdown of the first half, slashing defensive play by men of both teams kept the crowd of 76,561 in a constant state of excitement.

Oklahoma's fullback Billy Pricer provided the first thrill when he knifed through the Maryland line to dump Frank Tamburello and Fred Hamilton for losses the first time the Terps got the ball.

Guard Bill Krisher broke off another Maryland drive by knocking Lynn Beightol for a loss.

A defensive hero of the Maryland side was Mike Sandusky, who stifled an Oklahoma march by getting a stranglehold on Bob Burris to throw him for a 4-yard loss. Others were Russ Dennis and Jack Davis, who broke up two other Oklahoma attacks by nailing McDonald far back of his line.

During this bruising first half, Maryland got and wasted one grand opportunity. Vereb, the nation's No. 2 scorer with 16 touchdowns during the regular season, broke loose over his right tackle, cut back and appeared on his way to a touchdown.

Jay O'Neal, second string quarterback who had just come into the game for Oklahoma, finally caught Vereb at the 10 after a 66-yard gallop, and a great goal line stand by the Sooners denied the Terps the touchdown.

Tamburello got six yards at center on a keep play but Bob Timberlake flattened Don Healy at the five and on third down Tamburello, under heavy pressure by the charging Oklahoma linemen, fumbled and Don Stiller recovered.

Oklahoma was beginning to look like a beaten outfit when McDonald came through with the performance that turned the tide.

The fleet Sooner scooted 33 yards down the sideline to the Maryland 46 after taking a Maryland punt. A 19-yard pass from McDonald to Burris was the key play in the ensuing attack as the Sooners punched to the four, from where McDonald scored on a pitchout.

81st For Wilkinson

It was the 81st win for Wilkinson, the nation's winningest coach. In nine years at Oklahoma, he has lost only seven and been tied three times. Tatum, who was once Wilkinson's boss at Oklahoma, now has an 86-18-6 mark.

Oklahoma	0	0	14	6	—20

Oklahoma scoring—Touchdowns: McDonald (4, run); O'Neal (1, sneak); Dodd (82, returned intercepted pass). Conversions: Pricer 2.

Wyoming Cops Sun Bowl Game

Cowboys Turn Back Texas Tech, 21-14

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 2 (AP)—Jim Crawford, a tireless halfback, sparked underdog Wyoming to a surprising 21-14 upset of Texas Tech today in the 21st annual Sun Bowl game.

Crawford, voted the game's most valuable player, failed to score as Wyoming came from behind in a thrilling fourth quarter rally, but he provided the spirit and much of the yardage on a 90-yard drive that tied it up.

Tech, rated a two-touchdown favorite in its fifth Sun Bowl appearance, had gone ahead 14-7 early in the final quarter. But Wyoming took the following kickoff, drove 90 yards for a tying marker and converted a Tech fumble into the winning margin moments later.

Larry Zowada, subbing for the injured Joe Mastrogiovanni at quarterback, tossed passes to John Watts and John Marshall for two of the Wyoming touchdowns, the plays covering 53 and 15 yards. Ova Stapleton got the other touchdown on a two-yard drive through the middle. Tech's scoring came on two-yard and one-yard drives by Ronnie Herr and Hugh Fewin.

Tech was badly outplayed in the first half, but fell behind only 7-0. The shirt-sleeved crowd saw Tech, Border Conference champions, come out for the second half and start things off with an 80-yard march for a touchdown.

DALLAS, Jan. 2 (AP) — Versatile Eagle Day and hammering Paige Cothren pulled Mississippi to a 14-13 upset victory over Texas Christian in the Cotton Bowl today in spite of one of All-America Jim Swink's finest games.

Mississippi, laying back like a boxer for a Sunday punch when all seemed lost, scored with only 4 minutes, 22 seconds to go and gave Coach Johnny Vaught his first triumph in a major bowl.

Curtis Is Injured

Texas Christian played the entire game without its talented quarterback, Chuck Curtis. He was injured on the first play and was taken to a hospital with broken ribs and an injured shoulder.

Dick Finney, who had spent 200 minutes playing on the second team, tried to carry on for Curtis. He did well under the circumstances but was not a Curtis.

Swink almost carried TCU to victory, scoring both touchdowns and getting off some glittering runs that kept the Horned Frogs in front until the last minutes.

Mississippi swept 66 yards twice for touchdowns, one made from the passing of Day and the running of Cothren, and the other being set up by a 25-yard dash by Day.

Cothren bounced over from 3 yards out for the first Rebel score, then kicked the extra point—something he also did after the second touchdown—the actual margin of victory. Second-stringer Billy Lott ran around right end for 5 yards and the second Mississippi score.

Day passed for 137 yards while Cothren carved 79 yards out of the TCU line with his plunging.

Swink Gains 107 Yards

Swink was the leading ground gainer, as he had been in every game played the past season. The great Frog runner rolled up 107 yards through the hard knocking Mississippi line.

The Frogs stormed to 233 yards on the ground and 20 in the air while Mississippi had 92 rushing and 137 passing.

Mississippi	0	7	0	7—14
Texas Christian	7	6	0	0—13

Mississippi scoring—Touchdowns: Cothren (3, plunge); Lott (5, end run). Conversions: Cothren 2.

Texas Christian scoring—Touchdowns: Swink 2 (1, plunge; 39, run). Conversion: Pollard.

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 2 (AP)—Michigan State and UCLA fought each other to a savage tie on the ground and in the air and it was left for a field goal in the last seven seconds to decide the game as the Spartans left the Rose Bowl with a rousing 17-14 victory today.

Right end Dave Kaiser kicked the winning field goal with a boot that sailed 41 yards from the kick through the goalposts.

100,809 Attend Game

Bedlam which this historic postseason game has not seen in years promptly broke loose, and few—if any—of the capacity crowd of 100,809 had left.

UCLA, the champions of the Pacific Coast Conference, had tied the score, 14-14, just a few short minutes before and tension mounted with every play that ensued, climaxed by the field goal.

The goal posts were demolished by uproarious Michigan State fans and the outcome spelled nine triumphs for the Big Ten. The Coast is still searcing for its second victory in its series with the Midwesterners.

Score On 67 Yard Pass

Michigan State broke a 7-7 deadlock early in the final quarter on an electrifying 67 yard pass play from left halfback Clarence Peaks to his 6-3 left end, John (Big Thunder) Lewis who outran Sam Brown for the touchdown.

Far outgained on the ground by the Spartans' devastating trio of sophomore Walt Kowalczyk, Peaks and Gerry Planutis—the Bruins went to the air on the arm of their erstwhile invalid, Ronnie Knox.

Knox connected with halfback Jim Decker for 47 yards and the bruins were back in the game on the MSU seven yard line. Knox made five, then one, and reserve fullback Doug Peters executed a high dive over the pile-up in the center of the line for the tying touchdown.

Decker's conversion made it 14-14.

UCLA, which like Michigan State lost only one game in the regular season, got the first break and cashed in quickly in startling fashion.

UCLA Intercepts Pass

Decker intercepted a pass by All-America Earl Morrall on the first play from scrimmage and returned it four yards to the MSU 16 and the Bruins were off for six points.

Tailback Sam Brown, the leading threat for UCLA, ripped off six yards, fullback Bob Davenport, four, Brown added four more and first down and big Bob crashed through for the touchdown.

Decker converted and the game was less than four minutes old.

Morrall, midway in the second quarter, led the Spartans 80 yards in 11 plays, keynoted by a 30 yard burst by Kowalczyk to the Bruins' 17. The Spartans picked up four more and Morrall threw the final 13 yards on a beautifully executed pass play into the end zone to Peaks. Planutis matched the Bruin conversion and the half ended 7-7.

Spartains Gain 251 Yards

Michigan State ground out tremendous yardage—251 yards—for the game—but twice the Bruins threw back scoring marches.

Early in the fourth period, MSU started back from its own 20. Kowalczyk collected two, Planutis plunged for 11 and then Peaks on a direct pass from center played the role usually taken by Morrall and passed to Lewis for the tie-breaking touchdown.

The tide of the game changed back and forth until Knox, who completed the first pass for UCLA in the fourth quarter, mustered his players for another scoring try. His 47 yard throw to Decker was the key gain of the march.

Michigan State, staying on the ground, promptly drove from its 17 to the Bruins' 22 but on fourth down, Planutis' field goal try fell short of the goal.

Penalties Stop Bruins

Seconds ticked away. There were less than two minutes to go. UCLA had the ball on its 20. Unsportsmanlike conduct put it back to the five and then to the one for having an ineligible receiver down field.

Knox punted out of the end zone and UCLA was penalized for interfering with a fair catch.

This gave Michigan State the ball on the UCLA 19. MSU was caught holding and the ball went back to the 30. Two plays later, Michigan State had the ball on the 19 and then was penalized five for delaying the game. There was less than 20 seconds when they lined up for what proved to be the winning play. The clock showed seven seconds when the ball traveled through the uprights.

Michigan State	0	7	0	10	—17
UCLA	7	0	0	7	—14

Michigan State scoring — Touchdowns: Peaks (13, pass from Morrall); Lewis (67, pass, run from Peaks). Field goal: Kaiser (34). Conversion: Planutis, 2.

UCLA scoring — Touchdowns: Davenport (2, plunge); Peters (1, plunge). Conversions: Decker, 2.

Giant Expectations

NEW YORK (AP) — The Giants have great expectations for their pitching of the future.

Five of their minor league hurlers led their leagues in strikeouts during the 1955 season.

Pete Burnside at Dallas led the Texas League. John Fitzgerald at Danville, Va., topped the Carolina League. Dick Maibauer for El Dorado, Ark., was best in the Cotton States League. Vic Davis with Sandersville was the champ of the Georgia State League. Joe Shipley at Mayfield, Ky., took the honors in the Kitty League.

Vikings Hold Juniata Even

Tangerine Bowl Tilt Ends In 6-6 Deadlock

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP)—All the pass throwing of Pat Tarquinio and catching of Barry Drexler couldn't save the second longest winning streak in college football tonight when a big, rugged Missouri Valley line forced Juniata of Huntingdon, Pa., to settle for a 6-6 tie in the 10th annual Tangerine Bowl.

Tarquinio, Juniata's star tailback who had led the Indians to 23 straight victories, covered 216 yards with 15 passes tonight. Drexler caught eight of them for 164 yards.

But the bigger and better manned Missouri Valley Vikings from Marshall, Mo., battered Juniata back just short of the goal line twice in the final minutes when the Indians seemed on the verge of their 24th straight.

Both touchdowns came in the first quarter and both on passes.

Juniata	6	0	0	0	—6
Missouri Valley	6	0	0	0	—6

Juniata scoring — Touchdown: Drexler (30, pass-run from Tarquinio).

Missouri Valley scoring—Touchdown: Gibler (11, pass-run from Scates).

Sooners Best College Team, Tatum Admits

Jim Says Oklahoma Had Too Much Speed

By GEORGE BOWEN

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP)—"Oklahoma is the best college football team in the country—there's no doubt of that," Coach Jim Tatum of Maryland said today after the Sooners whipped his third ranked team 20-6 in the Orange Bowl.

Tatum was unstinting in conceding Maryland had been licked by a better team.

"They were a better team all around," he said at an impromptu press conference under the stands outside his team's dressing room.

Asked if he thought the Oklahoma line had outplayed his vaunted forward wall, he repeated:

"They did a better job in every department. They were in better physical shape. They handled themselves better. They outhustled us. They had too much speed."

In reply to a question to compare Oklahoma with other great college football teams within his experience, the big man with 11 years of head coaching experience said, "I have never seen any team with better equipment."

He thought the backbreaking play was the 33-yard punt return by halfback Tommy McDonald in the third quarter. Oklahoma was trailing 6-0 at the time and went to score and go ahead 7-6.

"But every Oklahoma back is so much of a threat that they kept the pressure on us and we couldn't last for 60 minutes," he added.

To emphasize his high esteem of the 1955 national champions, Coach Tatum said it was "3 to 1 better" than the 1953 team which beat his national champs of that year 7-0 in the same Orange Bowl.

Unbeaten Hagerstown To Test Fort Hill Here Tonight

Campers Host Ridgeley High School Quint

Mt. Savage To Visit LaSalle; Piedmont Entertains Bruce

Three topnotch attractions in town on the same night.

That's the basketball setup for tonight as undefeated Hagerstown High School tests "Bobby" Cavanaugh's Fort Hill Sentinels, Ridgeley High's Blackhawks do battle with Allegany High's Campers at Campobello and Mt. Savage High's Indians oppose LaSalle High's Explorers in a return game on SS. Peter and Paul court. The games are set for 8 o'clock.

Coach Mel Henry's Hagerstown Hubs put a 5-0 record on the line when they tackle the Sentinels who have won three games and lost two. The Hub City team's wins include a 54-45 decision over Allegany High School. Other teams that fell before the Henrymen were Chambersburg, York, Bethesda-Chevy Chase and the College Alumni.

Hawks Visit Allegany

Ridgeley (5-1) will tangle with an Allegany High quint that has won four and lost one. The only loss suffered by the Campers came at the hands of Hagerstown. Ridgeley's only reverse was dealt out by Elk Garden High's Elks.

Mt. Savage (4-1) will be out to avenge its lone setback of the season when it opposes the Explorers on the Fayette street court. LaSalle victorious at Mt Savage by the score of 63-61, will be angling for its fifth win of the campaign. Coach George Geatz's quint has won four and lost one.

The annual series for the championship of the Tri-Towns gets under way tonight with Bruce High's Bulldogs slated to play at Piedmont. Both teams own 3-3 records.

Valley High's Black Knights go after win No. 5 when they host Northern High's Huskies (2-3) of Garrett county. The Lonaconing quint has won four out of six games played to date. Flintstone High's Aggies will do battle with Valley's Jayvees in the opener of the twin bill.

Giant Cracker Cops Tropical Park Feature

Pays $41.80 For $2, Hartack Wins Four

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP) — Cain Hoy Stable's Giant Cracker surprised a throng of 17,271 racing fans at Tropical Park today when he took the lead at the half mile pole of the $11,650 New Year's Handicap and stayed in front to win the six furlong sprint in 1:09 4/5.

Giant Cracker, under Kenny Church, carried only 110 pounds and beat G. S. Colella's Switch On, the favorite at 5-2, by two lengths.

W. L. Huntley's Hilarious was third and M. Sims' Blessbull finished fourth in the field of ten sprinters.

Switch On carried high weight of 126 pounds, most of it Jockey Bobby Ussery, leading rider at the meeting with 36 through the feature race.

J. W. Rodgers' Duc De Fer, second choice at 3-1, made a fight of it briefly but tired badly under 120 pounds and finished last.

Giant Cracker paid $41.80, $10.90 and $8.20 in the $2 mutuels. Switch On paid $4.20 and $3.40 while the show price on Hilarious was $6.20.

Giant Cracker, who earned only $1,700 in four starts last year, won $8,025 for his owners, Harry Guggenheim of New York.

Jockey Willie Hartack, leading rider last year, finished fifth on Brookmeade Stable's Country Clare in the featured seventh race.

Hartack, who lead the nation's jockeys last year with 417 winners, started the new year with a rush when he won both the first and second races for a daily double worth $54.30, and went on to captutre the eighth and ninth, too.

The handle was $1,313,791, slightly under the all-time high of $1,350,931 set on Christmas Day.

By STERLING SLAPPEY

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2 (AP) — Georgia Tech, a team of lean opportunists waiting like hungry vultures for Pittsburgh to err, got the break of its life today in the first quarter and cashed in with a touchdown to win the Sugar Bowl football game 7-0.

Pitt fullback Bob Grier, the first Negro to play in this Deep South Bowl, was charged with pass interference in the game's fifth minute.

Break Sets Up Score

The break gave Tech the ball on Pitt's one-yard line. Quarterback Wade Mitchell, an Atlanta boy playing on his home town's team, scored the game's only touchdown and then kicked the placement.

The bowl victory was the seventh without a defeat for Coach Bobby Dodd and the score justified the Georgian's one touchdown advantage in betting odds.

Pitt, a slow operating split-T team, ground up and down the field, consuming ground like a huge earthmover and Pitt's passing attack—poor as it was—stood out over Tech's throwing game.

Lewis Fires Passes

But Tech was the team with the one punch which won. In the last three minutes of the ponderous game, Pitt's third string quarterback Darrell Lewis turned himself into a desperate left-hander with a mission.

He fired half a dozen passes with his whiplike arm—each designed as a home run. Tech reeled back, faltered and the game appeared headed for a tie.

Time caught up with Lewis and Pitt on the five-yard line. The game ended on second down and goal to go.

Grier got favored treatment from the crowd of 80,173 throughout the game. Whenever he managed to gain two or three yards, the cheers rang out.

The stands were unsegregated but only a handful of Negroes showed up and they were not near enough to account for all the clapping and cheering which greeted Grier.

Ticket Prices Drop

The crowd fell 2,000 short of capacity in the saucer-shaped Tulane University Stadium. Tickets, priced at $6, were selling for 50 cents about 20 minutes before game time.

The weather for the 22nd Sugar Bowl was a bit hot for football, reaching an official 73 degrees. That could have been partially responsible for the sluggishness of Pittsburgh.

At any rate, Tech was far faster and more spirited.

Penalties Hurt Pitt

Grier's error was not the only time that penalties hurt Pitt. A 15-yard foul was called on Pitt in the second period, which appeared to take the steam out of the Pennsylvanians. Shortly after that, Pitt was charged with five yards for backfield in motion. A couple more penalties helped put the brakes on Pitt.

Massive Pitt piled up an impressive victory in statistics, outmoving the small Tech team in 19-10 first downs, 217 yards to 142 in rushing and 94 to a flat nil in passing.

In pass defense, Tech was very sad. Pitt passing was only mediocre but against Tech it looked right smart.

Grier Makes Mistake

The big break of the game came on the 12th play. Mitchell on the Pitt 32-yard line passed to end Don Ellis and Grier gave Ellis a hard shove. The referee gave the ball to Tech on the 2.

After Grier's mistake Tech swept to a quick touchdown. Grier said he did not touch Ellis.

With the ball on the 2, Pitt was offside and penalized one yard. On the next play Mitchell went over on a quarterback sneak and added the placement to make it Tech 7-0.

Late in the first half and late in the second half Pitt managed to work up a case of offensive enthusiasm.

Just before intermission Pitt got the ball on the 20 after a Tech punt and in 20 plays ground out 79 yards—one yard short of a touchdown.

The big gainers were Lou Gimarolli, Cornelius Salvaterra, Pete Neft and Grier.

Wins 5th Major Game

Tech now has won five major bowls in a row and made itself undisputed king of post-season play. As an added pleasant bit, this was the first time in four tries that Tech has whipped Pitt. They first began to play in 1918 when the East was strong and the South weak.

Giant Cracker Cops Tropical Park Feature

Pays $41.80 For $2, Hartack Wins Four

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP) — Cain Hoy Stable's Giant Cracker surprised a throng of 17,271 racing fans at Tropical Park today when he took the lead at the half mile pole of the $11,650 New Year's Handicap and stayed in front to win the six furlong sprint in 1:09 4/5.

Giant Cracker, under Kenny Church, carried only 110 pounds and beat G. S. Colella's Switch On, the favorite at 5-2, by two lengths.

W. L. Huntley's Hilarious was third and M. Sims' Blessbull finished fourth in the field of ten sprinters.

Switch On carried high weight of 126 pounds, most of it Jockey Bobby Ussery, leading rider at the meeting with 36 through the feature race.

J. W. Rodgers' Duc De Fer, second choice at 3-1, made a fight of it briefly but tired badly under 120 pounds and finished last.

Giant Cracker paid $41.80, $10.90 and $8.20 in the $2 mutuels. Switch On paid $4.20 and $3.40 while the show price on Hilarious was $6.20.

Giant Cracker, who earned only $1,700 in four starts last year, won $8,025 for his owners, Harry Guggenheim of New York.

Jockey Willie Hartack, leading rider last year, finished fifth on Brookmeade Stable's Country Clare in the featured seventh race.

Hartack, who lead the nation's jockeys last year with 417 winners, started the new year with a rush when he won both the first and second races for a daily double worth $54.30, and went on to captutre the eighth and ninth, too.

The handle was $1,313,791, slightly under the all-time high of $1,350,931 set on Christmas Day.

By STERLING SLAPPEY

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2 (AP) — Georgia Tech, a team of lean opportunists waiting like hungry vultures for Pittsburgh to err, got the break of its life today in the first quarter and cashed in with a touchdown to win the Sugar Bowl football game 7-0.

Pitt fullback Bob Grier, the first Negro to play in this Deep South Bowl, was charged with pass interference in the game's fifth minute.

Break Sets Up Score

The break gave Tech the ball on Pitt's one-yard line. Quarterback Wade Mitchell, an Atlanta boy playing on his home town's team, scored the game's only touchdown and then kicked the placement.

The bowl victory was the seventh without a defeat for Coach Bobby Dodd and the score justified the Georgian's one touchdown advantage in betting odds.

Pitt, a slow operating split-T team, ground up and down the field, consuming ground like a huge earthmover and Pitt's passing attack—poor as it was—stood out over Tech's throwing game.

Lewis Fires Passes

But Tech was the team with the one punch which won. In the last three minutes of the ponderous game, Pitt's third string quarterback Darrell Lewis turned himself into a desperate left-hander with a mission.

He fired half a dozen passes with his whiplike arm—each designed as a home run. Tech reeled back, faltered and the game appeared headed for a tie.

Time caught up with Lewis and Pitt on the five-yard line. The game ended on second down and goal to go.

Grier got favored treatment from the crowd of 80,173 throughout the game. Whenever he managed to gain two or three yards, the cheers rang out.

The stands were unsegregated but only a handful of Negroes showed up and they were not near enough to account for all the clapping and cheering which greeted Grier.

Ticket Prices Drop

The crowd fell 2,000 short of capacity in the saucer-shaped Tulane University Stadium. Tickets, priced at $6, were selling for 50 cents about 20 minutes before game time.

The weather for the 22nd Sugar Bowl was a bit hot for football, reaching an official 73 degrees. That could have been partially responsible for the sluggishness of Pittsburgh.

At any rate, Tech was far faster and more spirited.

Penalties Hurt Pitt

Grier's error was not the only time that penalties hurt Pitt. A 15-yard foul was called on Pitt in the second period, which appeared to take the steam out of the Pennsylvanians. Shortly after that, Pitt was charged with five yards for backfield in motion. A couple more penalties helped put the brakes on Pitt.

Massive Pitt piled up an impressive victory in statistics, outmoving the small Tech team in 19-10 first downs, 217 yards to 142 in rushing and 94 to a flat nil in passing.

In pass defense, Tech was very sad. Pitt passing was only mediocre but against Tech it looked right smart.

Grier Makes Mistake

The big break of the game came on the 12th play. Mitchell on the Pitt 32-yard line passed to end Don Ellis and Grier gave Ellis a hard shove. The referee gave the ball to Tech on the 2.

After Grier's mistake Tech swept to a quick touchdown. Grier said he did not touch Ellis.

With the ball on the 2, Pitt was offside and penalized one yard. On the next play Mitchell went over on a quarterback sneak and added the placement to make it Tech 7-0.

Late in the first half and late in the second half Pitt managed to work up a case of offensive enthusiasm.

Wins 5th Major Game

Tech now has won five major bowls in a row and made itself undisputed king of post-season play. As an added pleasant bit, this was the first time in four tries that Tech has whipped Pitt. They first began to play in 1918 when the East was strong and the South weak.

Television And Radio

First Returns From Britain

The early months of British commercial television are not encouraging. Those Britons who bitterly opposed the introduction of sponsored television into England argued against it on the grounds of Gresham's Law, declaring that bad money would drive out the good, that commercialism would inevitably lower standards.

Now The London Observer reports that the peak viewing hours from 7 to 10 p. m. are inhabited exclusively by programs of no special intellectual attainments. Originally there had been some high-brow and middle brow programs. But market research showed that quiz, give-away and variety programs attract more people and these have elbowed aside the higher types. If you want culture on commercial TV, you have to get it before 7 or after 10 or you have to turn over to the good gray BBC which still dishes the stuff out in august scorn for market research.

While this is on the surface a little disheartening, it is far from conclusive. For one thing, quiz and variety programs are not necessarily bad programs, provided there are not too many of them. Considering the fact that the BBC is in there pitching to the high and middle brows, some deference to the mass audience seems only fair. Also, it's far too early to set a definite pattern.

Now, the British are in most respects far more venerable than we are but in this one respect we are way ahead of them. If our experience means anything, those quiz and variety giveaway programs are not going to be forever popular. Conversely, culture is not going to be forever unpopular.

The most popular program we ever had on our air was "Peter Pan," which is thoroughly respectable. Another close contender was the Ford anniversary show with Mary Martin and Ethel Merman and it too, though it was variety, was a fine show. Tchaikovsky's "The Sleeping Beauty" ballet racked up an audience of some 30,000,000 people and Hallmark has done mighty well with that old standby William Shakespeare.

Quality is not always synonymous with unpopularity and trash doesn't always command an audience. I'm willing to bet that the day will come when culture will creep on to British commercial television and set the market research boys back on their heels.

Incidentally, among the quiz shows the British are seeing over there is one of our own" Beat the Clock," a stunt show. The British seem to be better at our stunts than we are. At any rate, a bonus stunt that took 27 weeks to do successfully over here — something with a tennis ball in a cylinder with two open ends—was done by the British in 13 weeks. The Americans took 55 seconds to do it; the British 11 seconds.

WHDH in Boston has decided automation is not the answer for just everything. The other day the station followed a book review with the announcement that anyone wanting the book should call a certain telephone number. Anyone who did this was told that the phone conversation was recorded and told to wait for a "beep" and then to state their name and address and they'd get the book COD.

The next day, though, the tape had recorded only the click of telephones being hung up, a few stutters and "Sorry, wrong number." The station investigated, and discovered terror strikers at anyone who knows his voice is being recorded. "The first thing I thought of was Broady—and I hung up," said one listener. Said another: "I started thinking how I sounded and I got so nervous I forgot my address." Perhaps the best explanatoin was by a young man who simply said: "It's spooky talking to a beep." Or perhaps it's just Boston.

Sometimes, however, and notably in the case of freak hands, the most important factor is to keep the opponents from saving against the slam contract you have every intention of reaching. Consider this case:

It is beside the point to argue that East-West should have sacrificed against six diamonds; the pertinent facts are that they did not do so, and that it was South's deliberate and deceptive underbidding which doubtless accounted for his success.

Most players in South's position, given such a strong two-suiter, would spoil their own chances by revealing their strength immediately. They would cue-bid hearts, or use a takeout double, or at the very best bid two spades. With South cue-bidding, West would probably take alarm and leap straight to four hearts, which would keep East temporarily quiet. But then, even if West was smart enough to pass over South's next bid, which could scarcely be anything but four spades, East would obviously compete with five clubs or five hearts, and thus would soon be faced by the problem of what to do against six diamonds. With the bidding going this way, he would be very foolish not to sacrifice in hearts.

Television And Radio

First Returns From Britain

The early months of British commercial television are not encouraging. Those Britons who bitterly opposed the introduction of sponsored television into England argued against it on the grounds of Gresham's Law, declaring that bad money would drive out the good, that commercialism would inevitably lower standards.

Now The London Observer reports that the peak viewing hours from 7 to 10 p. m. are inhabited exclusively by programs of no special intellectual attainments. Originally there had been some highbrow and middle brow programs. But market research showed that quiz, give-away and variety programs attract more people and these have elbowed aside the higher types. If you want culture on commercial TV, you have to get it before 7 or after 10 or you have to turn over to the good gray BBC which still dishes the stuff out in august scorn for market research.

While this is on the surface a little disheartening, it is far from conclusive. For one thing, quiz and variety programs are not necessarily bad programs, provided there are not too many of them. Considering the fact that the BBC is in there pitching to the high and middle brows, some deference to the mass audience seems only fair. Also, it's far too early to set a definite pattern.

Now, the British are in most respects far more venerable than we are but in this one respect we are way ahead of them. If our experience means anything, those quiz and variety giveaway programs are not going to be forever popular. Conversely, culture is not going to be forever unpopular.

The most popular program we ever had on our air was "Peter Pan," which is thoroughly respectable. Another close contender was the Ford anniversary show with Mary Martin and Ethel Merman and it too, though it was variety, was a fine show. Tchaikovsky's "The Sleeping Beauty" ballet racked up an audience of some 30,000,000 people and Hallmark has done mighty well with that old standby William Shakespeare.

Quality is not always synonymous with unpopularity and trash doesn't always command an audience. I'm willing to bet that the day will come when culture will creep on to British commercial television and set the market research boys back on their heels.

Incidentally, among the quiz shows the British are seeing over there is one of our own" Beat the Clock," a stunt show. The British seem to be better at our stunts than we are. At any rate, a bonus stunt that took 27 weeks to do successfully over here — something with a tennis ball in a cylinder with two open ends—was done by the British in 13 weeks. The Americans took 55 seconds to do it; the British 11 seconds.

WHDH in Boston has decided automation is not the answer for just everything. The other day the station followed a book review with the announcement that anyone wanting the book should call a certain telephone number. Anyone who did this was told that the phone conversation was recorded and told to wait for a "beep" and then to state their name and address and they'd get the book COD.

The next day, though, the tape had recorded only the click of telephones being hung up, a few stutters and "Sorry, wrong number." The station investigated, and discovered terror strikers at anyone who knows his voice is being recorded. "The first thing I thought of was Broady—and I hung up," said one listener. Said another: "I started thinking how I sounded and I got so nervous I forgot my address." Perhaps the best explanation was by a young man who simply said: "It's spooky talking to a beep." Or perhaps it's just Boston.

PART-SCORE LIABILITY

MOST players—and this applies to a large proportion of "name players" as well as unknowns—bid slams less accurately when they have a part-score. No doubt they feel that with the game or rubber so easily within their grasp, it is foolish to speculate even to the extent of investigating the slam possibility.

There is an obvious grain of logic in this philosophy, but there is also good ground for suspecting that the motion is carried too far. Surely, it is a ridiculous state of affairs when the possession of a part-score—which is supposed to be highly advantageous—is permitted to become a liability. There are innumerable cases in which so little "jeopardy" is involved that failure to conduct slam investigation—at any state of the score—is inexcusable. Here, for example, is just such a case:

North dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
North-South 60 on score.

	♠ Q 4 3 ♥ K 9 5 ♦ K Q 4 ♣ A 8 5 3
♠ 10 5 ♥ J 8 6 ♦ 7 3 ♣ Q 9 7 6 4 2	N W E S	♠ K J 9 7 6 2 ♥ 3 2 ♦ 8 6 ♣ K J 10
	♠ A 8 ♥ A Q 10 7 4 ♦ A J 10 9 5 2 ♣ —

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	1 ♠	2 ♠	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
Pass	Pass

A glance at the deal discloses that 13 tricks were ironclad at either hearts or diamonds, and if North-South had not had the "advantage" of a part-score, they doubtless would have reached at least a small slam. As it was, North promptly passed to South's bid of three diamonds, and said later: "My opening bid was so light that I didn't dare go on and jeopardize the rubber,"

Actually, both North and South were too conservative. True, South showed a big hand when he cue-bid the opposing spade suit, and although his following three-diamond bid was not an absolute force, North should have responded voluntarily because of his excellent diamond support and because his minor honors in spades did not constitute real duplication of values. But South was also at fault because he timed his cue bid badly. His first duty was to show his own suits. Thus, the correct procedure was to overcall one spade with three diamonds, and, if necessary, also to show the hearts before cue-bidding the spade suit. Then if North failed to respond, the fault would be exclusively his.

Baby Your Skin

All eyes turn to a skin that has that wonderful glow. Not everyone was born with a peaches-and-cream complexion; but a wise lassie will pamper and treat her skin to the right care, and she'll be sure to in compliments.

The secret is to set aside a certain hour for your evening beauty routine and give yourself enough time. Here is one that is bound to bring results.

Before Dinner

1. Remove all makeup with cleansing cream.
2. Rest for 10 minutes in darkened room with feet up and cotton pads soaked in witch hazel over your eyelids.
3. Take a warm bath, if you can spare the time.
4. If you're going out, put a facial mask on and let it remain while you bathe. Remove mask with water—and then apply skin lotion and your makeup.

Before Bedtime

1. Brush teeth.
2. Massage scalp for at least three minutes. Brush hair at least one hundred strokes.
3. Do three to five minutes of general and special exercise.
4. Take a warm bath (skip if you had one before dinner).
5. Apply emollient cream to eye area.
6. If skin is dry, apply lubricant or night cream to face and neck. Creams containing lanolin or other rich oils moisten, soften and smooth the skin's texture.
7. Be sure room has plenty of night air circulating around so you will have proper sleeping conditions.

Lights out! And so to bed and sweet dreams!

CHRYSLER

1953 Plymouth 4 door sedan
This car is just right for town driving as it has the Hy-Drive automatic transmission and is small enough to park anywhere. Was formerly owned by a local business man. The car has low mileage, plus good tires and the motor is A-1. The two-tone paint and interior shows the excellent care it has received. The equipment includes heater, defroster, signal lights, back lights, seat covers and clock. Be sure to see and try this one at only $1095

1954 Plymouth Belvedere 4 Door
We originally sold this car and know the local owner kept it garaged and gave it regular checks. This will make a trouble free car and the two-tone paint of light blue and ivory plus the two-tone interior wil lmake you a proud owner. The equipment includes: Heater, Defroster, Signal lights, good tires and all the small accessories to make driving a pleasure. Has standard shift to give economical gas mileage. You can own a late model car for just.....$1495

CHRYSLER

1953 Plymouth 4 door sedan
This car is just right for town driving as it has the Hy-Drive automatic transmission and is small enough to park anywhere. Was formerly owned by a local business man. The car has low mileage, plus good tires and the motor is A-1. The two-tone paint and interior shows the excellent care it has received. The equipment includes heater, defroster, signal lights, back lights, seat covers and clock. Be sure to see and try this one at only $1095

1954 Plymouth Belvedere 4 Door

This will make a trouble free car and the two-tone paint of light blue and ivory plus the two-tone interior wil lmake you a proud owner. The equipment includes: Heater, Defroster, Signal lights, good tires and all the small accessories to make driving a pleasure. Has standard shift to give economical gas mileage. You can own a late model car for just..... $1495

Another fast growing field in the use of electronic tubes in dielectric heating, used for ultra-fast cooking and instantaneous setting of glues in the plywood industry.

High frequency currents provided by electronic equipment are also used in induction heating for temperature controls of metals and and in metal processing. An example is the device which allows the instantaneous hardening and tempering of gears.

"Put them in," the electricians say of the newest servants of mankind, "We'll service them."

Eight Persons Hurt In Wave Of Accidents

County Escapes New Year Fatalities

At least eight persons were injured in highway accidents in Cumberland and area over the weekend, although no fatalities were reported.

An unusual accident late Sunday night half a mile south of Ridgeley on Route 28 injured two persons and badly wrecked two cars.

Chief of Police Harry Detrick of Ridgeley said the misap occurred when Richard Leasure of 27 Ridgeway Terrace in Cumberland overturned his car on the highway.

As another motorist, Ray Easton of Bedford Street, stopped to help Leasure out of his car, which was turned sideways across the road, a third vehicle driven by Glen Elkins of Ridgeley struck the overturned car.

One Hospitalized

Detrick and Elkins was treated for a bruised forehead and leg at Memorial Hospital and was released. Easton was admitted to the hospital overnight for X-rays and observation. He went home yesterday, hospital attaches said.

Police said Leasure jumped out of the car taking the injured man to the hospital in Cumberland and had not been located last night.

Detrick said Elkins crashed into the Leasure car because a fourth man, who was a passenger in Easton's car, had attempted to flag him down and Elkins took his eyes from the road to see what the man wanted.

Trooper Charles Oliver of the West Virginia State Police said no charges have been preferred pending outcome of the probe.

Two residents of LaVale were injured about 2 a. m. Sunday when the auto in which they were riding apparently went out of control and struck a utility pole and house on Baltimore Avenue.

Officer George Furstenberg charged the driver of the car, William R. Schry Jr., 16, of Narrows Park, with reckless driving.

Hits Pole, House

Schry was traveling east on Baltimore Avenue when the vehicle left the right side of the street, crossed over to the left side and glanced off a utility pole into the porch of 448 Baltimore Avenue.

Damage to the car was estimated at $400, while damage to the porch was slight.

About 1:30 a. m. Sunday a Sand Patch, Pa., resident was hospitalized following an accident which occurred on Route 40 east of Frostburg on Barn Hill.

Admitted to Miners Hospital was George F. Meyers, 19, who according to Maryland State Police, was driving alone at the time of the accident.

Meyers, who sustained a laceration of the face and head and a back injury, was traveling west on Route 40, fell asleep, hit a bank and overturned the car.

Investigating officer was Trooper J. V. Stakem.

David Martz, 20, of 871 Fayette Street, is a patient in Sacred Heart Hospital with a laceration of his face sustained in an early morning crash Sunday which occurred on State Route 36 near Mt. Savage.

His condition last night was reported as "good." Two other occupants of the car were reported to have suffered superficial injuries. Investigating officer was Trooper Robert Wolford.

A young Pinto driver escaped injury at 10:30 p. m. yesterday when his car caught fire as he was driving along U. S. 220 at Rawlings.

Lynwood Thorne, 21, bailed out of the burning auto, which kept going till it knocked down a utility pole and burst into flames. It was practically a total loss by the time Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company could put out the blaze.

SUPERVISOR — John D. Burkett, relief operator of the Potomac Edison Company's Ridgeley sub-dispatching station, makes a test of an electronically operated supervisory control unit as A. G. Wallis, superintendent of the River plant, and Henry W. Price, (right) district manager, look on. In the lower photo, Walter Frederick Jr., construction superintendent for the company's Western Division, inspects the banks of electronic tubes and relays which operate the equipment. Designed to order by the Control Corporation of Minneapolis, the units seen here will supervise and control the company's substation at Frostburg and the Thomas Street substation which is under construction. Operating by a sequence of audio tones, the unit will read the voltage on bus bars at Frostburg and come up with the answer within 20 seconds. It will operate and close circuit breakers at substations. Red lights blink to warn the operator if circuit breakers trip and then reclose. It also gives a general station alarm if a transformer gets too hot or the oil in it gets too low, or if the supply to the substation is lost. It even checks its own operation.

Electricians Preparing For New Era Of Electronics In Area Industrial Plants

By C. WESLEY BLACKBURN
News Staff Writer

Cumberland electricians are preparing now for the blossoming of the electronic age in industry.

Industrial electronics, they say, is a relatively new field, but it is growing day by day and there is no end in sight.

All of the new industrial installations, they report, contain one or more electronic devices and they all have to be serviced.

To provide accurate information on the new electronic marvels industries are using, Local 307, Electricians Union (AFL), is sponsoring a course in industrial electronics for its journeymen and apprentice members.

Instructor for the course is Thomas J. Larkin, Potomac Park, according to George W. Lucas, business agent of the union.

Attendance of the classes, held each Wednesday night in the AFL Temple, has been averaging 20 or more, Lucas reports.

The basic course of study is provided by weekly bulletins issued by the National Joint Apprentice and Training Committee for the Electrical Industry, sponsored jointly by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL), and the National Electrical Contractors Association.

Bulletins provide practical data on the operation and service of new electronic equipment as it is placed into industrial use.

Educational films prepared by industries are being used to supplement the course of study.

Actually, there will be little mystery about the new electronic devices, since most of them involve only new applications of the familiar electronic gadgets which make your radio and television set tick.

Cumberland area industries have already adopted many electronic devices, Larkin reports.

For example, many gas furnaces in the city are equipped with electronic protector relays. The gadget consists of an electronic element for sensing flame which cuts off the gas supply whenever the pilot light goes out.

A concrete block machine operated here is equpiped with an electronic sequence control which automatically governs the sequence of operations.

One of the better known electronic controls here are the "electric eyes" which open the doors of the A&P market.

The polite gadget goes into operation as one's body interrupts a beam of light which has been shining into a photo-electric cell. When the flow of light-activated electrons stop, a relay closes and operates the door opening mechanism.

Similar applications of the "electric eye" are made in a number of offices here to ring buzzers or chimes or to turn on a light when a customer enters.

The Queen City Brewing Company uses an electronic device on its newest can machines. It is a sensing element which automatically halts the flow of beverage when containers are filled to the proper point.

Precipitrons, close relatives to the precipitators which reduce air pollution from smoke stacks, are in use in a number of offices in this area.

The power plants operated by the Potomac Edison Company and by major industrial plants use thermocouples, electronic devices, to measure temperatures at various stages in their boilers and turbines.

Similar devices are used by industrial plants located along the Potomac River to keep constant checks on water temperatures.

Electronic rectifiers are used by the Schmidt Baking Company on its conveyors to change alternating current to direct current to power motors on the conveyors.

The primary heating system for the Second National Bank is controlled automatically by electronic controls which are in turn controlled by outside temperatures. The device can be set to increase inside temperatures at a predetermined rate, say from one to two degrees, for each degree of drop on the outside.

The home of S. Russ Minter, local architect, is also controlled electronically according to outside temperatures. Experts say it is a beautiful setup—there are no parts to wear out.

The vault of the Second National Bank is protected by a sound wave system. Microphones would detect the sound of an attempted entry, such as a hammer blow on an outside wall, and set off an alarm.

Several industrial plants use electronic tachometers to measure the speed of machines where pre-

Collection Of Christmas Trees Starts Wednesday

C. L. Beck, city garbage contractor, yesterday announced the following schedule for collection of Christmas trees:

Wednesday — West Side; Thursday—North End, East Side; Friday—South End; Sunday, January 8—West Side; Monday—North End; East Side; Tuesday—South End.

No trees will be collected before Wednesday night, Beck said, adding that trees should be placed at the curb next to garbage cans.

Beck asked that all residents follow the listed schedule for tree collections. He said this will be the only collection, since an extra truck is required for the job.

More Marriage Licenses Issued Here In 1955

2,817 Tops 1954 By Seven Per Cent

Spurted ahead with the marrying-est December in four years, some 2,817 marriage licenses were issued during 1955 in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, an increase of almost seven per cent above the 2,634 issued in the previous year.

During December 269 licenses were issued by Boden's office, making it the fourth best month of the year. It was topped only by the three summer months. There were 319 each obtained in June and August, and 271 in July. The best previous December was in 1951 when 283 were issued.

In nine of the 12 months last year more marriage licenses were issued here than in the corresponding month of 1954. The exceptions were March, May and July. February was the worst month for marriage licenses when only 154 were issued.

As usual Pennsylvania was best represented among those who came here with marriage in mind although the 35 per cent of Marylanders in the total was somewhat higher than normal. A. W. Hedrick, chief of the Division of Vital Statistics of the State Health Department, said some time ago that only about 23 per cent of those who get marriage licenses in Allegany County are Maryland residents. The non-resident percentage is topped only by Cecil and Garrett among Maryland's 23 counties.

About 45 per cent of those who obtained marriage licenses last month were Pennsylvanians, another 10 per cent came from West Virginia, five per cent from Ohio and the remaining five per cent from 10 other states—Virginia, New York, Texas, Missouri, Michigan, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Kansas, Florida and North Carolina.

Miss Phyllis Copeland, marriage license clerk in Boden's office, reports the following monthly totals for the past two years. The 1954 figure is listed first and the 1955 figure second in each case.

January, 150 and 180; February, 146 and 154; March, 181 and 180; April, 220 and 223; May, 222 and 221; June, 292 and 319; July, 309 and 271; August, 261 and 319; September, 225 and 228; October, 210 and 245; November, 202 and 208; December, 216 and 269.

New Year Has Double Duty Days

This new year of 1956 might be called a year of "Double Feature" days.

The reason is that a number of events observed on the same day each year coincide this year with certain movable holidays.

Chief among them is Easter Sunday, which this year falls on April 1. As everyone knows April 1 is traditionally recognized as All Fool's Day or April Fools' Day. This is the first time since 1945 that Easter has fallen on April 1 since 1945 and the last time it will happen in the 20th Century. April 1 also was Easter Day in 1923 and 1934.

A number of other movable dates governed by Easter also fall on days recognized for some other significance.

January 29, for instance, was President William McKinley's birthday (1843) and also is Septuagesium, the third Sunday before Lent. February 12, besides being President Abraham Lincoln's birthday (1809) also is Quinquagesima, the last Sunday before Lent.

February 14, which is St. Valentine's Day, also is Shrove Tuesday this year, the day before Lent starts. Another "Double Feature" day is May 13, Mother's Day and the Sunday after Ascension.

To Collect Yule Trees

Stores Open Until 9

Stores in Cumberland will remain open until 9 p. m. today, due to their being closed yesterday in observance of New Year's.

Dashiell In Hospital

Edgar A. Dashiell, 24 Washington Street, is a patient at Memorial Hospital with virus pneumonia.

Happy New Year!

Diane Roberta Ritchie, first baby to be born in Cumberland in 1956, greets the new year and her mother with a wide-awake look. Diane, who weighed in at five pounds, 14 ounces, was born at 3:39 a. m. Sunday to W. Elwood and Anna (Mace) Ritchie, 11 North Lee Street, who are the parents of two other daughters, 10 and 12 years old.

Noted Clergyman-Author To Conduct Services Here

Dr. Clovis G. Chappell, well-known retired Waverly, Tenn. minister, will conduct prayer services each evening next week at Second Baptist Church, Grand Avenue and Oldtown Road.

In addition to the daily evening services at the church Dr. Chappell also has speaking engagements at various other places in the city.

The South Cumberland Ministerial Association is sponsoring the program and each evening's service will be conducted by various ministers in the group. All the evening prayer services will begin at 7:30 p. m. at Second Baptist Church.

Rev. Arthur Scrogum, pastor of Living Stone Church of the Brethren, will be in charge of the initial evening program Sunday. Special music will be provided with each evening service. James Hager will sing two solos during Sunday's program.

Other speaking engagements scheduled by Dr. Chappell include a men's banquet at St. John's Lutheran Church Monday at 6 p. m.; women's luncheon at Grace Methodist Church, Tuesday at noon; an adress at a senior assembly at Fort Hill High School, Wednesday at 9:45 a. m.; an address to the Student Christian Association at Frostburg State Teachers College, Thursday at 5 p. m., and a visit to a senior assembly at Allegany High School Friday at 10:45 a. m.

Dr. Chappell retired in 1949 and is devoting his time to speaking assignments and to writing. He is the author of more than 20 books. Among the better known ones are "In Parables," "The Seven Last Words," "Anointed to Preach," "Chappell's Special-Day Sermons," "Faces About the Cross," and "Ten Rules for Living."

During 41 years of service as an active pastor Dr. Chappell held pastorates at Epworth Church, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Highland Park Church, Dallas, Tex.; Mt. Vernon Place Church, Washington, D. C.; First Church, Memphis, Tenn.; First Church, Houston, Tex.; First Church, Birmingham, Ala.; St. Luke's Church, Oklahoma City; Galloway Memorial Church, Jackson, Miss., and First Methodist Church, Charlotte, N. Boys Nabbed On Fireworks Charge

An 18-year-old youth and two juvenile boys were arrested here Saturday night after being caught discharging firecrackers in South End.

They were charged with violation of Chapter 14, Section 24 of the City Code by Officer E. Gordon Hite.

The oldest of the three boys will be given a hearing today in Police Court, while the two juveniles will be taken to the Juvenile Court for a hearing Saturday.

The two younger boys were placed in the custody of their parents, Officer Hite said.

Seal Returns Hit $16,212 For 1955

Returns from the 1955 Christmas Seal sale have reached $16,212.12, Glenn K. Davis, chairman, announced.

Of the total, $713.75 was received last week. Officials of the Allegany-Garrett Tuberculosis Association stated that follow-up letters have been mailed to patrons who have not returned their contributions.

In the breakdown, the Allegany County total is $14,063.42; Cumberland, $11,304.62; Frostburg, $1,859.80; Westernport, $899, and Garrett County, $1,935.69.

Miss Jean Reinhard, executive secretary of the association, said that because of duplications in the mailing list, many persons will get more than one letter. If these errors are reported immediately the mailing list can be corrected, she added.

The follow-up letters are in the form of a report to the association if contribution has been mailed, or if duplications were sent, and any corrections of names and adresses which may be made.

The association mailed 38,741 letters this year, 1,263 fewer than in 1955.

Optimists To Hear District Governor

Russell Reinhart of Washington, district governor for Optimist International, will address the Cumberland Optimist Club at 6:15 p. m. Wednesday at Central YMCA.

David L. Miller, president of the local club, said Lloyd Stup of Frederick, district lieutenant-governor, will accompany Reinhart to Cumberland. District 16 over which Reinhart serves as governor includes all Optimist clubs in Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia and some in the eastern portion of West Virginia.

15 Killed On Md. Highways Over HolidayWeekend

Toll Higher Than Christmas Period

[By The Associated Press]

Maryland, running counter to the national trend, chalked up a New Year's weekend traffic toll of 15 dead—five more than were slain on the highways over the Christmas weekend period.

The official tabulation of holiday highway dead began at 6 p.m. Friday and continued until midnight Monday.

A 19-year-old Baltimore girl, Alen Desshoff, died late New Year's Eve of injuries incurred earlier in the day when she was hit by a fuel truck driven by Edward Simpson, 27, also of Baltimore.

Fatality Follows Crash

Simpson was involved in a collision with a car driven by Helen M. Harmon, 23, of Pikesville. After the cars met at an intersection of Reisterstown Road, Simpson's truck continued north and struck the 19-year-old girl as she attempted to cross the street.

She was taken to Lutheran Hospital where she later died.

An auto-train collision Monday morning at a Pennsylvania Railroad crossing at Cedar Lane, two miles south of Salisbury, resulted in the death of Mrs. Anna Hitchens, 49, a practical nurse who lived at Fruitland.

Didn't See Train

Her husband, Rueben H. Hitchens, 49, a chicken farmer, was thrown from the car by the impact and seriously injured. The couple's pet dog was so badly hurt that State Police had to shoot it on the spot.

Train crewmen said they saw the car drive up on the tracks as though the driver did not see the oncoming train.

Seven of the weekend deaths were recorded between the start of the statistical period Friday evening and midnight Dec. 31, raising Maryland's highway death toll for 1955 to 508. In 1954, auto deaths totaled 522.

The weekend list of auto victims included;

MONDAY

Mrs. Anna Hitchens, 49, of Fruitland, in a train-auto collision at Cedar Lane, two miles south of Salisbury.

SUNDAY

Joseph Andrew Jackson, 20, of Tall Timbers, near his home in a head-on collision.

Donald Lee Browning, 19, Silver Spring, when his car hit some trees.

John Elmer Lemmons, 25, Negro, a sailor stationed at the Naval Academy, when his car struck a parked car on Ritchie Highway.

Joseph Gelazela, 75, Baltimore, struck at an intersection.

Joseph E. Watts, 30, Negro, when his cab hit a pole.

SATURDAY

Paul I. Donaldson, 18, and Raphael C. Knott, 21, both of Washington, when their car left Maryland 214 near Largo and struck a tree.

Startling Franklin Rickett, 17, Accokeek, when his car left Maryland 228 and overturned in a ditch.

Eleanor Ross, 45, Negro, Baltimore, struck by a car at an intersection.

FRIDAY

Roland Coker, 40, Negro, Baltimore, struck by a taxi which jumped a curb after colliding with another car.

Woman Visits Parents Here Following Fire

Miss Teresa Jane Crites, 25-year old local woman who escaped a fire which destroyed a 19-unit apartment building in Hagerstown Friday night, is spending the holidays at the home of her mother, Mrs. Mary Kerr, 433 Arch Street.

Miss Crites, at first reported missing in the fire, later told authorities she was visiting in Washington at the time of the alarm.

Miss Crites and another Cumberland girl, Miss Janet Crossland, shared an apartment in the Hagerstown building and work at Fairchild aircraft plant near Hagerstown.

Mrs. Kerr last night said her daughter lost all her belongings in the fire. She expects to return to work after her holiday visit here.

Miss Crossland was visiting her parents here on Humbird Street at the time.

Babson Predicts:

Ike To Be Re-Elected; Business To Continue Good

By ROGER W. BABSON

1. If no unforeseen event happens, President Eisenhower will be renominated and re-elected in 1956.

2. The Republican party has an excellent chance of winning in 1956 with President Eisenhower making a few key speeches and promising to be an active part of the administration. He is trained to take responsibility and enjoys it; but the President should be relieved of speech making, entertaining, and much of the detail work which goes with being president.

3. Competition will be very severe in 1956, and with few exceptions will cause business profits to be less in 1956 than in 1955. Too many manufacturers, not satisfied with their present good business, are starting to make other products and undercut standard prices.

4. Higher wages may also be expected in 1956, and these could reduce profits. These higher wages, however, will largely be spent and should increase retail sales.

5. Increased advertising appropriations will be seen in 1956. In fact, advertising appropriations for newspapers, magazines, television, radio, and billboards have helped our prosperity, or it would not have lasted through 1955.

6. The recent policy of the money managers in the direction of "squeeze" will be shifted to "ease" sometime in 1956. This reversal could put a floor under any business decline that may start this year.

7. Liberal credits to the purchasers of houses, automobiles, washing machines, televisions, and various other things have bolstered prosperity and will continue to be a strong support to many industries, through 1956 at least.

8. If the Republicans are re-elected in 1956, great sums will continue to be spent on research and new plant expansion. The effect could well be another "turn up" in the Babsonchart Index of Business.

9. Despite the decline in family formations, the baby boom will roll merrily on through 1956. The reason: More parents are willing to have four, five, and even more youngsters. The result: A tremendous, sustained demand for all kinds of necessities—housing, food, clothing, new schools, etc.

10. All told, I look for 1956 to be the second best business year in history—just a shade off from 1955. Predicted declines in the key auto and residential building industries will largely be offset by rising expenditures for roads, sewers, and schools—and by increased demand for electricity, natural gas, and foods.

Real Estate

11. The main handicap to retail business in 1956 will be intensification of the parking nuisance, but this is getting so terrible that a revolutionary solution may be in sight. Shopping centers are a partial remedy and will help suburban property. But only 15 per cent of the people will live in the suburbs in 1956.

12. Cities will condemn old buildings and provide thousands of parking lots in 1956. As this is done, city property will again come back. Until then we see no price improvement during 1956 in city business property.

13. Building costs will average higher through at least the first half of 1956. This means that fewer new homes may be built this year.

14. With demand falling and money more expensive, speculative builders of new homes will have to watch their step more closely in 1956 than in any year since the ending of World War II.

15. Duplex dwellings will probably continue in demand through the whole of 1956 if they are well located. The limiting of rents will probably be totally abolished during 1956.

16. With the trend of vacancies showing a tendency to rise, owners of the newer and more costly apartment buildings will find their profit margin squeezed harder in 1956 than at any time in recent years.

Eight Persons Hurt In Wave Of Accidents

County Escapes New Year Fatalities

At least eight persons were injured in highway accidents in Cumberland and area over the weekend, although no fatalities were reported.

An unusual accident late Sunday night half a mile south of Ridgeley on Route 28 injured two persons and badly wrecked two cars.

Chief of Police Harry Detrick of Ridgeley said the misap occurred when Richard Leasure of 27 Ridgeway Terrace in Cumberland overturned his car on the highway.

As another motorist, Ray Easton of Bedford Street, stopped to help Leasure out of his car, which was turned sideways across the road, a third vehicle driven by Glen Elkins of Ridgeley struck the overturned car.

One Hospitalized

Detrick and Elkins was treated for a bruised forehead and leg at Memorial Hospital and was released. Easton was admitted to the hospital overnight for X-rays and observation. He went home yesterday, hospital attaches said.

Police said Leasure jumped out of the car taking the injured man to the hospital in Cumberland and had not been located last night.

Detrick said Elkins crashed into the Leasure car because a fourth man, who was a passenger in Easton's car, had attempted to flag him down and Elkins took his eyes from the road to see what the man wanted.

Trooper Charles Oliver of the West Virginia State Police said no charges have been preferred pending outcome of the probe.

Two residents of LaVale were injured about 2 a. m. Sunday when the auto in which they were riding apparently went out of control and struck a utility pole and house on Baltimore Avenue.

The injured persons were Ronnie Eisentrout, 17, who sustained a left knee and head injury and was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital, and Ray Ogden, 16, who suffered a right knee and head injury.

Officer George Furstenberg charged the driver of the car, William R. Schry Jr., 16, of Narrows Park, with reckless driving.

Hits Pole, House

Schry was traveling east on Baltimore Avenue when the vehicle left the right side of the street, crossed over to the left side and glanced off a utility pole into the porch of 448 Baltimore Avenue.

Damage to the car was estimated at $400, while damage to the porch was slight.

About 1:30 a. m. Sunday a Sand Patch, Pa., resident was hospitalized following an accident which occurred on Route 40 east of Frostburg on Barn Hill.

Admitted to Miners Hospital was George F. Meyers, 19, who according to Maryland State Police, was driving alone at the time of the accident.

Meyers, who sustained a laceration of the face and head and a back injury, was traveling west on Route 40, fell asleep, hit a bank and overturned the car.

Investigating officer was Trooper J. V. Stakem.

David Martz, 20, of 871 Fayette Street, is a patient in Sacred Heart Hospital with a laceration of his face sustained in an early morning crash Sunday which occurred on State Route 36 near Mt. Savage.

His condition last night was reported as "good." Two other occupants of the car were reported to have suffered superficial injuries. Investigating officer was Trooper Robert Wolford.

A young Pinto driver escaped injury at 10:30 p. m. yesterday when his car caught fire as he was driving along U. S. 220 at Rawlings.

Lynwood Thorne, 21, bailed out of the burning auto, which kept going till it knocked down a utility pole and burst into flames. It was practically a total loss by the time Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company could put out the blaze.

SUPERVISOR — John D. Burkett, relief operator of the Potomac Edison Company's Ridgeley sub-dispatching station, makes a test of an electronically operated supervisory control unit as A. G. Wallis, superintendent of the River plant, and Henry W. Price, (right) district manager, look on. In the lower photo, Walter Frederick Jr., construction superintendent for the company's Western Division, inspects the banks of electronic tubes and relays which operate the equipment. Designed to order by the Control Corporation of Minneapolis, the units seen here will supervise and control the company's substation at Frostburg and the Thomas Street substation which is under construction. Operating by a sequence of audio tones, the unit will read the voltage on bus bars at Frostburg and come up with the answer within 20 seconds. It will operate and close circuit breakers at substations. Red lights blink to warn the operator if circuit breakers trip and then reclose. It also gives a general station alarm if a transformer gets too hot or the oil in it gets too low, or if the supply to the substation is lost. It even checks its own operation.

Electricians Preparing For New Era Of Electronics In Area Industrial Plants

By C. WESLEY BLACKBURN
News Staff Writer

Cumberland electricians are preparing now for the blossoming of the electronic age in industry.

Industrial electronics, they say, is a relatively new field, but it is growing day by day and there is no end in sight.

All of the new industrial installations, they report, contain one or more electronic devices and they all have to be serviced.

To provide accurate information on the new electronic marvels industries are using, Local 307, Electricians Union (AFL), is sponsoring a course in industrial electronics for its journeymen and apprentice members.

Instructor for the course is Thomas J. Larkin, Potomac Park, according to George W. Lucas, business agent of the union.

Attendance of the classes, held each Wednesday night in the AFL Temple, has been averaging 20 or more, Lucas reports.

The basic course of study is provided by weekly bulletins issued by the National Joint Apprentice and Training Committee for the Electrical Industry, sponsored jointly by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL), and the National Electrical Contractors Association.

Bulletins provide practical data on the operation and service of new electronic equipment as it is placed into industrial use.

Educational films prepared by industries are being used to supplement the course of study.

Actually, there will be little mystery about the new electronic devices, since most of them involve only new applications of the familiar electronic gadgets which make your radio and television set tick.

Cumberland area industries have already adopted many electronic devices, Larkin reports.

For example, many gas furnaces in the city are equipped with electronic protector relays. The gadget consists of an electronic element for sensing flame which cuts off the gas supply whenever the pilot light goes out.

A concrete block machine operated here is equpiped with an electronic sequence control which automatically governs the sequence of operations.

One of the better known electronic controls here are the "electric eyes" which open the doors of the A&P market.

The polite gadget goes into operation as one's body interrupts a beam of light which has been shining into a photo-electric cell. When the flow of light-activated electrons stop, a relay closes and operates the door opening mechanism.

Similar applications of the "electric eye" are made in a number of offices here to ring buzzers or chimes or to turn on a light when a customer enters.

The Queen City Brewing Company uses an electronic device on its newest can machines. It is a sensing element which automatically halts the flow of beverage when containers are filled to the proper point.

Precipitrons, close relatives to the precipitators which reduce air pollution from smoke stacks, are in use in a number of offices in this area.

The power plants operated by the Potomac Edison Company and by major industrial plants use thermocouples, electronic devices, to measure temperatures at various stages in their boilers and turbines.

Similar devices are used by industrial plants located along the Potomac River to keep constant checks on water temperatures.

Electronic rectifiers are used by the Schmidt Baking Company on its conveyors to change alternating current to direct current to power motors on the conveyors.

The primary heating system for the Second National Bank is controlled automatically by electronic controls which are in turn controlled by outside temperatures. The device can be set to increase inside temperatures at a predetermined rate, say from one to two degrees, for each degree of drop on the outside.

The home of S. Russ Minter, local architect, is also controlled electronically according to outside temperatures. Experts say it is a beautiful setup—there are no parts to wear out.

The vault of the Second National Bank is protected by a sound wave system. Microphones would detect the sound of an attempted entry, such as a hammer blow on an outside wall, and set off an alarm.

Several industrial plants use electronic tachometers to measure the speed of machines where pre-

Collection Of Christmas Trees Starts Wednesday

C. L. Beck, city garbage contractor, yesterday announced the following schedule for collection of Christmas trees:

Wednesday — West Side; Thursday—North End, East Side; Friday—South End; Sunday, January 8—West Side; Monday—North End; East Side; Tuesday—South End.

No trees will be collected before Wednesday night, Beck said, adding that trees should be placed at the curb next to garbage cans.

Beck asked that all residents follow the listed schedule for tree collections. He said this will be the only collection, since an extra truck is required for the job.

More Marriage Licenses Issued Here In 1955

2,817 Tops 1954 By Seven Per Cent

Spurted ahead with the marrying-est December in four years, some 2,817 marriage licenses were issued during 1955 in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, an increase of almost seven per cent above the 2,634 issued in the previous year.

During December 269 licenses were issued by Boden's office, making it the fourth best month of the year. It was topped only by the three summer months. There were 319 each obtained in June and August, and 271 in July. The best previous December was in 1951 when 283 were issued.

In nine of the 12 months last year more marriage licenses were issued here than in the corresponding month of 1954. The exceptions were March, May and July. February was the worst month for marriage licenses when only 154 were issued.

As usual Pennsylvania was best represented among those who came here with marriage in mind although the 35 per cent of Marylanders in the total was somewhat higher than normal. A. W. Hedrick, chief of the Division of Vital Statistics of the State Health Department, said some time ago that only about 23 per cent of those who get marriage licenses in Allegany County are Maryland residents. The non-resident percentage is topped only by Cecil and Garrett among Maryland's 23 counties.

About 45 per cent of those who obtained marriage licenses last month were Pennsylvanians, another 10 per cent came from West Virginia, five per cent from Ohio and the remaining five per cent from 10 other states—Virginia, New York, Texas, Missouri, Michigan, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Kansas, Florida and North Carolina.

Miss Phyllis Copeland, marriage license clerk in Boden's office, reports the following monthly totals for the past two years. The 1954 figure is listed first and the 1955 figure second in each case.

January, 150 and 180; February, 146 and 154; March, 181 and 180; April, 220 and 223; May, 222 and 221; June, 292 and 319; July, 309 and 271; August, 261 and 319; September, 225 and 228; October, 210 and 245; November, 202 and 208; December, 216 and 269.

New Year Has Double Duty Days

This new year of 1956 might be called a year of "Double Feature" days.

The reason is that a number of events observed on the same day each year coincide this year with certain movable holidays.

Chief among them is Easter Sunday, which this year falls on April 1. As everyone knows April 1 is traditionally recognized as All Fool's Day or April Fools' Day. This is the first time since 1945 that Easter has fallen on April 1 since 1945 and the last time it will happen in the 20th Century. April 1 also was Easter Day in 1923 and 1934.

A number of other movable dates governed by Easter also fall on days recognized for some other significance.

January 29, for instance, was President William McKinley's birthday (1843) and also is Septuagesium, the third Sunday before Lent. February 12, besides being President Abraham Lincoln's birthday (1809) also is Quinquagesima, the last Sunday before Lent.

February 14, which is St. Valentine's Day, also is Shrove Tuesday this year, the day before Lent starts. Another "Double Feature" day is May 13, Mother's Day and the Sunday after Ascension.

Happy New Year!

Diane Roberta Ritchie, first baby to be born in Cumberland in 1956, greets the new year and her mother with a wide-awake look. Diane, who weighed in at five pounds, 14 ounces, was born at 3:39 a. m. Sunday to W. Elwood and Anna (Mace) Ritchie, 11 North Lee Street, who are the parents of two other daughters, 10 and 12 years old.

Noted Clergyman-Author To Conduct Services Here

Dr. Clovis G. Chappell, well-known retired Waverly, Tenn. minister, will conduct prayer services each evening next week at Second Baptist Church, Grand Avenue and Oldtown Road.

In addition to the daily evening services at the church Dr. Chappell also has speaking engagements at various other places in the city.

The South Cumberland Ministerial Association is sponsoring the program and each evening's service will be conducted by various ministers in the group. All the evening prayer services will begin at 7:30 p. m. at Second Baptist Church.

Rev. Arthur Scrogum, pastor of Living Stone Church of the Brethren, will be in charge of the initial evening program Sunday. Special music will be provided with each evening service. James Hager will sing two solos during Sunday's program.

Other speaking engagements scheduled by Dr. Chappell include a men's banquet at St. John's Lutheran Church Monday at 6 p. m.; women's luncheon at Grace Methodist Church, Tuesday at noon; an adress at a senior assembly at Fort Hill High School, Wednesday at 9:45 a. m.; an address to the Student Christian Association at Frostburg State Teachers College, Thursday at 5 p. m., and a visit to a senior assembly at Allegany High School Friday at 10:45 a. m.

Dr. Chappell retired in 1949 and is devoting his time to speaking assignments and to writing. He is the author of more than 20 books. Among the better known ones are "In Parables," "The Seven Last Words," "Anointed to Preach," "Chappell's Special-Day Sermons," "Faces About the Cross," and "Ten Rules for Living."

During 41 years of service as an active pastor Dr. Chappell held pastorates at Epworth Church, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Highland Park Church, Dallas, Tex.; Mt. Vernon Place Church, Washington, D. C.; First Church, Memphis, Tenn.; First Church, Houston, Tex.; First Church, Birmingham, Ala.; St. Luke's Church, Oklahoma City; Galloway Memorial Church, Jackson, Miss., and First Methodist Church, Charlotte, N. Seal Returns Hit $16,212 For 1955

Returns from the 1955 Christmas Seal sale have reached $16,212.12, Glenn K. Davis, chairman, announced.

Of the total, $713.75 was received last week. Officials of the Allegany-Garrett Tuberculosis Association stated that follow-up letters have been mailed to patrons who have not returned their contributions.

In the breakdown, the Allegany County total is $14,063.42; Cumberland, $11,304.62; Frostburg, $1,859.80; Westernport, $899, and Garrett County, $1,935.69.

Miss Jean Reinhard, executive secretary of the association, said that because of duplications in the mailing list, many persons will get more than one letter. If these errors are reported immediately the mailing list can be corrected, she added.

The follow-up letters are in the form of a report to the association if contribution has been mailed, or if duplications were sent, and any corrections of names and adresses which may be made.

The association mailed 38,741 letters this year, 1,263 fewer than in 1955.

Optimists To Hear District Governor

Russell Reinhart of Washington, district governor for Optimist International, will address the Cumberland Optimist Club at 6:15 p. m. Wednesday at Central YMCA.

David L. Miller, president of the local club, said Lloyd Stup of Frederick, district lieutenant-governor, will accompany Reinhart to Cumberland. District 16 over which Reinhart serves as governor includes all Optimist clubs in Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia and some in the eastern portion of West Virginia.

15 Killed On Md. Highways Over HolidayWeekend

Toll Higher Than Christmas Period

[By The Associated Press]

Maryland, running counter to the national trend, chalked up a New Year's weekend traffic toll of 15 dead—five more than were slain on the highways over the Christmas weekend period.

The official tabulation of holiday highway dead began at 6 p.m. Friday and continued until midnight Monday.

A 19-year-old Baltimore girl, Alen Desshoff, died late New Year's Eve of injuries incurred earlier in the day when she was hit by a fuel truck driven by Edward Simpson, 27, also of Baltimore.

Fatality Follows Crash

Simpson was involved in a collision with a car driven by Helen M. Harmon, 23, of Pikesville. After the cars met at an intersection of Reisterstown Road, Simpson's truck continued north and struck the 19-year-old girl as she attempted to cross the street.

She was taken to Lutheran Hospital where she later died.

An auto-train collision Monday morning at a Pennsylvania Railroad crossing at Cedar Lane, two miles south of Salisbury, resulted in the death of Mrs. Anna Hitchens, 49, a practical nurse who lived at Fruitland.

Didn't See Train

Her husband, Rueben H. Hitchens, 49, a chicken farmer, was thrown from the car by the impact and seriously injured. The couple's pet dog was so badly hurt that State Police had to shoot it on the spot.

Train crewmen said they saw the car drive up on the tracks as though the driver did not see the oncoming train.

Seven of the weekend deaths were recorded between the start of the statistical period Friday evening and midnight Dec. 31, raising Maryland's highway death toll for 1955 to 508. In 1954, auto deaths totaled 522.

The weekend list of auto victims included:

MONDAY

Mrs. Anna Hitchens, 49, of Fruitland, in a train-auto collision at Cedar Lane, two miles south of Salisbury.

SUNDAY

Joseph Andrew Jackson, 20, of Tall Timbers, near his home in a head-on collision.

Donald Lee Browning, 19, Silver Spring, when his car hit some trees.

John Elmer Lemmons, 25, Negro, a sailor stationed at the Naval Academy, when his car struck a parked car on Ritchie Highway.

Joseph Gelazela, 75, Baltimore, struck at an intersection.

Stanley Lease, 64, Princess Anne, died of shock and exposure after being found unconscious in a water-filled ditch, where he apparently fell after getting out of his wrecked truck.

Joseph E. Watts, 30, Negro, when his cab hit a pole.

SATURDAY

Paul I. Donaldson, 18, and Raphael C. Knott, 21, both of Washington, when their car left Maryland 214 near Largo and struck a tree.

Casper Ansalvish, 62, and Mrs. Reba Ansalvish, 65, Aberdeen, when their car collided with another on U.S. 40.

Startling Franklin Rickett, 17, Accokeek, when his car left Maryland 228 and overturned in a ditch.

Eleanor Ross, 45, Negro, Baltimore, struck by a car at an intersection.

FRIDAY

Roland Coker, 40, Negro, Baltimore, struck by a taxi which jumped a curb after colliding with another car.

Woman Visits Parents Here Following Fire

Miss Teresa Jane Crites, 25-year old local woman who escaped a fire which destroyed a 19-unit apartment building in Hagerstown Friday night, is spending the holidays at the home of her mother, Mrs. Mary Kerr, 433 Arch Street.

Miss Crites, at first reported missing in the fire, later told authorities she was visiting in Washington at the time of the alarm.

Miss Crites and another Cumberland girl, Miss Janet Crossland, shared an apartment in the Hagerstown building and work at Fairchild aircraft plant near Hagerstown.

Mrs. Kerr last night said her daughter lost all her belongings in the fire. She expects to return to work after her holiday visit here.

Miss Crossland was visiting her parents here on Humbird Street at the time.

Babson Predicts:

Ike To Be Re-Elected; Business To Continue Good

By ROGER W. BABSON

1. If no unforeseen event happens, President Eisenhower will be renominated and re-elected in 1956.

2. The Republican party has an excellent chance of winning in 1956 with President Eisenhower making a few key speeches and promising to be an active part of the administration. He is trained to take responsibility and enjoys it; but the President should be relieved of speech making, entertaining, and much of the detail work which goes with being president.

3. Competition will be very severe in 1956, and with few exceptions will cause business profits to be less in 1956 than in 1955. Too many manufacturers, not satisfied with their present good business, are starting to make other products and undercut standard prices.

4. Higher wages may also be expected in 1956, and these could reduce profits. These higher wages, however, will largely be spent and should increase retail sales.

5. Increased advertising appropriations will be seen in 1956. In fact, advertising appropriations for newspapers, magazines, television, radio, and billboards have helped our prosperity, or it would not have lasted through 1955.

6. The recent policy of the money managers in the direction of "squeeze" will be shifted to "ease" sometime in 1956. This reversal could put a floor under any business decline that may start this year.

7. Liberal credits to the purchasers of houses, automobiles, washing machines, televisions, and various other things have bolstered prosperity and will continue to be a strong support to many industries, through 1956 at least.

8. If the Republicans are re-elected in 1956, great sums will continue to be spent on research and new plant expansion. The effect could well be another "turn up" in the Babsonchart Index of Business.

9. Despite the decline in family formations, the baby boom will roll merrily on through 1956. The reason: More parents are willing to have four, five, and even more youngsters. The result: A tremendous, sustained demand for all kinds of necessities—housing, food, clothing, new schools, etc.

10. All told, I look for 1956 to be the second best business year in history—just a shade off from 1955. Predicted declines in the key auto and residential building industries will largely be offset by rising expenditures for roads, sewers, and schools—and by increased demand for electricity, natural gas, and foods.

Real Estate

11. The main handicap to retail business in 1956 will be intensification of the parking nuisance, but this is getting so terrible that a revolutionary solution may be in sight. Shopping centers are a partial remedy and will help suburban property. But only 15 per cent of the people will live in the suburbs in 1956.

12. Cities will condemn old buildings and provide thousands of parking lots in 1956. As this is done, city property will again come back. Until then we see no price improvement during 1956 in city business property.

13. Building costs will average higher through at least the first half of 1956. This means that fewer new homes may be built this year.

14. With demand falling and money more expensive, speculative builders of new homes will have to watch their step more closely in 1956 than in any year since the ending of World War II.

15. Duplex dwellings will probably continue in demand through the whole of 1956 if they are well located. The limiting of rents will probably be totally abolished during 1956.

16. With the trend of vacancies showing a tendency to rise, owners of the newer and more costly apartment buildings will find their profit margin squeezed harder in 1956 than at any time in recent years.
